What to Give.
Spies Not Needed.
What Kind of Dollars?
Her Bullet-Proof Car.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WHAT TO select for Christmas gifts is the question that millions are asking, even now when Christmas shopping should be finished.

These suggestions are offered: Children should get toys, and don't tell them that there is no Santa Claus. Nobody interferes with your pleasant superstitions and comforting beliefs.

To a woman past fifty, give something ornamental, jewelry, a piece of fur, a fine piece of lace, something to make it clear that you wish to give pleasure. Do not imitate the farmer and his sons in Davenport's cartoon, that gave the wife and mother a new ax to chop wood.

INCLUDE AMONG your gifts something that will be remembered, something of which the recipient will say ten, twenty years hence, "This was given to me by so and so on Christmas, 1933."

A substantial piece of furniture, comfortable sofa or arm chair, a rug, or a table will do.

Remember also the importance of teaching young people to use their hands; a piano, a violin or other musical instrument will do that.

Henry Ford wisely advises parents that their children should learn to create music, not merely listen to it. To give a piano is to establish a center around which the family will gather for years to come, and there is always "somebody who plays the piano."

TWO AMERICANS, Mr. and Mrs. Switz, and two Canadians, Mr. and Mrs. Bercowitz, with others, including several women and Frenchmen, are arrested in Paris as members of "a huge international ring of spies operating in France." The spies are supposed to have revealed the plans of French frontier forts.

When the next war comes French frontier forts, like our coast defense guns, will not be important, and spies will not be very valuable.

It needs no spy to point out the big cities, Paris, London, Berlin, and war planes would fly straight to those big cities.

WASHINGTON SAYS this year's farm crops are valued by the Department of Agriculture at four thousand and seventy-six million dollars.

Last year's crops were worth only two thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine million dollars. A big improvement, but some, hard to please, will ask:

"WHAT KIND OF DOLLARS?"

THE POSSESSIONS of the late Texas Guinan are sold at auction. The jewelry and other things on which the late night club expert concentrated her interest amount to little.

But there was one most interesting item in the auction, the "Texas Guinan bullet-proof limousine."

That car in which the lady who knew the underworld of New York and other places and the character of night club habitues, was built so that bullets could not hurt those that traveled inside of it.

The glass and the metal of the limousine were bullet-proof. She knew that her night crowd did not all come under her favorite heading, "Hello, sucker."

THE DALAI LAMA, supreme religious head of the Buddhists of Tibet and other Buddhist populations in Asia, is dead, aged 60.

His followers believe that he is a reincarnation of the original Buddha, the young Prince Gautama, who left his dancing girls, his new wife and baby, and went into the world to make it better.

A small boy, carefully selected, will take the place of the lama, whose spirit is supposed to take up its residence in the boy's body. Tibetan Buddhists believe that the lama is not dead, and has simply "discarded his mortal envelope to be born again."

How interesting if that should happen to all of us and let us watch this earth in its future career of hundreds of millions of years.

GOV. MYERS, of the Federal Farm Credit Administration, says foreclosures of American farm mortgages have practically stopped, and that stoppage will be permanent.

Farmers will be glad of that news, and taxpayers will hope that the government will meet some obligations by printing some nice new money, rather than keep pouring out bonds on which somebody must pay interest.

The total expense of the United States government used to be five hundred millions a year. Now the interest on bonds alone amounts to a thousand million dollars a year.

A DROP in stocks at this time of the year does not mean that stocks are less valuable. It means that many are trying to sell stocks all at once to "take losses" to offset income tax charges.

Many, thirty days later, in accordance with the provisions of the law, will buy the stocks back. Then they will go up again, unless something else happens.

A manufacturer of patent medicine was asked:

"Do people in a depression doctor themselves with patent medicines to save the cost of real doctors? And make your business better?"

He replied:

"They would, but in a depression people eat less, and more wisely, there is less indigestion and other troubles and both doctors and patent medicines suffer."

That interests life insurance companies.

Pittsburgh Couple's Marriage Surprise

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM BLACKSTOCK RODGERS . . NEWLYWEDS

The newlywed Rodgerses, married yesterday in New York—just two days after Mrs. Rodgers' Pittsburgh divorce from Bennett Rodgers, her bridegroom's brother, was handed down by the court in Pittsburgh. This picture was made within the past few days.

RELEASE NEAR, DIES IN JAIL

Only a few minutes before he would have been released on bail, Charles McIntyre, 32, of 210 Murray avenue, Carnegie, died in the County Jail today.

His brother, John, also of Carnegie, went to the District Attorney's office this morning to arrange a bond for Charles' release. When Attorney Elmer J. Wahl telephoned the jail for information he was told McIntyre had died.

Lobar pneumonia was the cause of death, according to a post-mortem announced by the coroner's office. McIntyre had been committed to jail to await grand jury action on a larceny charge.

Santa Keeps Smiling With His Baby Dying

TORRINGTON, Conn., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—His baby girl was near death, but there was no hint of a sorrowing heart in the cheerful greetings Santa Claus gave to the hundreds of eager kiddies who crowded around him in the department store. Today a new Santa Claus smiled on the children. The daughter of his predecessor—George F. Hyland—died this morning.

Pet Parrot Dodges Divorce Hearing

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Maybe Larka, the singing parrot, has disappeared.

At any rate she was not present in Superior Court to hear herself characterized as a "co-respondent" in the divorce suit of Mr. and Mrs. Marion H. Brown, each of whom is seeking a decree. Mrs. Brown testified Brown bestowed too much attention on the bird.

Woman Fined Cent —She Pays—by Check

ST. PAUL, Dec. 21.—A penny is a penny and a fine is a fine—so the government is one cent richer today.

A Treasury check for a penny was received by Miss Margaret Mullane, clerk of United States District Court, in payment of the fine.

Della Reader was fined one cent and committed to the Alderson (W. Va.) Women's Reformatory for a year and a day on a narcotic charge February 28 by Federal Judge M. M. Joyce. A fine is mandatory.

But Della didn't pay—until yesterday—by check.

Ceremony Held in Municipal Chapel In New York

There was something to talk about today in Pittsburgh's society.

It was the Rodgers wedding—the Rodgers of Woodland road, where the nameplates of the Mellons, Laughlins, Hillmans and Reas are hung.

Mr. Rodgers
Bennett Rodgers, divorced Monday by the woman who wedded Wednesday became his sister-in-law.

Attractive young Penelope Hoopes Rodgers, who on Monday divorced Attorney Bennett Rodgers, today was the bride of Attorney Rodgers' brother—William Blackstock Rodgers.

They obtained a marriage license yesterday in New York City and a few minutes later were quietly married in the Municipal Chapel there.

And the marriage was a surprise to the mother of the ex-husband and the current husband—Mrs. Adelaide Rodgers, of Woodland road.

THIRD MARRIAGE

This is Mrs. Rodgers' third marriage. All three of her husbands are listed in the social register. Her first husband was Frederick Crosman Fitler. They had two children, sons.

The wedding to Attorney Rodgers took place on March 1, 1928.

Today's bridegroom was a member of France's famous flying corps, the Lafayette Escadrille, in the World War. He has spent much time since the war in Europe. In fact, few of his friends realized he had already returned.

The couple will spend the

THREE MORE GUILTY IN VOTE CASE

Other Defendants in Third Ward Trial Acquitted

Three election board members of the Ninth District, Third Ward, were found guilty, while two others and a Negro constable were freed by a verdict in Federal Court today at their retrial on vote fraud charges.

Mike Wendell, judge; Carman Bosco and Charles P. Betters, inspectors, were convicted by the jury, which deliberated almost 23 hours. The jury recommended extreme mercy.

Those freed were James Stuhlfire and Louis D. Petty, clerks, and George Taylor, constable.

The convictions increase to 17 the number found guilty in ballot cheat cases resulting from the government's investigation of the Congressional election of 1932. Eight have been freed.

The case was placed in the hands of the jury at 11:45 a. m., yesterday. It was the second time it was heard. The first jury was dismissed after failing to render a verdict after deliberating 30½ hours. The present trial began Monday, the government being represented by Special Government Prosecutor Earl F. Reed and First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh.

BLAZE CHECKED IN WHITE HOUSE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Recalling the blaze which on Christmas Eve, 1929, virtually destroyed the White House executive offices, a small fire broke out in the office waste paper room today, and had to be extinguished with chemicals.

There was no damage.

Smoke-filled corridors in the executive office basement and the ringing of an alarm warned those in the offices that fire had broken out.

White House police were called to the scene immediately, pulled a fire extinguisher off the wall, and turned it on the blaze.

The fire was put out in less than 10 minutes.

Calf Born as Byrd Vessel Nears Goal

ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP, en route to Antarctica, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A healthy calf was born yesterday to "Klondike," one of the cows aboard this vessel, barely a day's steaming distance from the edge of the unknown waters circling the Pacific quadrant of Antarctica.

Members of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's South Pole expedition were insistent on calling the calf "Iceberg," since the ship was plowing through seas crowded with huge bergs.

Greece Asks Insull To Leave by Jan. 31

ATHENS, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Greek government decided today that Samuel Insull, Sr., former Chicago utilities operator, must leave Greece January 31.

M'NAIR ASKS SMITH'S AID ON RACKETS

Places Close Up Here After Next Mayor's Hunt for 'Fixer'

William N. McNair, the Democrats' Mayor-elect, was hoping to confer with Alfred E. Smith today on the state of Democracy.

The Mayor-elect wants some advice and he is going to Al Smith to get it. Some of the advice may be on horse-race gamblers and how to control them when they think they can "fix" his administration.

McNair was to be in New York today to speak at a testimonial dinner of the American Association for Scientific Taxation, together with Mayor-elect Fiorella LaGuardia, of New York.

TRACES 'FIXER' RUMOR

He announced his purpose of seeing former Gov. Al Smith when he spoke at a meeting of the Authors' Club last night.

Some of that advice on bookmakers may be needed as a result of the Mayor-elect's excursion into the underworld when he invaded a horse race gambling establishment early yesterday evening.

A rumor that a "fixer" had been named for McNair's administration who would deal with the racketeers and protect them from raids sent the single-tax Democrat to Market street.

He was told the rumor of the "fixer" came from an establishment run by one Paddy Nee and that he ran a bookie place in Market street.

'COULDN'T UNDERSTAND'

So he walked into the busy place and asked for Nee.

A man who answered to that name came forward and McNair asked him:

"Who's the 'fixer' for next year?"

Nee "couldn't understand" what he meant by "fixer."

So McNair said the word had gone out, he understood, that the "fixer" had already been named. He asked:

"Who's the fixer now?"

Nee looked innocent and said:

"Nobody. We don't pay anybody. There ain't been no fixer for six months."

McNair declaimed:

"Listen, I wasn't born yesterday."

RACKETS CLOSE UP

That may have been so, but Nee wasn't impressed. McNair didn't find out.

The news of McNair's visit went around among the racket men today, with the result that many gambling joints and numbers headquarters shut up shop.

The Mayor-elect's information that the word was passed that there is a "fixer" was correct. Racket men said they thought some "wise guy" started the report that went the rounds of the joints yesterday.

Schnader Routed By Fire in Home

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Attorney General William A. Schnader and his family were forced from their home last night by smoke from a fire in the cellar.

Fire smouldering in an ash pit was responsible. Firemen worked two hours cleaning out the pit.

Shall Our Markets Profit Defaulter France?

FRANCE—WAR-TIME SUPPLIANT for loans, for food, for munitions, for troops!

France—debtor to the United States for national preservation, debtor for food for her civil population, for munitions, for armies of American troops!

France—post-war debtor to the United States for loans to restore her credit, support her currency and reconstruct her devastated areas, a promisor of repayment, a beggar for the reduction of our claims, forgetter of the immeasurable benefits received at our hands.

But this is not all. It is only a partial picture of La Belle France.

France—defaulter as debtor, repudiator of pledges, subtle twister of facts, using Germany's refusal to pay reparations as a "phoney" excuse for her own default to the United States.

THE PICTURE IS NOT YET COMPLETE!

France—tariff racketeer, while whining solicitously for an enlarged share of the newly-revived American market for wines and liquors!

It is time that the attitude of the United States toward France and the mutual dealings of the French and American people were made the FIRST ITEM IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY'S BUSINESS, and OF EVERY DAY'S BUSINESS, until our position with relation to this DEBTOR AND DEFAULTER is put upon a basis that conforms with the record and is compatible with American self-respect.

The third semi-annual payment of interest on the French debt, amounting to twenty-two million dollars, has just been defaulted without explanation or excuse. The arrears of France to this country for interest alone, to say nothing of the principal of her dishonored debt, is more than sixty million dollars.

DESPITE THIS shabby record, and with an effrontery that has no parallel, the FRENCH GOVERNMENT has just ASSESSED AMERICAN COMPANIES DOING BUSINESS IN FRANCE in the sum of ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-TWO MILLION DOLLARS under a DOUBLE TAXATION LAW, although an AGREEMENT was reached between the United States ambassador and M. Tardieu, the French premier, in the spring of 1932, ABOLISHING THIS FORM OF TAXATION.

The agreement was ratified by the United States Senate in June, 1932, but—and here is a little "out" for slippery France—it was never ratified by the French parliament.

Now, FORTUNATELY, we have in our hands a means of self-assertion which we SHOULD NOT HESITATE a moment TO UTILIZE TO ITS FULLEST POSSIBILITIES!

The repeal of prohibition in this country has opened the greatest market in existence to the producers of wines and liquors throughout the world.

France is one of the greatest producers of these commodities. She has for years looked forward longingly to the recovery of the American market for these products of hers. She has watched the progress of repeal with eager calculation of its benefits to her wine growers and merchants.

Well, another guess is coming to her. She is entitled to no consideration at our hands!

WE MUST CLOSE THE GATES OF THIS MARKET TO FRANCE! And it must be done at once!

Her wines are good, but so are the wines of California and other regions of the United States. To bar the importation of French wines would be no privation to our people. On the contrary, it would be a means of deserved encouragement to our own growers and producers.

AND IT WOULD BE AN ACT OF CONDIGN RETRIBUTION, OF JUST REQUITAL TO FRANCE—THE BAD DEBTOR, THE CALLOUS DEFAULTER, THE THANKLESS BENEFICIARY OF AMERICAN GENEROSITY.

Bannister Going Home To Ann for Christmas

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—It may be a real Christmas, after all, for Harry Bannister.

The man they once called "Mr. Harding" leaves for Hollywood tonight to spend the holidays with his divorced wife, Ann Harding, and their daughter, Jane.

It is reported that he hopes to bring about a reconciliation.

This seemed more probable than usual in view of the announcement of Mary McCormic, opera singer, that her engagement to Bannister is off—"temperamental difficulties."

LEGISLATIVE SESSION AT END

Branch Banking for Pittsburgh Voted In Closing Hours

A "homesick" legislature today rushed through the final tasks of a special session then adjourned with these developments:

1—The Harris bill to provide for a permanent personal registration in Pittsburgh was passed finally by the House and sent to the Governor, along with a Mansfield bill to eliminate the tax-paying qualifications of voters. (See story on page 10.)

2—Ratification of the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution was voted when the House approved the Salus resolution previously passed by the Senate.

3—Other routine bills were disposed of in the final rush toward adjournment. Prospects were for another session next spring. (See Mark Shields' column, "Politics," on first page of second section.)

4—The Highway Committee of Senate and House was called to investigate charges of Senator Chapman that his brother was fired from the Highway Department because the Senator voted against a move to force consideration of a nominee to the Public Service Commission.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The special session of the General Assembly called to enact liquor control and social legislation ended this afternoon.

The House adjourned sine die at 2:19 p. m.; the Senate at 2:28 p. m.

Outstanding among the accomplishments of the session, the

STATE HIGHWAY PROBE VOTED

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Highway Committee of the Senate and House will meet this afternoon to investigate charges of Senator Chapman, Warren, that his brother was fired from the Highway Department because, the Senator voted against a move to force consideration of a nominee to the Public Service Commission.

Chapman said he was summoned to the Governor's office and "found there, seated in the Governor's chair, one about whom I cannot from a sense of delicacy make any comment."

He said the "substitute Governor" told him this was his opportunity to show loyalty to the Pinchot administration and that unless he voted for discharge of the Senate committee holding the public service nominations, he would be punished.

Chapman voted "No" and said he was informed by telephone later that his brother was dismissed summarily as assistant superintendent of highways in Warren County.

Chapman added:

"Inasmuch as the elected Governor of Pennsylvania is a sick man in a New York hospital, it is almost criminal that Pennsylvania is being devastated by a substitute."

Mrs. Guggenheim, Thaw at Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Edmond A. Guggenheim and Russell W. Thaw were entertained here today after a flight from Guadalajara, Mexico.

Thaw landed their private airplane yesterday at the Aurora landing field. The flight was part of their projected four-months' tour of Latin-America.

Ward Option Probe Thought Unlikely

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking Committee stated that he doubted if an investigation would be made by his committee of options given Sewell L. Avery, president of Montgomery Ward and Company, by the board of directors.

Fireman Saves Terrier Trapped by Flames

While a crowd watched breathlessly, firemen mounted a ladder outside a blazing home at 1427 North St. Clair street this morning, plunged through a second story window, and appeared through the smoke a moment later bearing the limp figure of Sandy, a Scottish terrier.

Sandy, the pet of Miss A. E. Dumbaugh and her sister, Louise, was trapped on the second floor when the fire broke out in the basement. The firemen gave him a respiration treatment on the lawn and he is resting peacefully at the Animal Rescue League.

The Misses Dumbaugh are teachers at Jefferson and Wickersham schools, and were in class at the time. Damage from the fire, which started near a furnace in the cellar, was estimated at $1,500.

CHRISTMAS BUSINESS BOOMS TRADE IN STORES HERE

BIG PAYROLLS SEND THRONGS SHOPPING

Wage Boosts; Bonuses Bring Return of Prosperity

Increased payrolls throughout the entire tri-state district today are reflected in Christmas buying, with approximately two million dollars estimated as the contribution from the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia coal fields.

Six major coal concerns report a total Christmas payroll of $1,072,798. Nearly another million dollars is estimated by leaders as being distributed by the hundreds of smaller coal fields throughout the district. Pay days, beginning last Friday, have continued this week. Many companies reported preparing the payrolls due next week for distribution today and tomorrow to provide miners with Christmas funds.

INCREASE IN SALES

Added employment, wage increases and bonuses in other industrial and commercial fields further swell the purchasing power. Every district reports increased sales in stores, varying in the tri-state section from 20 to 34 per cent over last year.

Approximately $75,000 has been added to the regular pottery payroll in the Eastern Ohio district, according to J. M. Hammers, secretary of the Associated Glass and Pottery Association. This added figure was due to a 12½ per cent wage increase granted skilled workers under the NRA. Prohibition repeal has swelled the blown glassware industry with a tremendous demand being made for liquor glasses, he added.

WAGE BOOST GRANTED

Further emphasizing the business gains reported under the NRA, the United Cigar Stores Company today announced that a five per cent wage increase would be effective for all employes beginning January 1. A Christmas bonus of two and one-half per cent will be added to the Christmas pay checks of all employes of the Shelby Sales Book Company, of Shelby, O., according to an Associated Press Dispatch.

Mills and mines of the Monongahela Valley are distributing a $500,000 Christmas payroll to some 30,000 workers, the Associated Press reports.

Kerr Assures City Workers Salaries By Year End

City payrollers today were assured they will get their pay at the end of the year, although some delay was necessary in paying Mayview City Home and Hospital employes in November and December.

City Controller James P. Kerr's office announced that the Mayview employes were paid Tuesday for the last two weeks of November and the first two of December. The delay was caused by lack of funds in the Mayview account, but $30,700 was transferred to that account from others to meet the payroll.

The Controller's office said all payrolls have been met and there is sufficient money to meet those due at the end of the year.

Holiday Business Boom Sweeps Whole Nation

Associated Press.

The cash registers of the merchants in America's principal cities apparently are playing a happy pre-holiday tune of better business.

The Kellys, the Smiths and the Joneses and the others are laying their money on the counters for Christmas goods in larger numbers than they did a year ago, an unofficial survey revealed today, leaving retailers with the impression that there is a Santa Claus after all.

All sections of the country reported business "on the up and up" from Manhattan Island on the East to the Pacific on the West, and from the northern states to the gulf there was optimism. The gains as compared with last year ran from just a trifle to as high as 35 and 50 per cent.

MISS PERKINS FOR LABOR AID

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Secretary of Labor Perkins has a 10-point program for the improvement of labor which, if adopted, she says, would "pay dividends in production and in health satisfaction to the individual workers."

She outlined her program before the Railway Labor Executives' Association as follows:

1—Permanent limitation of hours of labor.

2—Prohibition of child labor.

3—Standard minimum wages for women.

4—Requirement of safety and health working conditions.

5—Provision for aged workers.

6—Some form of unemployment reserves.

7—Adequate workmen's compensation laws.

8—Free public employment bureaus.

9—Stronger administration of labor laws.

HUEY'S INCOME TAX PROBED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Evening Star today said that the federal government has just renewed an investigation into income taxes paid by Senator Huey Long and others affiliated with his Louisiana political machine.

Special agents of the Internal Revenue Bureau started such an inquiry in 1932, but this was said by the paper to have been suspended several months before the end of the Hoover administration.

A. D. Burford, who directed the earlier investigation, went to New Orleans about two weeks ago in charge of a force of agents who have orders to make a thorough probe of Long's finances and those of a number of his political allies insofar as income taxes are concerned.

Action in the case came close upon the appointment of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as acting secretary of the Treasury, and the assumption by the latter of personal direction of internal revenue matters.

CHORUS GIRLS CONVICT MAN

Alfred Hunter, 32, Negro, of Cleveland, whose troupe of showgirls was raided by police November 2, was convicted in Federal Court today on a charge of violating the Mann Act.

He was accused of bringing the troupe here from Cleveland, and two of the girls testified in support of the Mann Act charge.

Hunter testified he had a contract for the troupe here and was rehearsing at the Hot-Cha Club in Fullerton street. Witnesses testified he took members of the troupe to his room in the Bailey Hotel in Center avenue.

Zeck Formally Freed in Robbery

Benny Zeck, 25, First Ward politician, was formerly freed yesterday of a charge of robbing Peter Treadway, former oil station manager, at Cleveland, for which he had been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in the Ohio State Prison.

Zeck was released after Treadway, the principal witness against him, had confessed the robbery story was fictitious. He returned to his home here two weeks ago.

WASHINGTON CO. PROBE ENDING

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 21.—Expectations were the curtain would ring down today on Washington County's election contest hearings as end of testimony in arguments on the Third precinct, First Ward of Canonsburg, appeared within sight.

This district, where a supplemental investigation of vote fraud allegations resulted several days ago in the arrest of Judge of Elections Jesse Leber, is the last of 10 to come before Judges James I. Brownson and Howard W. Hughes.

Accusations in the various precincts ranged from double marking of ballots to "fixing" of the original counts, with the Democratic organization filing most of the petitions in behalf of E. W. Patton, Charleroi, and Carl E. Gibson, Monongahela, candidates for Sheriff and Common Pleas Judge, respectively. Patton and Gibson after leading in unofficial figures dropped behind their Republican opponents in recount changes.

Goodyear Accepts Federal Tire Code

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—NRA today received notification of the assent of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, of Akron, to the rubber tire code.

Goodyear's action brought 60 per cent of the units of the industry and 90 per cent of the volume into agreement upon the code. The code, now before Hugh S. Johnson, is expected to be sent to the White House for presidential approval in a few days.

SECOND CYCLE OF RECOVERY PLAN READY

President Schedules May for Start of New Drive

By EDWARD BO LOCKETT
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—President Roosevelt has apparently completed plans for carrying forward the second cycle of the giant recovery program which he brought into being last spring.

The President has definitely fixed May 1, 1934, as the date specifically marking completion of the first phase of his drive toward prosperity. Careful observers advanced the logical argument that the Executive would not so certainly fix such a date without first planning the steps ahead.

Looking into the new year, it appeared the first of May probably will prove one of the significant dates of the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

At that time, two of the major motivating forces of the recovery drive will have finished their work — the President's blanket code or re-employment agreement, and his Civil Works Administration, which has put four million men to work in the past eight weeks.

Meanwhile, the President has started under his newly-created national emergency council setup, a process of co-ordination of all the alphabetical agencies—such as the NRA, AAA, PWA, etc.—calculated to bring them into a giant cohesive whole by spring.

Almost daily, within recent weeks, individual moves have been revealed indicating a reshaping from within, of the recovery program.

Mr. Roosevelt said himself he expects to have codification of industry completed by May 1. He extended the blanket code until that date in order to keep wages up and working hours down in those industries not yet under specific codes.

SHOPMEN SPLIT ON R. R. UNION

Efforts of a group of shop employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad to perpetuate "company unions" will be opposed by thousands of shop craft workers, John V. Pessamato, representing the International Association of Machinists, said today. Joseph B. Eastman, federal railroad coordinator, is trying to force all railroads to abandon company unions by the end of this month.

Pessamato charged that the Pennsylvania Railroad, and not the employes, is paying the expenses of an attorney to carry to Eastman an appeal for retention of the unions. He said in part:

"Company union members do not pay any dues, so it is plain to be seen that they cannot stand the expenses of high-priced counsel. If a hearing is held we intend to be represented and will urge Eastman to stand by his order abolishing these company unions."

Labor Board Scans Mine Strike Peril

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A threat of miners at Rosedale and Franklin to walk out January 1 unless action is taken toward an election for collective bargaining representatives is before the National Labor Board.

Officials of United Mine Workers locals at the two "captive" operations of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation at Rosedale and Franklin sent resolutions to Senator Robert S. Wagner, chairman of the Labor Board, asking for authority to hold an election and requesting the board to set a date.

SALES TAX PLAN PUSHED IN CAPITAL

N. Y. Senator Urges Federal Adoption Of Program

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Demands for a federal manufacturers' sales tax were renewed before the House Ways and Means Committee today despite the objections of members opposed to the levy.

The committee was told that enactment of a general levy would relieve states of the difficulty of trying to enforce a state sales tax and would relieve industry, hard-pressed by the special high sales taxes voted by Congress two years ago.

MASTICK TESTIFIES

State Senator Seabury Mastick, chairman of the legislative tax committee of New York, testified that New York was faced with difficulty in enforcing a state sales tax because 80 per cent of the population lived near other states which have no sales taxes. He declared:

"This situation, which exists in many states, would be relieved if there were a federal sales tax."

Paul Klug, of Chicago, speaking for the Radio Manufacturers Association, said the special five per cent sales tax levied by Congress on the radio industry would decrease employment 15 per cent. Klug said:

"We advocate and wish to impress this committee with our sincere belief in the fairness, justness and equity of a general sales tax which would produce the large revenue which the government requires and which would put all industry upon an equal basis."

DUPLICATE TAXATION

Declaring the federal and state governments were competing for the same taxes, Mastick urged that an effort be made to avoid duplicate taxation. He proposed that the federal government collect all income tax and distribute one-third to one-fourth of the proceeds to the states. The state of New York, he said, would gain 100 million dollars a year under this plan.

Speaking for legislative committees of many states, he asked the federal government to retire from the gasoline tax field entirely on June 30.

Little encouragement was given by members of the committee to the pleas for abolition of special sales taxes.

Babson Urges Three Surtax Exemptions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(INS.—President Roosevelt today was urged by Roger Babson, Boston economist, to exempt from surtaxes three specific expenditures by individuals, as a sure way of giving work to three million idle men.

Babson, who spent half an hour with the President, suggested that surtax exemptions be allowed on the following:

1—Money spent in increasing the sale of agricultural products.

2—Money spent on building individual homes costing not more than $10,000.

3—Money loaned by individuals to manufacturers and employers for pay rolls and similar purposes.

Envoy Bingham Back for Holidays

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Robert W. Bingham, American ambassador to Great Britain, returned for the holidays today and reiterated his belief that the United States was "prepared to go farther than it had ever gone in order to promote the success of world disarmament."

Facing Jury

RUTH BEITER

Miss Beiter, 19, today facing the ordeal of a grand jury probe of the slaying of farmer Carl Meteling, assertedly shot by her escort when he tried to drag her from their parked automobile.

CHURCH URGES KILLING PROBE

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The pastor and congregation of Carl Meteling's church last night were assured a thorough investigation of his death in Pepper Pike's "lovers' lane."

James P. Hart, assistant county prosecutor, said that the January grand jury will question carefully all persons involved in the fatal shooting of the 52-year-old truck farmer by Britton D. Young, 21-year-old law student.

Young, who said he shot Meteling when the farmer approached an automobile in which the student was seated with Ruth K. Beiter, 21, and grabbed the pretty co-ed's ankle, was held under $1,000 bond.

The Rev. W. H. Storm, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, and W. R. Kohn, chairman of the congregation, told Hart the victim's fellow worshippers had voted to demand a searching inquiry.

SLEEPING GIRL RECOVERING

OAK PARK, Ill., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Oak Park's "sleeping beauty" today showed signs of recovering from her long coma.

Relatives hoped the young victim, 28-year-old Patricia Maquire, would awaken soon. She has been asleep nearly two years.

Mrs. Charles W. Hanson, her sister, says Patricia can now sit up unassisted for one or two hours a day. The girl's reactions to heat, cold, hunger and other discomforts are more nearly normal, and she has gained weight.

Still unconscious, and in the heavy lethargy in which she passed her twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth birthdays, the sleeping girl mumbles audibly when she is uncomfortable. Her words, however, are still incoherent.

U. S. STUDYING WEIR CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Attorney General Cummings told newsmen today the Justice department's anti-trust division is considering "intensively" differences between the Weirton Steel Company and the National Labor Board over employe representation.

Cummings said reports were still coming in from investigators who attended recent employe elections at the Weirton plants. He said:

"If on the conclusion of our study, we think legal action should be taken, we are ready to take it. But it depends on an analysis of the proof, and reports are still coming in."

HINT SPY PLOT EXTENDED TO AMERICA

Activities of Russian Mystery Woman Being Traced

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—The possibility that Lydia Stahl, mysterious Russian school teacher named by police as the "Mata Hari" of the alleged international espionage ring uncovered here, extended her far-flung activities into the United States, arose today.

With two Americans under arrest and police investigating the possible participation of a third United States citizen, officials of the Surete Generale, the French secret police, communicated with New York and Washington in an effort to trace Miss Stahl's movements in the United States.

'FATAL WOMAN' TYPE

Master of a dozen languages, possessed of a powerful personality and characterized by Paris police as of the "femme fatale" (fatal woman) type, Miss Stahl remained the pivotal point of investigation into the spy ring believed to have had international ramifications.

She received large quantities of mail from the United States and from Japan, police revealed, and at the time of her arrest was deeply engrossed in learning the Chinese language.

American authorities were drawn into the case against Miss Stahl following declaration by French newspapers that she was married to an unidentified personage described as a "New York businessman" whom she visited last year.

Police said Miss Stahl's husband was named Boris, and learned he was born in Leningrad on January 2, 1887. His present whereabouts were not known.

U. S. CONSUL CONFERS

Questioned by International News Service, a high police official said nothing had been discovered so far "to show actually what country received information" from the spy ring.

While investigating this report, the United States embassy and consulate continued to interest themselves in the cases against Robert Gordon Switz, of East Orange, N. J., and his wife, a Vassar graduate, held as alleged ringleaders of the espionage conspiracy.

United States Consul Robert D. Murphy conferred with Examing Magistrate Benon, who declined to grant permission for him to interview Switz, held in a cell at the Sante Prison.

WEDS BROTHER OF EX-HUSBAND

LEFT HER ALL ALONE

In her divorce hearing in November, before Judge Thomas M. Marshall, the attractive socialite testified:

"He told me he was awfully sorry he was married to me and kept saying it more and more."

"He went out and left me all the time."

"He was extremely ill tempered and made life miserable. He humiliated me in front of friends."

"He used to wake me at night and tell me I was a frightful bridge player. And he would tell me how badly I drove the car."

"He left me alone one time in a roadhouse."

"He nagged constantly and once threw a plate at me."

REFUSED HER CAB RIDE

Mrs. Rodgers added that once, leaving Child's Restaurant, her husband had refused to take her home in a taxicab explaining "it cost too damn much."

At the Pitt-Army ball in the William Penn Hotel he deserted her before they were fairly in the place and didn't return "until the music was gone," Mrs. Rodgers complained.

Then there was the time Mrs. Rodgers had some friends in to their home in Howe street for bridge. She related:

"When he came home he said to me, 'I wish you'd get those old hens out of here before I come home at night."

The divorce action wasn't contested by the lawyer. Another witness was their maid, Stella Skiba, who testified that Attorney Rodgers was always "good" to Mrs. Rodgers' children by her first marriage.

'Super' Blue Eagle NRA's Plan for Quality Firms

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—A new variety of Blue Eagle, signifying that its possessor gives higher quality service than competitors displaying the present insignia, was being devised today at NRA headquarters.

Demand for the super-Blue Eagle was created by a ruling on cleaning and dyeing prices made last night by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

The administrator announced he was willing to grant a 20 per cent horizintal reduction in cleaning and dyeing prices fixed under the code for the industry because certain cash and carry cleaners and dyers proved at a recent hearing they could operate at lower costs than most of their competitors.

The administrator ruled, however, that the lower cost cleaning and dyeing was "inferior service" as compared with the sort of cleaning and dyeing done by most of the trade.

So in order to protect the public and the huge majority of cleaners and dyers from "unfair competition" that might result from granting a lower differential in rates to the cash and carry group, Johnson ordered that a special Blue Eagle be devised for display by the cleaners who "agree to maintain a higher standard of service" than the cash and carry group.

The action introduced a new viewpoint in code administration. It demonstrated that the NRA may make it possible for all "quality" producers and service units to compete more successfully against operators who sell inferior products or give inferior service.

Girl Wire-Walker, Hurt, Again Hears Circus Call

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Once again it's the smell of tanbark for Mayme Butters, of Washington Courthouse, O.

On a hot night in August, 1930, at Yankton, N. D., Mayme was doing her routine on a tightly stretched cable 40 feet above the ground. With hundreds looking on, the cable snapped and Mayme fell. She suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries.

Summer ended, fall and winter passed, and the day the gayly painted wagons broke winter quarters, Mayme was left behind in the hospital. Her limb refused to mend properly. Later that summer she hobbled about on crutches. It looked as though she always would use crutches.

But the call of the tanbark was strong. She decided to risk the future in an operation. She underwent three. The last was December 8, at University Hospital here. It was successful and the leg is rapidly healing. She whooped today:

"And I have a contract with a circus next spring. They are going to have a tight wire act."

She is counting the days until she starts to work, an enthusiastic trouper at the age of 42.

BEAUTY PARLOR OWNER ACCUSED OF BIGAMY BY HUSBAND

'HIT HER IN EYE? NO, IN NECK,' MATE SAYS

Admits Trying to Put Wife Out, but 'She Was Too Big'

Having accused his wife of bigamy in a separate action, William Bales, 201 Sweetbrier street, late yesterday appeared before Judge Ralph H. Smith as his own counsel, to oppose the divorce action of Elva M. Bales, employed at the City Hospital, Mayview.

Mrs. Bales accused her husband of interfering with the operation of four beauty parlors, with accusing her of running around with other men and with having blackened her eye and knocked her down.

The court asked Bales:

"Your wife says that you blackened her eye; how do you account for that?"

He said:

"She swung at me with a chair. The chair broke over the back of my chair. I aimed at her nose and struck her in the neck, not in the eye."

To which answer the court remarked:

"Then all you did was to give her a pain in the neck."

CROSS-EXAMINES WIFE

Bales cross-examined his wife.

"Did you hit me first?"

"No. But if you hit me first you might have got it back."

"How did you get that black eye?"

"From your hand."

"Not from my hand, because I struck you in the neck."

Judge Smith asked some more questions.

"Did you try to put her out?"

"I did try, but she was too big."

FOUR BEAUTY SHOPS

Mrs. Bales testified that she had operated four beauty parlors in Dormont and Brookline, paid $12 a week for a maid to take care of her home and her twin boys, 4, whom Judge Thomas M. Marshall last September awarded her the custody and that on one occasion Bales had locked her out of the house.

Jacob Shugold, who represented Mrs. Bales, told Bales he was doing well on cross-examination. Judge Smith would not permit Bales to question his wife about an alleged bigamous marriage, but ordered it be stated in the record that a charge of bigamy is pending against Mrs. Bales. She denied any misconduct.

The Bales were married February 27, 1929. Mrs. Bales has a child by a former marriage.

Cross-Examined by Hubby

MRS. ALVA MAY BALES AND HER TWIN SONS, AGED FOUR

Mrs. Bales, cros-examined in Judge Ralph H. Smith' divorce court by her husband, William Bales, acting as his own counsel in opposing her suit for divorce. Said opposing professional counsel to Mr. Bales during cross-examination: "You're doing quite well."

FREE IN KILLING, WOMAN SEEKS TO FORGET

Sweetheart of Slain Policeman 'Through With Men'

Free and happy, Colleen Nanns is "going away" to work and forget.

The 23-year-old brunette was acquitted late yesterday of a murder charge in Criminal Court in the fatal shooting of her policeman sweetheart, Roger Casilio, 38.

As the verdict was read she wept, then smiled for the first time in many days. Shortly afterward, while posing for pictures, she said:

"I can hardly believe it; I have waited so long. Two and a half months in jail is a long time."

As for her future plans, she explained that she is going to Youngstown, O., to live for a while with her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Redman. She said:

"I'm going away to forget, but I'll be back to Pittsburgh. I only hope that I can get a job—and if I never see a man again it will be too soon."

Her father, George Nanns, a brother, Lawrence; her 17-year-old sister, Florence, and her girl friend, Mary Livingston, 20, all of West Brownsville, Pa., were in the court room when the verdict was given. They crowded about her offering congratulations.

A jury of seven men and five women heard the case. It took them an hour and a half to reach a verdict and acquit her in the shooting of Casilio in a third floor apartment at 5451 Penn avenue on September 29. It was there that they lived together.

A. L. McLaughlin, Jr., defense counsel, defended her on the grounds of self-defense, describing her as a "poor little country girl who was beaten continually by this brute of a man."

DEATH TAKES ONE-POUND 'DOLL BABY'

Fight to Save Life Of Tiny Ohio Child Fails

FINDLAY, O., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The "doll baby" is dead.

Born Saturday, four months before she was expected, the pound and a quarter child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carmen succumbed at 10:30 last night.

Only yesterday the "doll baby,"—that's the only name she had, and it was given to her by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles Finerd—had gained a quarter of a pound.

She had been kept alive since Saturday with milk fed through a medicine dropper or with a doll's nursing bottle.

Her mother's wedding ring, small as it is, could have served as a bracelet for the child.

BEAUTY WINNER SUES DENTIST FOR DIVORCE

Secret School Romance Crashes Over Letter Of 'Other Woman'

A beauty contest winner and Seton Hill College student who eloped with a Pitt dental student and kept her marriage secret for more than a year sought a divorce today.

Ruth Louise Weckerly, 22, of 518 Brushton avenue, asked Judge Heber Dithrich to divorce her from Dr. Joseph Albert Weckerly, of Baxter street.

BEAUTY TITLES WON

Although his wife was the pick of the beauties in Allegheny in 1927 and in Dormont in 1928—where she won the titles of "Miss Allegheny" and "Miss Dormont," respectively—Dr. Weckerly had a letter from another woman in his pocket, the wife testified, not long after they made their marriage public.

They were married at Wellsburg, W. Va., December 24, 1929. She was Ruth Louise Cribbs. The husband continued his studies at Pitt while she lived with her mother, the wife testified. When Dr. Weckerly was graduated they lived together, she said.

LETTER IN EVIDENCE

The letter bearing the name of another woman was found by the wife, she testified, while she was pressing her husband's clothing. Introduced as evidence, it said:

"Dear Bert:

"I had a call for an appointment and business being as it is, I thing I had better take it. I am terribly sorry not to be able to see you after promising to yesterday. Will you be in town this week? If you are, will you give me a ring? Edith."

"P. S.: Received my divorce decree last Wednesday."

MARITAL SWAP FIGURE DIES

MINOT, N. D., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Death has taken one party to a strange domestic exchange in which two farm women traded husbands in a double divorce and marriage.

Mrs. Willis Knight, 32, one of the four persons concerned, died in a hospital yesterday of an heart ailment.

On January 29, 1929, Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Lawrence Riksansrud were granted simultaneous divorces here, each testifying for the other. Their husbands waited together outside the court chambers.

The next day the four journeyed across the Canadian border to Melita, Man., where each woman married her neighbor's former husband.

Their domestic exchange attracted widespread attention. Civil courts refused to break the marriage ties when it was charged they remarried too soon after divorce.

COLD TO MARK WINTER'S BOW

While most of the populace slumbers, King Winter will make his annual debut at 1:58 a. m. tomorrow, when the sun reaches its farthest point south.

That makes tomorrow the shortest day of the year, although the difference between today and tomorrow is only a matter of seconds, according to Weather Observer W. S. Brotzman.

The weather bureau records show the sun rises at 7:42 a. m. and sets at 4:55 p. m. for both days.

Days have been lengthening at eventide since December 15, Brotzman pointed out, but have been shortening in the morning. This will continue until about January 2.

Fair and somewhat colder weather is in store for tonight, Brotzman predicted. No severe weather is in sight, he asserted. The lowest tonight will be between 25 and 30. Tomorrow will be fair and slightly warmer.

FAIRBANKS, JR., IN LOVE AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Movie Actor Douglas Fairbanks, the younger, says he never would have left England and Gertrude Lawrence except for the picture he now is enacting here.

But, he says, he cannot talk about marrying the English actress until Joan Crawford's divorce becomes final. That will be next May 14.

A friend of Fairbanks said the actor and Miss Lawrence will announce their engagement after May 14 and be married in a week or so thereafter. This Fairbanks would not deny—or affirm.

One terse comment came from Fairbanks. It was:

"I never would have left Miss Lawrence and England had it not been for the rich role in the picture which I am now making."

Miss Lawrence has the leading role in the current stage hit in London, "Nymph Errant," by Cole Porter.

Friends of the actor said he receives at least two cables daily from Miss Lawrence and he sends as many more to her. Frequently, he talks to her by trans-Atlantic telephone.

TAXI UNION WINS RECOGNITION

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, on whose decision hinges a strike of all union truckmen and chauffeurs in the city, today agreed to recognize the Taxicab Drivers' Union and take back strikers "as fast as circumstances permit."

In its reply to the recommendations of the National Labor Board, the company pointed out that its cab services were public conveniences which had to be kept operating, that the strikers had twice rfused the request of the regional board to return to work, and that therefore new drivers had been hired on a "permanent basis."

Union leaders met last night to call a transportation strike unless the Philadelphia Rapid Transit, operator of the two largest cab services in the city, accepted the Labor Board's recommendation.

DENTIST'S FILM GIRL QUIZZED

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—An attractive film extra, Miss Eleanor Johnson, who said Dr. Leonard Siever proposed marriage to her a year ago, was questioned today by authorities investigating the mysterious killing of the Pasadena dentist more than a week ago.

Acting on a suggestion given them by an anonymous informant, two District Attorney investigators, Jesse Winn and W. D. Say, sought out and questioned Miss Johnson for two hours. She told them she had met Siever one year and a half ago. Shortly after their meeting he proposed marriage to her, she said.

The actress said she rejected the proposal and, although he continued to call on her occasionally, they drifted apart. She added that she had last seen Siever a month ago.

William Murphy, 19, also was questioned. Murphy was arrested in Hollywood and was brought to Pasadena when two pistols were found in his possession.

OPERA LEADER UP FOR MURDER

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—Accused of fatally shooting Miss Emilia Da Prato, young singer, after she had rejected his marriage offer in favor of a career, Umberto Guisti, former opera impresario, was arraigned on a murder charge here today.

Guisti, who police said shot Miss De Prato in the back as she ran from her home yesterday, was returned to the county jail at Redwood City.

Police said Guisti said the quarrel was over Miss Prato's discussion of a possible contract with the New York Metropolitan Opera Company.

SHIP ON ROCKS; ALL SAVED

SEATTLE, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The crack Canadian National Liner Prince George was abandoned by her crew shortly after midnight this morning on Vadso Rock in far Northern British Columbia waters, after its 12 passengers had reached shore safely in lifeboats.

With the weather not severe, the lifeboats found their way safely to Anyox, a mining center four miles away.

Shortly after the distress messages, the United States Coast Guard cutter Alert put out from Ketchikan, Alaska, and the small sister ship, Prince John, left Prince Rupert to go to the aid of the Prince George. Each had about 75 miles to go, and each was due at the ship's side during the morning hours today.

Bound north on a regular run to Anyox on Observatory Inlet, in Portland Canat, the Prince George left Vancouver last Monday with about 40 passengers, but all except 12 of them had disembarked at the ports en route, including Powell River, Ocean Falls and Prince Rupert. The vessel has a crew of about 60.

7 Die as Vessels Crash in Dense Fog

HULL, Eng., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Seven lives were lost today when the trawler Kurd collided with and sank the Swedish steamer Castor off Flamborough Head in a dense fog.

The trawler rescued the captain and five members of the crew of the Castor and brought them here.

10 Tons of Matches Afire Aboard Liner

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Capt. Willman, of the Swedish-American liner Rhyboholm, reported by wireless today that a fire which broke out yesterday at sea in 10 tons of matches in the forehold of the ship apparently was under control.

Identify Ride Victim As Cleveland Youth

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A young man whose body was found in front of a stable in Brooklyn was identified today, the police said, as Dominick Gargarmaniello, of Cleveland, O.

Detectives said they believed he had been taken for a "ride" and his body thrown out at the spot where it was found, as investigation in the neighborhood revealed no one who heard a shot.

Seabury Home; Hits Walker-Farley Visit

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Samuel Seabury, whose prosecution of the "Tin Box" inquiry illuminated the closing days of the administration of Mayor James J. Walker, returned from Europe today and declared that the recent Paris meeting between Postmaster General James A. Farley and Walker was "a disgusting spectacle."

Heir's Wife Forgotten By Children She Seeks

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lois Spreckels, wife of Adolph Spreckels, Jr., heir to the sugar millions, appeared in Supreme Court today in connection with her suit to regain custody of her two children from her former husband, Jack de Ruyter, social registerite.

The children, Jack, 4, and Michael, 2, have been in their father's custody since June, 1932, when the De Ruyters' marriage was dissolved by a Reno divorce.

Mrs. Spreckels chatted with the children, saying:

"I am your mother. Don't you know me?"

The children shook their heads.

FIGHTS TO FREE ASSAILANT

International News Service.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 21.—Asserting that he "can take care of myself," State Senator Louis Henderson today opened a battle in the West Virginia Senate to gain the freedom of C. C. Morris who yesterday knocked the legislator down and beat him on the Senate floor.

Following the attack, the Senate ordered Morris taken into custody and sentenced him to confinement in the Kanawha County jail for the duration of the legislature's session here. The attack resulted when Morris took offense at a statement Henderson had made. Henderson said today:

"I don't need the Senate's protection. This man should be released."

India May Deport Girl Jilting Gandhi

CALCUTTA, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Deportation of Nila Cram Cook, daughter of an American poet, George Cram Cook, and erstwhile follower of Mahatma Gandhi, was understood to be under consideration today.

The American girl, confined to a hospital for mental patients, has refused to speak to the physician assigned to examine her.

Shop-Girl Daughter Of Duke Divorced

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Lady Doria Childe Hope, daughter of the Duke of Newcastle, who went to work in a New York department store some years ago because she was "tired of society," today was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Frederick Walter Childe.

RICHEY FLIGHT IN 2D DAY

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Hoping to stay aloft until New Year's Day, or longer, Frances Marsalis and Helen Richey sent their endurance plane in great circles over Miami and the surrounding country today.

Taking off yesterday afternoon in an effort to break the unofficial women's endurance record of eight days and four hours, the women already had negotiated their first refueling contact and planned to make two today.

Breakfast and lunch were to be combined in the metal containers to be lowered to them from the refueling plane. Dinner—they asked that this be the daily "hot" meal—will be taken to them just before nightfall.

GEN. O'DUFFY ORDERED FREED

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Gen. Eoion O'Duffy, imprisoned leader of the United Ireland party, will be released forthwith, under a justice's decision at a habeas corpus hearing today.

Justice O'Bryne, of High Court, said he was convinced the detention of O'Duffy and one of his followers, Capt. John Sullivan, was illegal.

They were arrested at a political rally last Sunday wearing the banned Blue Shirt, emblematic of membership in the United Ireland party.

Release of the general was expected hourly.

Guinan's Armored Auto Auctioned

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The big armored limousine that the late Larry Fay, slain night club operator, gave to Texas Guinan was sold at an auction of her effects yesterday for $80.

Herman Bitterman, a dealer, bid in the machine which Fay bought from the estate of Alfred Loewenstein, European financier who died in a plunge from an airplane over the English channel.

Girl Slain in Bakery In Stale Bread Dispute

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The brutal slaying of 18-year-old Ethel Zuckerman, who was found dead behind the counter of a South End bake shop in which she was employed, today was laid by police to an argument over stale bread.

Her body was found last night by a boy and girl who stopped at the bakery to make a purchase.

A long bread knife had been plunged into her throat and there was a laceration on her forehead. Police said a second bread knife, bent and bloodstained, lay beside the body.

Police believed the slayer struck the girl in the forehead with the knife found next to the body and then plunged the second one into her throat.

The police theory of the slaying was built around a man said to have visited the bakery about 9:50 p. m., and reported to have asked for 10 loaves of stale bread. Miss Zuckerman, police said, offered fresh bread and told the customer she didn't have any stale loaves.

A half hour later the boy and girl stepped in to make a purchase and discovered the body.

AAA ACTS TO CUT AUTO RACING SPEED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—Arbitrary action by the AAA, governing body of automobile racing in the United States, to make racing safer will be taken within 48 hours, A. C. Pillsbury, regional director of the association, announced today.

The action will be to slow down the speed of racing cars and assure safety of mechanical parts and tires.

Pillsbury's announcement came after a week of campaigning, led by the Hearst newspapers, to diminish death on the speedways and require promoters of races to be liable for provision for dependents of drivers killed or permanently injured.

The official stated he expects the association's action to require a gasoline feed control on the intake manifold which would reduce speed by at least two seconds a lap at the Ascot Speedway, where 10 drivers have been killed since 1936.

Last August local speed car owners were asked to approve plans to make racing safer by reducing the cubic inch displacement. This plan and one for carburization control were submitted to the AAA. Last Friday the AAA reported in favor of the gas feed control, but local car owners did not approve it.

Pillsbury said:

"It will make no difference if the owners approve or disapprove, the action to be taken by the AAA will be arbitrary."

FRANK ESTATE GOES TO KIN

The will of Jacob H. Frank, 67, of 4219 Saline street, one of the founders of Frank and Seder, filed for probate today, disposes of an estate of unestimated value.

With regard to charitable bequests, the testator sets forth:

"Having made large contributions to charity during my lifetime, I feel I have discharged my duty to my fellow men as a fellow-sojourner in this life."

He sets aside $5,000 in trust for charitable institutions, the income to go to charities selected by trustees. A trust fund of $10,000 is provided for his sister, Mrs. Fannie Broida.

The remainder goes to the widow, Mrs. Maude Frank and at her death to their five children, Mortimer P. and Cecil Frank; Mrs. Saul Finkelhor, Mrs. Harold Herwitt and Mrs. Bert Klivans, the last named of Cleveland.

The widow, two sons and Attorney H. D. Hirsh are named executors.

3 THUGS TRUSS, ROB MERCHANT

Responding to a call from a woman, police late last night found Abraham Lewis, storekeeper at 296 Forty-sixth street, bound to a chair in his store. He said he had been trussed by three men who robbed him of $8 and three cartons of cigarets.

Police were called by Mildred Kennedy, night operator at city exchange, who said a woman had called. Before she could get more information beyond the address the connection was broken. Police said the woman who made the call started to go into the store while the robbery was in progress. She backed away and notified police.

Man, 74, Defendant In $2,000 Balm Suit

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Fred Gaeth, 74, is one of the oldest defendants ever named in an alienation of affections suit here.

The plaintiff is Joseph Englert, who asks $2,000 damages because his wife, Emma, 35, is keeping house for Gaeth. Gaeth contends Mrs. Englert became his housekeeper several years ago with her husband's consent.

North Side Police Seeking Assailant

North Side police today sought an unidentified man who slugged Lucas Holevi, 45, of 600 Arch street, into unconsciousness and knocked down William Bagley, a neighbor, running to Holevi's assistance.

Holevi was taken to Allegheny General Hospital, where it was said his skull had been fractured. His assailant was armed with a gun and blackjack.

11 Found Guilty In Ambridge Riot

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 21.—Eleven alleged Communists, three of them women, were convicted in the Beaver County courts late yesterday of inciting to riot in connection with the Ukranian demonstration at Ambridge in October.

An American flag, soiled by decayed tomatoes and other vegetables, was offered in evidence. They will be sentenced later.

O'DUFFY SPEECH IN PAPER SEIZED

DUBLIN, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Detectives bent on pushing President Eamon De Valera's fight against the United Ireland party pounced on party headquarters here last night and seized all copies of "United Ireland," a party organ due to appear today.

The paper contained the full speech of Gen. Eoin O'Duffy, co-leader of the party, which he was unable to deliver Sunday at Westport, County Mayo, where he was arrested.

The detectives, acting on a military tribunal order to seize and destroy the entire issue, had previously taken possession of copies found in a publisher's printing office.

Application for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Gen. O'Duffy was delayed until today after a hearing in high court yesterday.

WILL CHARGES PERSECUTION

Bequeathing an estate valued at $10,000 to relatives, John A. Stauffer wrote a cryptic note in his will filed for probate today. The note said:

"I have been persecuted through life. God will be my judge at my last day. I am innocent of any wrongdoing. My father taught me to live an honest life. Honesty has been my motto through life."

Five dollars was bequeathed to Sherman M. Stauffer, half of the estate to U. H. Stauffer, and the other half to Mrs. R. G. Burns, a sister.

A relative said the will apparently referred to long illness suffered by Stauffer.

Fred H. Funk, of 2219 Sarah street, bequeathed an estate of $6,000 to his wife, Elizabeth.

Tobacco Chewing Decline Laid To Taxes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The country's need of a "good five-cent cigar" is classic, but one branch of the tobacco industry is equally concerned in the declining consumption of "chawin'" tobacco.

"There are more chewers today than there were 20 years ago," H. P. Taylor, of Winston Salem, N. C., told the House Ways and Means Committee, "but today there is less chewing per chewer."

He blamed taxes and asked a lower levy on plug and twist tobacco.

Earth Tremor Felt In Andean Provinces

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—An earth tremor of regular intensity was registered at 1.31 a. m. today in the Andean Provinces of San Juan and Mendoza. There was no damage.

VICTIM OF GAS REVIVED, DIES

Leo B. Sherman, 26, substitute postal employe, of 2924 Merwyn avenue, Sheraden, was brought from the shadows of death by police operating an inhalator last night, but succumbed a few hours later.

After five hours of labor with the inhalator, the family, a physician and the police were rewarded by signs of recovery shortly after 11 p. m. The doctor and police left. Two hours later they were summoned again, but a second effort with artificial respiration failed, and Sherman died at 2:25 this morning.

The young man's mother, Mrs. Florence Sherman, 56, said her son, who has been working nights during the Christmas postal rush, went to bed at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. He told her not to awaken him until 11 p. m.

A premonition, the mother said, caused her to go to her son's bedroom, on the third floor, at 5:15 p. m. when she found him sprawled unconscious on his bed. She said:

"I remarked before I went up, 'There's something wrong.'"

Dr. Francis A. Riley, of Chartiers avenue, Sheraden, was summoned, and he called police at once.

A gas fire was burning in Sherman's room when the mother discovered him. Windows in the room were closed. Carbon monoxide poisoning was given as the cause of death.

Iceman as Fireman Fights Fire at Home

PITMAN, N. J., Dec. 21.—Life is just one extreme after another for Leon Eckman—and full of surprises. With his job of selling ice, Leon combines the duties of a volunteer fireman.

Responding to a general alarm, he drove his ice-truck to the fire house and clambered aboard the engine, unaware of the location of the blaze. It was in his own house.

SLAYER'S PLEA FREES HUSBAND

JONESBORO, Ga., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A Negro yesterday pleaded guilty to murdering a white woman whose husband served four years for the crime.

Robert Coleman went to his country home from work in Atlanta on March 14, 1929, and found his 19-year-old wife beaten to death with a poker. Their 9-month-old baby, without food all day, was crying in its crib.

Coleman called police who said the evidence showed he had killed his wife that morning. A jury believed them and Coleman went to the chain gang for life.

Four years later Rader Davis, a Negro, was picked up on a murder charge. He said Jim Stark, another Negro, had confessed to him that he killed Mrs. Coleman. Stark pleaded guilty in court and today he went to the chain gang for life. Coleman was pardoned.

Money Lender Slain, Debtor Kills Self

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—In what police said was a quarrel over a $2,700 note, John Ugolnikoff, San Francisco money lender, was shot and killed by Michael Osetinsky, who then committed suicide at his chicken ranch yesterday.

In a note, Osetinsky, a Russian, who had resided on the ranch for many years, said Ugolnikoff became abusive in demanding payment of the money and "I then locked his mouth."

Agency to Propose Public Welfare Head

M. W. Acheson has been appointed chairman of a committee authorized by the board of directors of the Federation of Social Agencies to confer with Mayor-elect William N. McNair regarding the appointment of a director of the Department of Public Welfare.

The Federation believes the person chosen for the position should possess certain stated qualifications, since the Department of Public Welfare is primarily concerned with social problems.

For Sizes 34 to 50
Pattern 1737
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

When a woman has the urge to sew, but fears to make a frock her first experiment—we recommend this attractive slip, for it's sure to give perfect results. There are just four parts to the pattern—simple as can be—and joined in seams that give perfect fit and mould the figure according to the new mode. Built-up shoulders add comfort as well as banish the annoyance of slipping straps. Lovely in crepe, wash satin or one of the new unshrinkable rayon fabrics. A word to the wise—don't chance the success of your best frock with an ill-fitting slip—wear this one!

Pattern 1737 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 2½ yards 39-inch material.

FIORITO IN FOG, NO ELOPEMENT

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—In a night club early today, Ted Fiorito, orchestra leader, and Florence Desmond, English actress, famed for her impersonations of movie queens, decided to elope to Yuma, Ariz., by airplane and be married without delay.

Arizona, unlike California, has no three-day license law.

The night club manager chartered an airplane. Fiorito's chauffeur was directed to drive the bride-to-be and the bridegroom-to-be to the airport.

There was a heavy fog. The chauffeur lost his way. Around and around he drove.

And Miss Desmond, exercising a woman's privilege, changed her mind, decided today was not the day to wed, and she and Fiorito went to their respective apartments to "think it over."

Low Cigaret Price Lands Youth in Jail

ARNOLD, Pa., Dec. 21.—The low price at which Joseph Pivarski was alleged to have been selling cigarets led to his arrest and that of five others, police report, in connection with a $600 store robbery, two weeks ago.

Pivarski, Walter Korowicki and Mr. and Mrs. John Kulick are charged with receiving stolen goods. William Risko and Charles Moses are charged with entering the store of Thomas Tannas.

Squirrel Hill O. E. S. Christmas Party

Members of Squirrel Hill Chapter, No. 442, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold their annual Christmas dance and card party in the Terrace Grotto, Morrowfield Hotel, Christmas night.

Miss Emma Spann is chairman of the affair, assisted by Miss Sara Goldstein.

Nuns' St. Bernard To Roam Estate Of Thompson

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 21.—Arrangements were being made today to send "Queenie," a St. Bernard dog, to nuns of the Order of St. Basil, who recently moved from Factoryville to Uniontown, where a mother house has been established in the J. V. Thompson mansion.

Recently the nuns moved away. As they left the mother superior arranged for residents near the old convent to feed and care for the dog until he could be sent to Uniontown.

"Queenie" refused to accept the temporary quarters offered to him. Instead he has remained around the former convent. He spurned all offers of food and insisted on remaining close to the building where the nuns formerly lived. Today he is on his way to his new home.

'SEA LOCKSMITH' OPERATED ON

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Charles Courtney, master locksmith, is in a New York hospital recuperating from a serious operation resulting from injuries suffered in an adventure at the bottom of the North Sea last spring.

Courtney sailed last April on a second mysterious voyage to Europe within a year. When he returned five weeks later his hair was several shades lighter than when he left, his left hand was in a plaster cast and he had a scar on his left side at the waist line, from a wound that required several stiches to close.

At that time he confirmed previously published private advices of the recovery of £15,000 in gold sovereigns from the wreck of the British cruiser Hampshire, on which Lord Kitchener went to his death in the North Sea during the World War.

WELFARE FUND SHORTAGE TO CUT BUDGETS

All member agencies of the Welfare Fund will be asked to submit revised budgets to meet the organization's 1934 budget shortage, the fund finance committee announced today.

In a statement issued following a meeting yesterday, the committee estimated total contributions to the campaign to date at $2,350,000. Deductions of $38,850 of the contingent fund and $150,000 for liquidation of the organization's deficit, included in the fund's $2,837,000 goal, were made, reducing the present budget to $2,648,130. Against the available total of $2,150,000, the present shortage totals $498,130, the committee pointed out.

Nearly half of the 1934 budget's 15 per cent increase over last year's was accounted for by inclusion of the $151,000 deficit.

Reports received since December 15, when the last reports were made, total $18,000, leaders said, bringing the grand total of subscriptions to date to $2,148,000—within $2,000 of the total estimated by the finance committee in its statement.

DELAY NADINE ROAD OPENING

Because of the refusal of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to apply for a certificate to run cars across the temporary road at Nadine "bottleneck," opening of the road may be delayed a month, according to Comissioner C. C. McGovern.

After seeking to obtain a certificate for the county, the Commissioners were yesterday advised by the Public Service Commission that application must be made by the company operating the switch. The company refused to comply, McGovern said.

An underpass will replace the tracks on which the company hauls coal across the road probably about February 15, when the road will be opened, McGovern said.

WIFE CHARGES NEGLECT

Her husband told her she did not fit in with his company, Margaret Breitinger, Coal Valley, testified before Judge Ralph H. Smith, in asking a divorce from Louis Breitinger. She also charged:

"My husband told me that he could not take me where he went. But I told him that he took other women out in his car."

Mrs. Breitinger, who told the court her husband had been employed by the county, also testified he had choked her and produced witness to testify that she carried marks of abuse.

De Paul Society To Mark Centennial

The centennial of the founding of the St. Vincent de Paul Society will be observed in Epiphany Church at 11 a. m. Sunday. The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh, will be present.

With units in almost every country in the world, the St. Vincent de Paul Society is one of the outstanding charity organizations of the Catholic Church.

Add 60 Extra Cars For Christmas Rush

More than 60 extra trolley cars have been added during the rush hours due to the heavy Christmas traffic, officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company announced.

The increase to the service, amounting to about 10 per cent, is slightly larger than last year, it was said.

PINCHOT GETS REGISTRATION MEASURE

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—The Harris permanent registration bill for Pittsburgh passed the Senate today, and is in form which will be approved by Gov. Pinchot.

The Senate unanimously approved amendments inserted by the House.

Changed from its original form, the amendments were agreed on at a conference yesterday between Representative Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks; Mrs. J. O. Miller, Miss Gertrude Ely, of the State League of Women Voters; Theodore A. Huntley, secretary to Senator David A. Reed; Edward Boyle, solicitor for the Pittsburgh Registration Commission, and other civic leaders.

Senator James J. Coyne, acting through Steedle, was a party to the agreement.

EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1

In its final form the bill becomes effective January 1, 1934. It will be in operation for the spring primary next year. There will be three registration days next year prior to the spring primary, and one before the November election.

In 1934 registrants may have their names placed on the books as late as May 5. Thereafter no registrations will be accepted later than 30 days prior to a primary election.

This does away with the present registration system, when the final day for enrollment is the Saturday before primary day. This had led to abuses through insufficient time to examine the books and purge them of fraud or error.

An original provision of the bill that registrants on election day should sign their names for comparison with signatures in the registration books, was stricken out.

PENALTIES EASED

Penalties for evasion of the law are fine or jail sentence instead of the mandatory jail sentence originally in the bill.

The registration commission shall consist of two members, a Republican and Democrat.

The present board of four members is ripped out, and the Governor, on January 1, will name the two new members.

Registrants who do not vote for two years will be stricken from the books, and be sent a notice that a new registration is required if they wish to retain their eligibility to vote. As introduced the bill permitted registrants to remain on the lists for four years without voting.

The offices of the registration commission are to be open at all times prior to 30 days before a primary, and citizens may appear there to have their names put on the books. Other registration places also can be permanently established.

General registration days can be set by the commission at any time after 1934.

USE POLLING PLACES

Polling places can be used for registration, as at present.

Controversy which has arisen between the School Board and County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern over rental for school buildings for registration and election purposes is wiped out by a mandatory provision in the bill that the school authorities shall provide rooms for the use of registrars.

The commission is directed to give notice of places of registration three days prior to the date, by posting placards in the neighborhood.

Names of registrants are to be listed on cards, serially numbered, instead of in books, as at present. The registrant will be expected to give the same information he now gives before his name will be accepted.

Registrant may be challenged when seeking eligibility to vote, but has the same right to have his name accepted through affidavit as now.

APPEALS ALLOWED

A citizen refused registration may appeal to the commission 15 days prior to election, and a public hearing must be held 10 days before the election.

The registration cards are to be kept in binders which can be locked, but become public records and are open to examination at any time.

Registrants wishing to transfer their residence from one district to another must do so two months prior to election day.

A registrant may change his party affiliation 15 days prior to election.

Inspectors of registration may be sent out by the commission to canvass any district to determine whether registrations are valid. A provision that police officers might be used as registration inspectors has been killed.

The present registration commissioners are John K. Morrow, chairman, and Mrs. Sara C. Braun, Republicans, and John McCarthy and Mrs. J. Wood Clark, Democrats. Certainly two, and perhaps all, will lose their positions. Mrs. Clark and McCarthy were named by Gov. Pinchot during the last regular session of the Legislature when he removed John Henry and Thomas Joyce, Democrats, who were out of sympathy with County Chairman David L. Lawrence.

Suspect in Liquor Violations Shot

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Invading his home early today, eight armed men seized Russell Clark, and after shooting him through the foot, drove him to a nearby county and then threw him from the automobile.

Clark, known also as Richard Bennett, had appeared before the local courts on liquor charges.

Pinchot in Bed Assails Senate On Social Bills

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot lashed the Senate today in a statement criticizing it for failure to approve the minimum wage bill and other social legislation and he warned "that the fight is not over."

The statement, issued from his hospital bed in New York, where he is receiving attention for a skin eruption, also attacked the Senate for refusing to confirm his Public Service Commission appointments.

He said:

"Once more the Senate, at the orders of Gen. Martin and a group of selfish interests, has betrayed the people of Pennsylvania.

"It has refused to confirm the present Public Service Commission, which everyone, even the utilities, admit is the best commission Pennsylvania has ever had.

"The minimum wage bill has been killed at the orders of the sweatshop operators.

"Other social legislation has also gone down to defeat.

"I may be flat on my back now, but I won't be for long. I wish to give notice that the fight is not over.

"Then we'll find out whether the people have any rights left in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

'Hijackers' Seize Police Patrol Rum

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A Norfolk police patrol wagon bringing 240 gallons of bootleg liquor from the Ocean View precinct to headquarters was "hijacked" by liquor runners this afternoon.

They escaped with the wagon and liquor.

Aged Whisky Sold At 65 Cents a Pint

CINCINNATI, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A brand of aged whisky was sold at 65 to 80 cents a pint here yesterday—while it lasted.

One store disposed of 240 pints in an hour. A neighboring store reduced the price of its blended liquor from $1.75 to $1 a pint.

COUNTY WINS 'AUTHORITY' MEASURE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—The Allegheny County "Authority" bill was before Gov. Pinchot for signature today, having passed the Legislature substantially in the form it was advocated by the commissioners of Allegheny County.

At the last moment Senator James J. Coyne withdrew his opposition to that portion of the bill which permits the commissioners to acquire the Wabash Bridge and tunnel for a new traffic artery to the South Hills.

The measure passed the House finally last night and was immediately sent to the Senate for concurrence in minor amendments.

Concurrence was secured promptly on motion of Senator Morris Einstein, who originally introduced the bill.

The bill authorizes the commissioners to borrow 31 million dollars from the federal government for self-liquidating public works projects. Approval for any project must be obtained from the federal engineers.

The "Authority" would be administered by a board of three to be named by the commissioners.

Representatives of the county government gave considerable credit to Representatives James H. McClure and Max J. Spann for getting the bill approved.

Coal Weight Bill Goes to Governor

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Baldi bill, regulating the sale and delivery of coal and providing for public weighmasters to prevent short weight, was reconsidered in the Senate last night and passed finally.

Earlier in the day the Senate defeated through a tie vote, 21 to 21. The bill now goes to the Governor.

Senators Concur In Pen Probe Bill

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Senate yesterday concurred in the resolution of Representative Baldi, Philadelphia, providing for a thorough inquiry into causes of the recent outbreaks at Eastern Penitentiary.

Controller's Law Aide Waits Pinchot O. K.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A bill designed to create the position of solicitor in the Pittsburgh City Controller's Department was passed yesterday by the House and sent to the Governor. It was sponsored by Senator Mansfield, Allegheny.

TWO QUIT HOUSE FOR COUNCIL

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Representatives John J. Kane and Thomas J. Gallagher, elected members of Pittsburgh City Council in November, today resigned as members of the House.

Under the Pittsburgh city charter they cannot serve in both bodies.

In resigning Kane said he had high regard for the House membership and looked upon Speaker Grover Talbot, of Delaware County, as the ablest man in the Republican party in the state.

Lynch Wins Fight For Probe of Relief

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—The Lynch resolution asking that the State Emergency Relief Board investigate the administration of relief in Allegheny County was sent to the state board by the Legislature today.

Senate approval of the resolution came last night after the House had adopted the proposal.

Taxpayers Protest Closing Assembly

Proposed adjournment of the State Legislature today was criticized in a statement by the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League, which declares the Assembly should remain in session until tax relief is granted. The statement issued by the league was substantiated by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board.

Decatur, Ill., Editor Dies of Pneumonia

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—W. F. Hardy, editor of the Decatur Herald and Review, died at his home today of pneumonia.

Coming to Illinois from Springfield, Mass., 25 years ago, Mr. Hardy achieved state-wide recognition as a newspaper editor. The widow and a son survive. Mr. Hardy was born December 14, 1879, in Blue Hill, Me., and was graduated from Amherst in 1900. He worked on the Springfield (Mass.) Republican until he came to Decatur in 1908 as editor of the Herald.

CHILD LABOR BAN, VOTE BILL WIN

Salus resolution for ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution was approved by the House this morning, 175 to 5.

The bill previously had been approved by the Senate.

There was no debate and after the roll call, several members who voted "no" changed their vote to "yes."

An hour later the Senate approved the Craig (House) ratifier, 29 to 18. The Senate action was unnecessary, however, as approval of only one resolution was needed to give Pennsylvania's official consent.

BACKED BY PINCHOT

Ratification of the amendment was urged by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, but his signature is not necessary. There was no debate in either house.

A Senate bill providing for the refund of taxes on malt beverages sold outside Pennsylvania, was passed unanimously and sent over to the Governor's office.

Another bill sent to the Governor would eliminate the tax-paying qualification of voters. It was sponsored by Senator Mansfield, Allegheny.

A bill to permit state acceptance of federal funds—14 million dollars—for the construction of public works, was passed finally and sent to the Governor. This vote, too, was unanimous.

Steedle (Allegheny), sought to put in an amendment providing for construction of the proposed four million dollar state finance building, but Sterling (Philadelphia), objected and the amendment failed.

HARRIS BILLS PASS

Three bills by Senator Harris (Allegheny), designed to overhaul the workmen's compensation laws to give more benefits to the worker were put through the House by unanimous vote and sent to the Governor.

They increase the time for appeals in compensation cases and require that copies of compensation agreements be given to injured workers.

The Senate adopted the Salus resolution urging Pennsylvania representatives in Congress to support anti-lynching legislation at the next session of Congress.

The Legislature finally approved and sent to the Governor the Sordoni and the Weidemann banking bills.

They provide for extension of Philadelphia branch banking into adjacent Upper Darby and for branch banking in Pittsburgh, and amend Pennsylvania statutes to conform with Federal legislation covering deposit insurance.

The Legislature passed finally and sent to the Governor the Witkin bills which extend the time for payment of the floor tax on liquor until December 24, 1934, and provide for a rebate of the permanent tax on liquor if Pennsylvania shares in revenues from a federal liquor tax.

MILK BILL PASSES

Work on milk legislation was completed, the Legislature sending to the Governor the Buckman bill for control of the industry.

The report of a conference committee appointed after differences arose between the two branches was adopted. It caused a flurry in the Senate, where the vote was 28 to 17, but the House approved it without any trouble.

As sent to the Governor the bill carries no provision whereby the State Board of Control may set the net price which farmers may receive from oc-operatives.

The House inserted an amendment this week to give the board supervision over deductions made by co-operative associations, but this was stricken out. However, the board may allow a differential in price to stores operating on a cash and carry basis.

The act takes effect as soon as the Governor signs it and remains in effect until April 30, 1935. It provides for a board of three to be appointed by the Governor at a salary of $6,000 each.

Congo Gold Mines Will Be Exploited

BRUSSELS. — Exploitation of newly discovered deposits of the Kilo Moto gold mines in the Belgian Congo is expected to begin in the second half of the coming year, according to Acting Commercial Attache L. W. Hunt at Brussels. Some 15 years ago, the report states, the gold reserves of these mines were estimated at 12,000 kilograms. Since that time, 60,000 kilograms of gold have been mined, and the reserves as of December 31, 1932, were officially estimated at 44,000 kilos.

Pinchot Suffers Reverses During Assembly Term

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Accomplishments of the special session of the State Legislature include these:

Liquor control legislation.

One million three hundred ten thousand in pensions to the needy blind.

One million six hundred thousand for assistance to the aged.

Ratification of the child labor amendment.

Against the record may be charged these bills which failed:

Minimum wages for women and children — to eliminate sweatshops.

Full crews for railroad trains.

"Check-off" system of deducting union dues.

Abolition of industrial police.

Elimination of slums in cities.

In addition, a flood of other bills dealing with a wide range of subjects either were killed or died in committee.

Gov. Pinchot, who advocated a great deal of the legislation that was defeated, also was turned down in his effort to force confirmation of his appointees to the Public Service Commission.

MRS. WHITNEY DIES IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. George Quintard Whitney, widow of the founder of the Whitney National Bank of New Orleans, died today.

A recognized social leader here and at Southampton, where she maintained a summer residence, she was credited with extensive charities.

At her bedside at her death were her two surviving children, Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr., of Pittsburgh, the former Elsie Whitney, and Nelson McStea Whitney, vice president of the Whitney National Bank and former southern golf champion, and a grandson, Morgan L. Whitney, of the New York Trust Company.

In addition, she is survived by two other grandchildren, William Penn Snyder III, and George Q. Whitney, both of Pittsburgh, and a brother, Oliver B. McStea, of Memphis.

SEEK TO QUASH DRY CASE HERE

A move to quash an indictment based on the defunct state prohibition laws was made in Criminal Court today.

Attorneys Joseph Rossi and Max Schoonmaker filed the motion in behalf of Pietro Quartuccio, 7445 Verona boulevard, Penn Township, who was arrested in a raid August 27.

The attorneys asserted that since the Snyder Act has been repealed there should be no prosecution. The motion was placed on the regular argument list for the latter part of January.

A similar motion was made recently by the attorneys in a Federal Court case.

TOYS BURIED WITH CHILDREN

POZNAN, Poland, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Death failed to cheat four little Polish tots of their Christmas toys.

The gifts were buried yesterday with the small victims of a wreck here December 15 which took the lives of eight school children.

In one of the largest funerals ever seen in this part of Poland, 60,000 persons were estimated to have walked in the procession from the church to the cemetery.

Rifle Association Awards 1400 Medals

WASHINGTON. — Aside from its regular Camp Perry trophies, the National Rifle Association issued approximately 1,400 medals, including gold, silver and bronze, to winners and runners-up in the corps area rifle and pistol shoots held this year as a substitute for the Camp Perry national matches.

More than 1,000 souvenir medals were also qualified for by competitors at different of the meets. Matches were held in nine corps areas, two of them in the Ninth.

SLUM WAR BILL DEATH BLAMED ON SENATOR

State Senator W. C. Hunsicker, chairman of the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation, today was charged with "bucking" the slum eradication measures before the Legislature. Joseph P. Tufts, assistant director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, made the charge against Hunsicker with this statement:

"He and a group of operative builders from Philadelphia bucked the bills. Pittsburgh builders and legislators as a whole were in favor of the bills."

The housing bills were side tracked Tuesday when the Senate adjourned its day's session, before a meeting of Senator Hunsicker's committee was held.

Tentative plans have been announced here for the holding of a public meeting about the middle of January to hear an executive of the housing division of the Public Works Administration, and plans will be furthered to secure funds directly from the federal government for slum clearance, Tufts said.

In the event there is another special session called by Gov. Pinchot, Tufts declared "every effort will be made to establish a state board of housing."

BANKER SEIZED IN MAIL LOOTING

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Z. D. Bonner, former president of the Commercial National Bank here, and John H. Cunningham, prominent local attorney, were arrested today in connection with a $250,000 mail robbery in Chicago, December 6, 1932.

The men were taken into custody today on fugitive warrants based on indictments returned in Chicago charging conspiracy to buy, sell and dispose of stolen government property.

Bonner and Cunningham were indicted by a District Court grand jury here in October for receiving and concealing, and conspiracy to receive and conceal, in connection with the disappearance of $500,000 worth of government bonds from a New York bank. Each man was at liberty on state bonds totaling $15,000 when arrested today.

MOTHER FREED, BUT LOSES BOY

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Six-year-old Jimmy Coleman, Jr., of South Bend, was juggled between two Chicago courts today and ended in the custody of his father, from whom the youngster's mother had taken him last week.

Judge Alfred O. Erickson in Municipal Court had no sooner smiled at 26-year-old Mrs. Ilo Blumenthal and said, "She may keep her boy," than the woman was taken before Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski in Circuit Court on a habeas corpus writ.

Coleman, senior, having failed to regain his son by charging his former wife in a fugitive warrant with child stealing, tried the habeas corpus method and was successful.

Jimmy, who smiled gleefully when his mother led him out of Judge Erickson's courtroom, walked out of the Circuit Court with his father after a goodby to his mother. He had spent the night in a jail cell with his mother.

Trapper Dies in Boat As Fish 'Fires' Rifle

THE PAS, Man., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Joe Benoit, French-Canadian trapper, caught a large northern pike in the Mattawiskiwa River. He placed it in the bottom of his canoe. It threshed about and its tail touched the trigger of Benoit's loaded rifle. The trapper was killed instantly.

Patricia Pitt

The scene of debutante gaiety shifted last night from Pittsburgh to Sewickley. And although it was rainy and gloomy outdoors, indoors all was gay and Christmasy.

There were two notably brilliant entertainments for the debs last night—the first a dinner which the B. F. Joneses, the III, gave in their home last night for Mrs. Jones' debutante sister, Fredericka Holdship, and the second a dance which the Maitland Alexanders gave in their home for their debutante niece, Althea Robinson.

At the dinner the Joneses gave, although the decorations were Yuletide, they weren't in the usual Christmas red and green, but in green and silver white.

The table was covered with a green cloth, and centered with a mass of silvery white foliage, and lighted by green candles.

Silver and Green, Holly And Yule Trees for Debs

The Christmas red was supplied by the honored debutante's gown —of poinsettia red crepe. The hostess wore a black velvet dinner gown.

On the day before New Year's, Margaret Holdship will give a tea in the family's Sewickley home to present her sister. They are daughters of Charles Frederick Holdship, of Sewickley.

For the dance the Alexanders gave in their Sewickley Heights home for their niece, debutante Althea, they had the two spacious living rooms of their home thrown together. And they were decorated with fragrant Christmas trees, Christmas greens, brilliant red poinsettias. And wreaths of holly and brilliant lights added to the Christmas scene. Pink boavardia gave a touch of spring.

The hostess chose a gown of pastel blue satin, the guest of honor a Yuletide gown of white and silver, and the hostess' daughter, Mrs. William A. Gordon III (Madelaine Alexander), wore a red velvet gown.

Althea made her debut in June at a garden party-tea her parents, the William Christopher Robinsons, gave at their Sewickley Heights home, Franklin Farms.

Barbara Peirce Today's College-Student Deb

This afternoon there was another debutante party. The junior C. L. Peirces' daughter, Barbara, home for the holidays from Smith College, was presented this afternoon at a tea her mother gave in the Peirce home.

Barbara wore a gown of vivid red crepe, and carried white bouvardia, her father's gift. Mrs. Peirce chose a black crepe gown with a white crepe bodice, and had a corsage of gardenias.

Tonight, before the ball Ernest Hillman will give in the Fox Chapel Golf Club for his debutante niece, Margaret Hillman, and for debutante Florence Willock, the John G. Frazers and their daughter post-deb Katherine will entertain at a dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club honoring debs Peggy Robinson, Margery Hillman, Florence Willock and Mary Dilworth Edwards.

Peggy will wear a frothy gown of jade green net and lace; Margery, blue lame; Florence, gold lame, and Mary, white crepe with green for accent. And all will have muffs of flowers, gifts of the hosts, to match their gowns.

Short Yule Holiday For Music Student

Post-deb Margret Brill, daughter of the A. P. Brills, who is continuing her study of the harp at the Curtis Institute of Music, will not get home from school until Saturday morning. And she has to return to school January 2—so you see the life of a young musician is pretty mostly all work.

Taking advantage of the holiday vacation, juniors at Ellis School will have a prom in the school gymnasium a week from tonight. Tilly Jane Reed, who's president of the class, will be chairman.

And chaperones will be the Alex Reeds, the S. S. Marshalls, the William B. Stevensons and the George Mohlers.

Students Here For Yule Add to Holiday Bustle

More young folks are returning home from school. Virginia Humphrey, daughter of the Arthur F. Humphreys, of Greensburg, will be home tonight from Miss Madeira's School in Washington. She's the granddaughter of the Arthur L. Humphreys, of Edgewood.

Also returning from the Madeira School will be Katherine Eaton, daughter of the O. K. Eatons.

Added to the Princeton men returning for the holidays is the name of James Keil Yohe, son of Mrs. Jesse Bennett Yohe.

Smith Morton, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Morton, will be here from Temple University. He's a senior in the medical school.

Here's some news for young skaters—during the holidays both the hour and the day for the Children's Skating class will be changed. Because the usual meeting day—Monday—falls on both Christmas Day and New Year's the class will meet Tuesday, December 26, and Tuesday, January 2, at Duquesne Garden. And holiday skating will be from 6:30 to 8:30 both evenings instead of 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Findleys to Give Trio of Parties

A trio of holiday parties will be given by the John T. Findleys, of Sewickley. Tonight they'll give a dinner in their home in honor of their nephew, Malcolm Findley McConnell and Mrs. McConnell, who recently left Steubenville, O., to come here to live. Mr. McConnell has been appointed superintendent of the Carnegie Steel Company in Homestead.

Mrs. Findley will give a luncheon, also in her home, Saturday for Miss Shackelton, of Dublin, Ireland, now a guest in Salem. Miss Shackelton, who comes from an old Quaker family, has assisted Elizabeth Fry in her prison work in England during recent years.

On New Years Day, the Findleys will give a large family dinner. And among their guests will be the Paul Findleys, of New York, their son and daughter-in-law.

Holiday Date Chosen for Wedding

Another wedding date during the holiday season has been chosen. Miss Margaret Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Edwards, of Sheraden, has named Saturday, December 30, as the date for her marriage to Elmer James Davis, son of Mrs. Myrtle Davis, of the North Side.

Miss Edwards has asked her sister, Mrs. Robert Marshall, to be her matron of honor, and Robert Marshall will serve as best man.

The wedding will take place in the Sherodd Temple, Sheraden, and the reception will also be held at the temple. The bride-elect's father will give her in marriage.

Margaret Boland Married to Dr. Kaiser

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boland, of Jonestown, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Boland, to Dr. John C. Kaiser, son of Mrs. John C. Kaiser, of Northminster street, North Side, which took place December 1.

They will be at home in Davis avenue after January 1. Dr. Kaiser is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College and of the University of Pittsburgh, and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, Psi Omega fraternities and of the Druids, campus club.

Nell N. Thomas Has Church Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, of Latrobe, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Nell N. Thomas, to William N. Zook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick I. Zook, of Latrobe, which took place December 16 in the Christ Reformed Church, Latrobe, with the pastor, the Rev. Harvey W. Black, officiating.

After January 1, Mr. and Mrs. Zook will be at home in Spring street, Latrobe.

More Students Arrive Home for Holidays

Charles Evans Stewart returns from Dartmouth College and his brother, Howard George Stewart, Jr., returns from Greenbrier Military School the end of the week to spend Christmas with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Stewart.

Home from Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., comes Allen Holding, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. C. Holding, of Bryant street, today.

William Ferris, son of Mrs. Grace J. Ferris, of Pittsburgh, returns home this week for the holidays from Riverside Military Academy.

Crafton Women Give Benefit Yule Party

One of the numerous Christmas parties at the Goodwill Industries will be that given by the Crafton Woman's Club tonight for the Goodwill Mothers' Club and the Goodwill Young Women's Club. A feature of it will be the play which the very tiniest folk of the settlement will give.

Another party scheduled for tonight will be given by Miss Helen Gleason's group from Mt. Lebanon with the girls of the 10-to-14 age as guests.

Before the week's series of parties is concluded at Goodwill, more than 1,000 boxes of candy and 1,000 presents will have been distributed.

Children Guests Of Mt. Lebanon Club Women

Approximately 400 children were guests of the Women's Republican Club of Mt. Lebanon yesterday in the Municipal Building at the club's first Christmas party. A huge Christmas tree was the contribution of the township Commissioners and bags of sweets and fruits contributed by the merchants were distributed to the small guests.

The Firemen's Band, directed by H. S. Webb, played several numbers and accompanied assembly caroling, which was led by Mrs. E. J. Gealy. The program also included dance numbers by Virginia Brooks, Nancy Rohrkaste, Mary Whyte, Harriet Rohrkaste and Bobbie Tate, Mrs. H. M. Austin accompanying, and selections by Stewart Braden, Robert Orrell and James Rudge.

Tennessee Girl And Latrobe Man Wed

Miss Martha A. Fry, of Union City, Tenn., and Edward L. Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Kelly, of Latrobe, Pa., were married October 10 at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Mrs. Kelly attended the University of Alabama, and was a member of Phi Mu Sorority. Mr. Kelly is a senior in the University of Alabama, and a member of Chi Beta Phi and Tau Beta Phi fraternities.

After spending the holidays with Mr. Kelly's parents, they will return to Tuscaloosa for the remainder of the school year.

Mrs. H. L. Katz Leaving For Eastern Wedding

Mrs. H. L. Katz, of Rockland avenue, Beechview, will leave the day before Christmas for Boston, where she'll attend the wedding of her nephew, Harry Brown, son of O. Brown, of Boston, to Miss Jean Berson, also of Boston. She will return by January 8.

Mabert King Betrothed To Dr. Harold W. Edwards

Palms Taking Pines' Place In Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 21.—Substituting palm trees for spruce and sunshine for snow, the local winter colony is in the midst this week of a scintillating program of Yuletide gaieties, which will culminate Christmas Day in the annual celebration at the Miami Biltmore Country Club. The latter event, always one of the smartest of the Christmas season, will be attended by several hundred members of the Florida Year-Round Clubs and their guests.

Saturday afternoon many of the fashionable winter colony will keep open house in their cabanas at the Roney Plaza Cabana Sun Club. The custom, established several years ago, has become one of the most popular forms of exchanging greetings on Christmas Eve.

Another outstanding event on the week-end calendar is the tea dance of Mrs. Morton Fogal, of Alhambra Circle, is giving tomorrow afternoon at the Miami Biltmore Country Club, the affair being planned as a welcome to a number of visitors here for the holidays.

Members of the college set will have their first large affair tomorrow night at the Biltmore Club, when the Pi Chi fraternity will give its annual Queen of Clubs ball, bestowing the title on the candidate voted most popular by local sororities and fraternities.

Presence here of two of official Washington's most prominent hostesses, Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of former Vice President Curtis, and Mrs. John Allen Dougherty, chairman of the Roosevelt inaugural ball, who are visiting Col. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty at the Miami Biltmore Hotel, has been the occasion for many important social functions during the week. Another interesting member of the party is Miss Helen Lee Doherty, who is home from Denmark for the Christmas vacation, where she is with the Hon. Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to that country.

In the realm of sports, the outstanding event of the week will be a Christmas Day exhibition match for charity on the links of the Biltmore Country Club with Gene Sarazen, P. G. A. champion, and Mike Brady, twice tied for the National Open crown, pitted against Willie Mcfarlane, recent winner of the Miami Biltmore $10,000 Open and Billie Burke, National Open Champion for 1931.

Health Colony's Santa to Visit Leech Farm

Every child at Leech Farm will receive a gift from the Health Colony Club's Santa Claus when the club's Leech Farm committee under Mrs. J. J. Callahan has its annual Christmas party there tomorrow afternoon. For six years this philanthropic group has been bringing holiday cheer to the little folk at the farm and this year an especially merry season is planned.

There's to be a movie which will be witnessed not only by the children but by all the out-of-bed patients. Letters have been written to the committee by the children, who will find the answers in the packages delivered tomorrow by Santa. Suitable wearing apparel will also be distributed and there will, of course, be refreshments.

Lillian Zeigler Marries in Parsonage

Miss Lillian B. Zeigler, daughter of Mrs. Walter B. Zeigler, of Wittmer street, and Norman E. Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Daniels, of Muscatine, Ia., were married today in the parsonage of the First Presbyterian Church, North Side, by the Rev. J. Alvin Orr.

After spending the Christmas holidays with Mr. Daniels' parents in Iowa, they will be at home in Pittsburgh.

College Girl to Spend Christmas in East

Miss Gertrude Lowenstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Lowenstein, of Portland street, who is a student at Mt. Mercy College, will spend the Christmas holidays in Philadelphia, as the house guest of Miss Antoinette Husik, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Husik, of Philadelphia.

Wilkinsburg Couple Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hulley are celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary tomorrow in their home, William Penn Highway, Wilkinsburg.

With many a howl of delight we fell upon these atomizers which are making an appearance at one of the stores. Ideal things of "beauty and joy forever" with their tall smartness standing a full 12 inches high . . . of Tiffany-Favrile-like type of glass.

Made by De Vilbiss . . . the king of atomizers . . . and enough to kindle any feminine desires to own one at the price of $1.95. (Which is nothing short of criminal as they used to be $7 and $8). Peacock blue or iridescent.

What ho! . . . you of the lusty morning appetite! Give ear to these words about the waffle irons which are bending their necks to a $4.95 price knell! One of the stores has been featuring these at $6.95 . . . but being as how they have but 36 of them left, have reduced them for a grande finale these last days before Christmas!

They're made by a well-known maker . . . are automatic—a red light tells you when they're ready to use, and when the waffle is done! Just like eating by stop and go signs! And there's a light or dark control . . . insuring the color of your personal waffle to be all it should!

Chromium finished . . . with an oversize grid to prevent waffle juice from running over onto the cloth . . . and complete with electric cord. Bring on the maple syrup and get busy!

* * *

If it's shoesies which are needed to round out your Christmas list . . . by all means get your ear to the ground and trot off to where these beauties are making whoopee for the smallish sum of 95c! (They're the self-same bridge and hostess slippers we chortled proudly over two months ago at $1.25. Please note present savings!)

Of plain black or corded crepe with quilted or plain satin linings —in blue, orchid, red, green, yellow, peach. Some with bows on the toes . . . some with rosettes and bows at the sides . . . and all with far more style and quality than you'd expect to find for a mere 95c.

* * *

With the gentle art of wining and dining once more in favor . . . everyone hastens to gather up at least a FEW of the necessary drinking accessories.

And since you would scarcely serve your after-dinner benedictine in a teacup . . . or yet in a highball glass . . . we suggest you gaze at least casually over these liqueur sets we have routed out for you. $2.50.

Eight different styles of them . . . in Bohemian glass (pink, blue, green, crystal, amber, aquamarine) . . . a bottle with 6 glasses . . . nice enough for the family or a friend.

* * *

And when the nuts go 'round at the holiday festivities . . . let them do so in a silver plated dish such as these.

Formed into a sea shell pattern (so popular as you know) and quite a nice large size. A wonderful buy for $1 . . . and every one of them with a 12-year guarantee!

* * *

Everyone is buying clips! We'll wager that there have been more clips sold than any other jewelry (even more than the popular tiaras)!

So we just up and went a-clipping for you. With this result . . . that we did catchum clips . . . plenty of beauties . . . for as little as $1. Marcasite clips in bow knot effects . . . plain rhinestone . . . rhinestone with blue stones set 'round in a circle . . . and others with colored bar effects at the top! In short . . . if a-clipping you will go, make sure you see these before deciding! (There are even some in PAIRS for this price.)

* * *

At last! The men have come into their own. No more sheepish stumbling about through the lingerie departments of town midst fancied titterings of ever-present femininity!

For one of the smartest places to buy linens and lingerie has set aside Thursday and Friday nights for the MEN ONLY! They will be able to buy any of the filmy, dainty confections which lure their masculine hearts . . . but they will be waited upon by men. Just another of these man-to-man affairs, you know! Ladies, tell your husbands (your chance to get those French undies you've wanted). Girls, tell your fiances if you yearn for something really beautiful.

Three States Unite For 'Inland Empire'

THE DALLES, Ore.—All the inland empire, eastern Oregon and Washington and Idaho, is uniting in a demand for adequate locks at the Bonneville dam, on the Columbia River. Tentative plans call for locks 15 feet deep, which would accommodate ordinary river steamers. Construction of the dam, however, will result in slack water of sufficient depth for ocean-going steamers to come up the Columbia as far as The Dalles if locks are adequate..

Couple Wed Again After 57-Year Lapse

RIFLE, Colo.—A romance allowed to lapse 57 years was renewed here with the marriage of Mrs. Lillian Rice, 75, of Rifle, and J. J. Johnson, of Uvalde, Texas. The two separated after a youthful marriage. Mrs. Johnson remarried and her second husband died. Then Johnson came to Rifle and reclaimed his onetime bride.

Settlement Asks Santa For Radio

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Does anybody have a radio to spare? Brashear Settlement would like one for its recreational center and it need not be a new one, settlement officials point out. Not only would the settlement folk appreciate a radio, which is their special request of Santa, but they need tables, pictures, books, magazines, table games, equipment for sewing classes and handwork classes and chairs for the new-old building.

It was in the fall of 1932, you remember, that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company granted the Brashear Association the use of the old railroad Y. M. C. A. building in Sarah street for recreational purposes. Due to lack of funds the building could not then be adapted to settlement use. A little later, however, unemployed men, living in the community, volunteered their services and the building was renovated and was opened to the public in October.

This unit is in a community which is totally devoid of any recreational facilities for its residents; the enrollment, therefore, has been heavy. At present 883 men and women are enrolled and there is an average attendance of nearly 1,000 per week. Mrs. C. W. Scheck, of Mt. Lebanon, is chairman of the house committee at the center.

Thursday Noon Club Holds Christmas Meeting

Today's meeting of the Thursday Noon Club for Business Women in the First Presbyterian Church is its Christmas session.

Music is by the First Presbyterian Church quartet consisting of Alberta M. Baker, Hilda McMillen, Robert Johns and Howard Price, with John A. Bell accompanying.

The Christmas message is being delivered by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Macartney.

Country Club Scene Of Crafton School Dance

The mid-year graduating class of the Crafton High School will hold its annual dance in the Chartiers Heights Country Club Wednesday evening. James Joyce is chairman of the committee. Aides will be Miss Jane Aull, Miss Betty Biggs, Miss Betty Stauffer, Miss Dorothy Daub Miller, Miss Gertrude Crippen and Miss Ann Joyce.

Disabled Veterans Group Giving Party Saturday

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War is having a Christmas party for the children of the veterans at the club, Ridge avenue, on Saturday evening.

The committee consists of Mrs. Margaret Bolster, Mrs. Cecelia Albrecht, Mrs. Hannah Brosky and Mrs. Ida Keogh.

Miss Ella King Vogel Honored by Educators

Miss Ella King Vogel, Pittsburgh club woman, has been appointed a member of the National Education Association's international relations committee, of which Miss Anne Woodward, of Boston University, is chairman. The appointment was made by the president, Miss Jessie Gray, of Philadelphia.

Party Will Benefit Needy Crafton Pupils

A party for the benefit of the undernourished children of the school will be held tonight in the Third Ward School, Crafton, by the Parent-Teacher Association. Each child at the Christmas entertainment beinng held this afternoon by the P. T. A. is receiving a gift.

Bellevue Round Table Donates Yule Stockings

One hundred toy-filled stockings have been donated by the Bellevue Round Table for the party to be given for the children at the Moorhead School on Saturday morning. The affair is in charge of Miss Alice Cox, of the Public Health Nursing Association.

Yule Party to Mark Syria Ladies Meeting

Syria Ladies' Social Club will combine a children's Christmas party with its monthly meeting on Wednesday in Syria Mosque. On Saturday, January 13, the club will sponsor a card party at McCreery's, with bridge, pivot, progressive bingo and other games.

Pupils to Entertain Parents in Ingomar

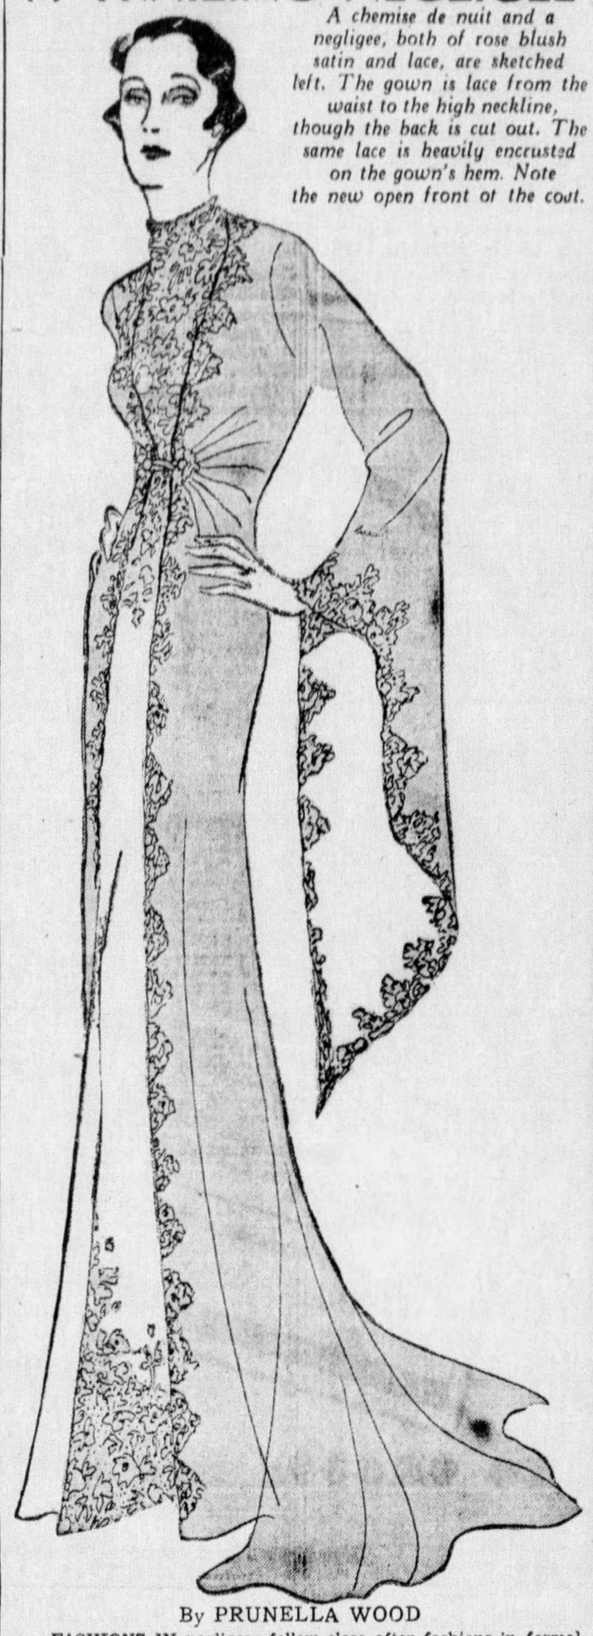
The Ingomar Parent-Teacher Association will be entertained this evening by the pupils in two plays and a drill. Miss Wilma Marlatt is directing. The affair to which the community is invited will take the place of the regular meeting.

St. Raphael's School To Entertain at Dance

St. Raphael's High School will have a holiday dance Friday evening, December 29, with Miss Isabel Kramer as general chairman. Students and alumni will be guests.

A TRAILING NEGLIGEE

A chemise de nuit and a negligee, both of rose blush satin and lace, are sketched left. The gown is lace from the waist to the high neckline, though the back is cut out. The same lace is heavily encrusted on the gown's hem. Note the new open front of the coat.



By PRUNELLA WOOD

FASHIONS IN negligees follow close after fashions in formal evening gowns, and there is a distinct push towards elegance on in the newest models dedicated to the boudoir. Designers know that women don't give a hoot any more whether their negligee sleeves are so impractically long as to trip up the breakfast cream pitcher, or that their skirts are trained enough to cover the apartment floor like a tent.

MAYBE IT IS a slight hangover from the Mae West flurry, and maybe it is just another case of inhibitions riddled, but there does seem to be an awful lot of lace on intimate models, which dress them up no end, despite the streamlines of the garments themselves.

THERE ARE lovely negligees that make good use of dark lace appliques on dusty pastel satins. Other models have very fine lace trimmings dyed to exactly match the material carrying them. It is the off-shades that are prettiest treated this way in such tints as shrimp, ice green and blue, or palest gray.

THE MOYENAGE idea in fashion, that medieval beauty which gives a woman's clothes loose princess lines and sleeves that float away from the wrist, is an especially effective and comfortable one for a negligee. The sketch above shows this influence clearly.

LIVERMORE'S STORY GIVEN POLICE

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Jesse L. Livermore, prominent Wall street operator, whose disappearance led to fears he had been kidnaped, is safe at home again after an absence of a little more than 24 hours.

He awoke in a room in a midtown hotel yesterday afternoon, saw a newspaper which told of the search being made for him, and immediately took a taxicab home.

'MIND IN BLANK'

There he told police and Department of Justice agents that he had been "with friends." Later police reported Livermore told them that from the time he had left his office around 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon until he awoke in the hotel "his mind had been a blank."

His disappearance, however, was still something of a mystery. Livermore appeared pale and distraught when he reached home, and a short time later he was said to have gone to bed.

The stock operator, once called "the Boy Plunger," was last seen Tuesday afternoon leaving his office in the downtown quarters of Pearl & Co., stock brokers, through whom Livermoore has been doing his trading. Employes of the brokerage firm said Livermore appeared to be acting "a little strangely."

DRIVER'S STORY

A taxi driver told police he had driven Livermore from his home to his office Tuesday afternoon and that on the way his passenger had doubled up with an attack of nausea. The driver said he offered help, but Livermoore declined it and when they got to his office dismissed the driver.

At the hotel where Livermore said he awoke, it was said there was no record of his having registered there Tuesday night or yesterday. The room whose number was given out by police was said by hotel attendants to be occupied by a permanent guest.

A physician who arrived at the Livermore home a short time after the trader's return said he was in good health and satisfactory condition.

NAME CATHOLIC SPEAKERS

Speakers were announced today for the fourteenth annual meeting of the American Catholic Historical Association next Thursday and Friday in the William Penn Hotel under auspices of Duquesne University.

They will be the Rev. Moorhouse Miller, of Fordham University; the Rev. Charles Walsh, of Woodstock College, and the Rev. Patrick J. Carry, of Huntington, L. I., who will speak Thursday, and the Very Rev. Felix Fellner, prior of St. Vincent Archabbey, Latrobe; the Rev. A. Perrotta, of Providence College, Providence, R. I., and Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, Friday.

At a banquet Thursday night in conjunction with the American Catholic Philosophical Association, speakers will be Constance E. McGuire, president of the American Catholic Historical Association; the Rev. Charles C. Miltner, president of the Philosophical Association, and the Very Rev. J. J. Calhan, president of Duquesne University.

ALUMINUM SUIT JURY CHARGED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 21.—(A.P.)—United States District Judge Carroll C. Hincks charged the jury all day yesterday in the $9,000,000 suit of the Baush Machine Tool Company, of Springfield, Mass., against the Aluminum Company of America and said he would continue his charge today.

The case, now in its twelfth week, is expected to reach the jury next week.

The plaintiff required six and one-half weeks to present its case and the defendant three weeks.

The Machine Tool Company alleges the Aluminum Company established and maintained a monopoly in the aluminum industry by controlling the price and the aluminum supply.

13 Lumbermen Get Strike Riot Terms

VILLE MARIE, Que., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—After the largest mass trial in the history of Northern Canada, 13 striking lumbermen were given prison sentences ranging from four to 12 months yesterday and 64 drew suspended sentences.

The men pleaded guilty to rioting and engaging in an unlawful assembly.

Exiled Prince Murat Dies in Morocco

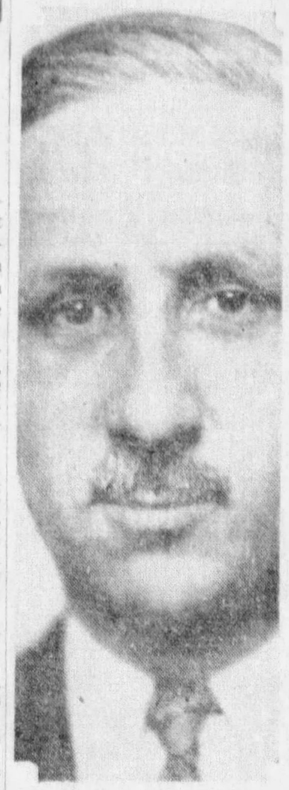
NABAT, Morocco, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Prince Lucien Murat, a great-grandson of the King of Naples, who ruled in the time of Napoleon, died yesterday at the age of 63.

Prince Murat fled from Russia, his maternal home, during the revolution and lived since in exile in Morocco.

Reports Being Robbed On North Side Street

James Rossiter, of 118 West Ohio street, reported to the North Side police early today that a Negro held him up in Arch street and robbed him of $5.

Retail Director



DR. JAMES H. GREENE

RETAIL GROUP NAMES GREENE

Dr. James H. Greene, head of the Research Bureau for Retail Training, University of Pittsburgh, has been appointed executive director of the Pittsburgh Retail Merchants' Association, effective January 1, according to announcement today.

Edgar J. Kaufmann, president of the association, in making the announcement, said:

"We consider it most fortunate to be able to make the announcement that Dr. James H. Greene, for a number of years director of the Research Bureau for Retail Training at the University of Pittsburgh, will take up his duties January 1, 1934, as executive director of the Pittsburgh Retail Merchants' Association, which vacancy has been caused by the resignation of Wilmer M. Jacoby, who accepted a position with the Sun-Telegraph as publisher.

"Dr. Greene has served the Studebaker Corporation at South Bend, Ind., as manager of the co-operative department for the last four years.

"He also has a background of retail store management and had an opportunity while director of the Research Bureau of Retail Training to enter into many problems which have to do with retailing."

ARCHITECTURAL CLUB TO FROLIC

Ushering in repeal with their first annual wassail, the Pittsburgh Architectural Club, Charette way, will hold its Christmas party for member architects and their guests tomorrow night. Invitations have been limited to 150, including members and guests.

The affair will be an old-fashioned public house celebration laid during the Twelfth Century in England. The club rooms, recently the scene of the society benefit parties, have been renamed the "Pencil and Compass" and will be decorated as an old English tavern.

There will be the tap room and the barroom, the scullery and the inn court and strolling players, minstrels and bufloons.

During the evening there will be the historic procession of the Boars head, the blazing pudding and the Yule log. Many will be in costume.

FATAL TRAFFIC MISHAPS DROP

Unless an unusual number of fatal street accidents occur between now and January 1, traffic deaths in Pittsburgh for 1933 will show a decrease over 1932.

This was apparent from the reports of the Traffic Planning Commission which shows 106 deaths from street traffic for the first 11 months in 1933 compared to 114 for the same period for the preceding year. Last year's total was 128.

Property damage totaling $750,000 has resulted from accidents so far this year, the report shows, from 1,181 accidents in which no one was injured. Besides the 106 fatalities, 21 of them children, 2,275 persons were injured.

Pedestrians continue to head the list of fatalities, 75 dying in 1,197 accidents this year.

Man's Leg Broken In Auto Accident

John Schmidt, of Island avenue, McKees Rocks, was in West Penn Hospital today suffering from a broken leg suffered when he walked into the path of an automobile driven, according to police, by Thomas A. Griffin, Jr., of 307 North Winebiddle avenue.

Jewels Worth $275 Stolen From Home

Robert M. Moore, of Cathcart and Moore Company, reported to police early today that his home at 3235 Beechwood boulevard had been entered by thieves and jewels valued at $275 taken.

VALLEE, WHITEMAN -:- Uruguayan Conference -:- ON RADIO

Dick Powell Broadcasts Tonight

Dick Powell, Pittsburgh stage show idol, and Ruby Keeler are guests of Rudy Vallee in his Variety Program broadcast from Hollywood over an NBC-WCAE network tonight at 8.

* * *

One scratches one's head over the programs that CBS lists as the highlights of the evening.

First, there is the broadcast from the Pan-American Conference in Montevideo, Uruguay, where diplomatic representatives of all North and South American countries are patting one another on the back in an attitude of "All for One, One for All." It is heard over WJAS at 11:15.

Over the same station, at 3:30, Columbia presents "The Voice of America," featuring William Lyon Phelps and Henry W. Taft in a program extolling the virtues and supremacy of the U. S. A.

* * *

THREE HOURS

Many a dial will stay set on WCAE from 8 until 11, to pick up Rudy Vallee, "The Show Boat" and Paul Whiteman.

* * *

The Mendelssohn Choir of Pittsburgh, one of the oldest musical groups in the country, is heard from the studios of WCAE at 5:15.

* * *

The first movement of Schubert's Symphony No. 8 is played by the Philadelphia Orchestra, over CBS-WJAS at 9. The second movement will follow, tomorrow.

* * *

Glen Gray, Irene Tayor and the Do Re Mi Girls stage another colorful caravan show over CBS-WJAS at 10.

* * *

AERATED

"Scotch and Soda" is a new tune that Andre Kostelanetz pours into a CBS-WJAS microphone at 9:30.

* * *

Betty McCook, petite pianist from Pennsylvania College for Women, gives a recital over WWSW tonight at 9.

* * *

Lois Miller, at the console of the organ in the T. A. McGinley home on Sewickley Heights, plays a group of old Christmas favorites over KDKA at 7:15.

* * *

A merry Christmas broadcast, in which about a hundred Pittsburgh radio personalities take part, is heard over KDKA tonight from 9:30 to 10:30.

Harry Keck Gives Sports Review

Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, discusses pertinent sports topics of the day in an interview over WCAE tonight at 7.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the news over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.; over WCAE at 6:30 p. m.

Laughter of Radio Comics Suddenly Turns Hollow

By AIRCASTER

Pity the poor Pagliaccis of the turbulent kilocycles!

It may be their business to make laughter, but if you should ask me, most of them are prancing with tears in their eyes.

Times have become suddenly tough for the comic fellows, and it isn't a bit funny for them.

The explanation may be, and probably is, that their wells of humor have run dry. This deplorable possibility is darkening their days and haunting the nights of their script writers.

Steadily, the already low standard of air comedy is sinking, and so are the radio bosses' hearts.

* * *

ONE-BY-ONE

Sponsors are always first to complain, and they're taking full advantage of their prerogative.

George Beatty, who made jokes on the CBS Sunday oil program, was first to be caught in the anti-comic current. He was dropped somewhat arbitrarily two weeks ago.

At about the same time, Jack Pearl and his cigaret sponsor came to an impasse in their hitherto cordial relations.

The result was that Pearl adopted another sponsor for January 3.

This was tough on Bert Lahr, who has to get out to make room for Pearl.

BENNY'S BATTLE

Within the same week, Jack Benny and Lulu McConnell have found their respective roads strewn with obstacles.

Miss McConnell decided to devour and so lost herself.

Benny, with a 17-week contract, decided to fight for his rights, when his boss subordinated his stuff.

The battle was still on yesterday, with the deadlock unbroken, but with relations officially unsevered.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

It was grand to know that so many parents were pleased with the special Santa Claus broadcast yesterday. The text, as many of you recall, was taken from an editorial printed years ago in a New York paper in response to a question by a little girl who wanted to know whether there is a Santa Claus. Many have already asked for a copy of the editor's answer to the little's girl's question. The Sun-Telegraph at Christmas time every year reprints the letter and the answer. Look for it in an early issue.

The Christmas spirit is on full blast up in Carrick, where Mrs. M. Hipkiss has a home-made Christmas tree creation that expresses all the exuberance of the season.

Mrs. M. C. Kelly is walking about in circles today because the little grey owl that made its nest 'neath eaves of her house isn't there any more. After the first fright of seeing its peering eyes at the window she and her little son became very friendly with it. The little lad would sit and watch while Mr. Owl looked back in solemn, dignified delight. It's gone now and the Kellys would like him back.

RECIPE REQUESTS BRING MANY REPLIES

Housewives Display Eagerness to Be Helpful

In piles they came, the answers to recipe requests made by Prudence Penny last week. Eighty-six recipes for lemon butter, 79 for springerlies, 26 for erumpets, 30 for old-fashioned brown peppermints, 20 for peppernut cake and 49 for rye bread.

Since the recipes received were basically alike, Prudence Penny deemed it unfair to give one of each group a prize, ignoring the others. Consequently the judges did not award any prizes to these request recipes. Rather they picked out the first satisfactory one of each group received and are printing them in today's column for the use of Sun-Telegraph housewives.

Two types of recipes for lemon butter, one cooked, the other uncooked, are included in the list. In the recipes for springerlies variations were made in the following ways:

1—Adding anise oil to the dough.

2—Mixing anise seeds with dough.

3—Sprinkling dough with seeds before baking.

In the future all recipes sent in will be eligible for prizes. Mail yours in today to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. The awards for the best ones received are a $5 prize and 10 $1 prizes. No recipes will be returned.

OLD-FASHIONED BROWN PEPPERMINTS

Two cups of maple sugar.
One cup of cold water.
One cup of dark corn syrup.
Butter size of walnut.
One-half teaspoon peppermint for flavoring.

Mix ingredient of maple sugar, water and corn syrup to a boiling point, stirring constantly until the boiling point is reached, boiling briskly until it forms threads when droped in cold water. When removing from fire add butter size of walnut, also flavor with one-half teaspoon of peppermint. After beating ingredients thoroughly let stand until it is cooled sufficiently that one can handle. Have both hands well greased with butter so mixture can be pulled and rolling in shape use square pan powdered with confectioner's sugar, then cut in small strips.

E. R. EATON,
2705 Broadway avenue.
LEMON BUTTER

Two tablespoons butter.
One-third cup sugar.
One whole egg.
Grated rind of one lemon.
One tablespoon lemon juice.

Melt butter in top of double boiler, add sugar, then well-beaten eggs, lemon and rind. Cook until it drops from the spoon in thick sheets. Delicious on Danish pastry and as a tart filling for hot cake for supper dessert.

MISS MARY V. JAMIESON,
808 Pennsylvania avenue, Irwin.
LEMON BUTTER

One-fourth cup of sweet butter.
One-fourth teaspoon sweet paprika.
One tablespoon lemon juice.

Cream the butter and add the paprika together, then add the lemon juice, drop by drop, stirring constantly until all the lemon juice is thoroughly blended with the butter.

MAY M. SWAN,
R. D. 7, Bellevue.
PEPPER NUT CAKES

One-half teaspoon black pepper.
Two pounds sugar.
Six eggs.
One cup butter.
One-half teaspoon cloves.
One teaspoon allspice.
One teaspoon nutmeg.
One cup raisins, chopped fine.
One-half cup citron, chopped fine.
One-half cup almonds, chopped fine.
One teaspoon baking soda.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One cup milk.

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs and beat thoroughly. Add the other ingredients in the order given. Add enough flour to handle dough easily. Roll out in the shape of pencils and cut in two-inch lengths. Bake in a moderate oven until a golden brown.

MRS. A. M. BROWN,
58 Emma street.
SPRINGERLIES
(German Anise Cookies)

Four large or five small eggs.
One pound powdered sugar.
Piece of butter size of walnut.
Knife point baking powder.
Six drops anise oil.
One pound pastry flour.

Beat the eggs and the sugar together for one-half hour. Add the butter just before finishing the beating. Stir about three-fourths of the flour, the oil and baking powder into the mixture. Place on board and knead the other one-fourth of the flour into the mixture. Roll out but not too thin, cut into the desired shapes, or use one of the fancy rolling pins for the last rolling. These rolling pins will mark out the cookies in about one and one-fourth inch size and print a fancy design on them at the same time. Let the cut cookies stand over night to dry. Bake in a slow oven about 20 minutes. These cookies will be brown on the bottom but not on the top.

MRS. E. TILBROOK,
Irwin.
CRUMPETS

One cup butter.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Two-thirds cup milk.
Two eggs.
One teaspoonful baking powder.
Three cups flour.
One cup seeded raisins.

Beat butter and sugar to a cream, add the beaten eggs and milk, then the raisins and lastly the flour and baking powder sifted together. Roll thinly, cut into fancy shapes and bake on a greased tin in a quick oven.

MISS MARY V. JAMIESON,
508 Pennsylvania avenue, Irwin.
GERMAN RYE BREAD

One cake of baker's yeast (2 oz.).
One cup of milk, scalded and cooled.
Two cups of lukewarm water.
Five cups of rye flour.
One and one-half cups of white flour.
One tablespoon melted shortening.
One tablespoon salt.

Method: Dessolve yeast in lukewarm liquid, add two and one-half cups of rye flour, or enough flour to make a sponge. Beat well. Cover and set aside in a warm place free from draught to rise about two or three hours. When light, add the white flour, shortening, rest of rye flour or enough to make a soft dough and the salt. Turn on a board and knead for five minutes. Place in a greased bowl, cover and let rise until double in bulk about two and one-half hours. Shape into loaves and place in pans, cover and let rise again until light. Brush with white of egg and water to glaze. With sharp knife cut lightly three strokes across top and place in oven. Bake slower than white bread. One tablespoonful of caroway seed may be used if desired. This recipe makes two medium sized loaves. Note—By adding one-half cup of sour dough, left from last previous baking, the acid flavor may be obtained, which is considered a great improvement.

Five-Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. M. J. WANDLESS,
527 Grandview avenue.
FRUIT SALAD SUPREME Serves Thirty

Two cans pineapple.
One can large white cherries.
One pound marshmallows.
One pound English walnuts.
Four egg yolks.
One-half cup milk.
One pint whipped cream.
Juice of two lemons.

Cut pineapple in small pieces, add stoned cherries and drain several hours. Add marshmallows cut fine, and chopped nuts, then fold in following dressing: Mix four beaten egg yolks, one-half cup milk and juice of two lemons; bring to boiling point, let cool, then add one pint whipped cream. Let chill four hours and serve on lettuce leaves.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

MRS. M. M. LAIRD,
190 Superior avenue, Emsworth.
CHRISTMAS CRIMSON SALAD

One and one-half tablespoons granulated gelatin.
One cup cold water.
Three-fourths cup vinegar.
Two bay leaves, crushed.
Four whole cloves.
Eight or 10 small beets cooked or one medium-sized can of beets, sliced.

Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Add vinegar and spices and cook five minutes. Slice cooked beets thinly (or other canned beets), into a salad mold. Strain gelatin mixture into mold over beets. Cool and set in refrigerator to stiffen. Turn out on bed of lettuce and serve in slices with boiled dressing. Eight servings.

LORETTA C. SHUSTER,
229 Freeport road, New Kensington.
POTATOES DIFFERENT

One cup cold mashed potatoes.
Two tablespoons flour.
Two eggs, well beaten.
One cup milk.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One small onion, chopped fine.
Pepper and salt to taste.

Mix potatoes, eggs, onion, salt, pepper, flour and baking powder together and add milk. Beat well and drop into hot grease and fry. Chopped meat may be added.

MRS. H. C. HETRICK,
718 Riverview road, Verona.
SNOW-PEAKED PRUNE PIE

Three cups cooked prunes.
One cup chopped apples.
One cup sugar.
Four tablespoons margarine.
One cup cream.
Two egg yolks.
One tablespoon flour.
Marshmellows.

Into a pie pan lined with cheese crust, scatter chopped apples and finely cut cooked prunes. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and dot with margarine. Pour over it a mixture of cream and beaten egg yolks. Dust with flour. Place strips of thinly cut pastry dough over pie in widely apart lattice design. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. Then in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until prunes are tender. Remove pie from oven and place one marshmellow in each of the holes of the lattice work in the pie crust. Brown delicately in the oven. This recipe make a delicious pie, especially if the cheese crust is used instead of the ordinary pie crust.

CHEESE CRUST

One cup flour.
One-half cup cottage cheese.
One-fourth cup margarine.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Cut margarine into flour. When well blended, add cheese and salt. Press against the sides of the bowl so that all the ingredients cling together. Remove from the bowl, wrap in wax paper and allow to chill before rolling out.

MRS. D. C. BROWN,
58 Emma street.
GLACE FRUIT AND NUTS

White grapes, orange sections, stoned dates, figs and nuts may be prepared in this fashion. Dates or figs may be stuffed with nuts before dipping. Boil one pound granulated sugar with one-half cup water to the brittle. Take from fire, set kettle in pan of boiling water to keep liquid and add juice from one-fourth lemon to syrup. With sharp pronged fork dip each piece of fruit or nut into hot syrup and dry on buttered tin or waxed paper. Repeat until perfectly coated. Do not redip until first coat is dry.

MRS. JOSEPH B. DRAKE,
5423 Howe street.
APPLE BIRD'S-NEST

Butter a pudding dish and put in four good-sized apples sliced thin, a cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, and put little pieces of butter over them and sprinkle with cinnamon. For the crust, take one egg, one-half cup sweet milk, a piece of butter size of an egg, one teaspoon baking powder and flour to make a stiff batter. Pour over apples and bake. To be eaten with sweet cream.

MRS. M. DONAHUE,
Box 125, R. D. 5, Butler.
COCOA FRAPPE

Four cups milk.
Three large squares of chocolate.
One-half cup cocoa.
One-half cup sugar.
One-half tablespoon arrowroot.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One tablespoon sherry wine.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-inch stick cinnamon.

Mix chocolate, cinnamon, sugar, salt, arrowroot, add milk, cook 10 minutes; add vanilla, sherry, and freeze. Serve in frappe glasses, and garnish with cream, flavored and beaten; also candied cherries. Three cups of milk and one cup strong coffee may be used, instead of all milk. This is one of my favorite Christmas "goodies" long used.

MRS. MARGARET SMITH,
538 Wood street, Pitcairn.
CHRISTMAS MINCE-MEAT CANDY

Take the white of one egg and mix with it powdered sugar until it forms a creamy substance stiff enough to mold; into this press nuts, raisins, chopped figs, dates, preserved ginger, citron and some other different spices used for mince meat. Pack into a tin box lined with parafine paper and leave it for a while to ripen, then cut with a sharp knife into cubes the size of caramels. Do them up in parafine paper and pack in a fancy box, labeled "mince meat" on the outside.

MRS. J. E. BALDWIN,
730 Sidney street, Greensburg.
SOFT BROWN SUGAR COOKIES

Two cups brown sugar.
One cup lard, or half butter and half lard or other shortening.
Two eggs.
One-half cup sour milk.
One-half teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon soda.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
Flour to make a soft dough, about three and one-half cups. Sprinkle with sugar on top and bake in moderate oven.

MISS G. SENIOR,
720 Ninth street, Irwin.
FRENCH VANILLA CREAMS

Break into bowl the whites of two eggs, add an equal quantity of water, measure in one-half eggshell. Then stir in enough confectioner's sugar to make stiff enough to mold. Knead well. This is the foundation for all French creams. Add flavoring, nuts or chocolate and form into shapes and lay on butter paper until ready to box.

MRS. J. KINDLING,
R. F. D. No. 5, Box 399, Wilkinsburg.
KAISER CRUMBS

Four cups of milk.
Two eggs (whole).
One-half cup of sugar.
One cup farina.
One-half cup raisins.
Two tablespoons of butter.
One teaspoon salt (level).

Put four cups of milk in a mixer and add two eggs and sugar. Mix well with egg beater. Add salt, raisins and farina. Mix well. Put two tablespoons of butter in a pan and melt over gas. When the butter becomes hot, put the mixture into the pan. With the pan still on the gas mix it till it becomes thick, then put in oven and bake for one or one and one-fourth hours. Mix at intervals about five or six times till it becomes nice red pieces. Serve very hot.

Desired Information On Delicacies Presented

Giant Squid Caught In Herring Nets

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A giant squid with tenacles 28 feet long was brought to St. John's from Dildo, where it was captured after it had become entangled in herring nets.

It will be processed in a cold storage plant here and sent to the biological station at Bay Bulls, Newfoundland, for preservation.

MAN JAILED, U.S. RIGHTS LOST

Paul Zagorc, of Howard street, East Pittsburgh, native of Yugoslavia, yesterday in Federal Court was ordered to surrender the certificate of naturalization granted him in 1929 and to serve six months in jail. He was convicted Tuesday of giving false testimony in his naturalization examination, by failing to reveal that he had been arrested.

According to government officers Zagorc served 16 years in prison in Austria in connection with the death of a girl.

Loborio Sanlucci and Pasquale Mastodomenco, of Coraopolis, were sentenced to pay fines of $100 and placed upon probation for one year, when they pleaded guilty of giving false testimony in a naturalization proceeding. Giusseppi Cuda, of Coraopolis, was acquitted on a charge of violating the naturalization law.

STERILIZATION FACES 400,000 IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Germany's new law ordering the sterilization of all persons afflicted with incurable diseases was hailed today as another step in Nazi efforts to create a Germanic super race.

First national move of the kind ever legalized, the law, effective January 1, may mean the denial of the right of parentage to 400,000 men and women.

This vast host of persons, considered "hereditary defectives," must submit beginning next month, to examination by 1,700 "eugenic courts" set up to pass final judgment.

Upholding the government's action in ordering the courts to prepare for their work, the newspaper Deutsche Zeitung said today:

"He has the greatest love for humanity who prevents the sick from being born and becoming a burden upon the healthy.

"National Socialism (Nazi-ism) will unflinchingly do its duty."

Cardinal Bertram, Germany's senior Roman Catholic cardinal, has been selected to protest publicly and also to attempt to obtain last-minute intervention by Chancellor Hitler, it was understood.

Generally, however, there has been little open expression of opposition to the new law.

OIL MAN'S SON WAITS HEARING

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Back in the Venango County jail, 19-year-old Walter Witherup is awaiting formal hearing on a charge of slaying his father in an oil lease shack near Kennerdell.

The hearing, listed for Friday, December 29, was fixed yesterday by Justice of the Peace Frank W. Riddle in Scrubgrass Township, near Clintonville, not far from the scene of the shooting of Clark N. Witherup, 50-year-old oil man.

In a brief five-minute arraignment yesterday the youth quietly pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder.

District Attorney-elect Maurice Breene said the case will be presented to the grand jury January 22.

SON SENTENCED AS SLAYER

KITTANNING, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Described by his attorney as a "mental case," Paul Uhing, 19, must serve an intermediate sentence at the Huntingdon Industrial School for the fatal shooting of his father, Steve Uhing, 58.

Asserting the youth is suffering from "heboid dementia praecox," Dr. C. C. Wholey, Pittsburgh psychiatrist, told Judge J. Frank Graff that Huntingdon would be the best place for young Uhing.

Earlier in the trial, the youth's counsel sought to prove he was the son of mentally-retarded parents. Three other children of the family are in institutions for mental cases. Paul shot his father last June.

Two Divorce Suits Filed, Three Granted

Divorce suits have been filed by Catherine E. Besser against Charles Besser and by Anna Marie Harrison against John H. Harrison.

Divorces were granted to Katherine Smith from Clifford F. Smith, Sue K. Salio from Edward G. Salio and to John P. Fleming from Grace Fleming.

Prelate Dissolves German Youth Unit

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller today ordered the dissolution of the Evangelical Youth Organization and turned the membership over to the leadership of Baron von Schirach, leader of the Hitler Youth Movement.

France to Abandon Arms Negotiations

PARIS, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Public abandonment by the French government of attempts for direct talks with Germany on armament and other problems became a practical certainty today.

SUSPECT HELD IN MURDER

A Coroner's jury recommended a murder charge be lodged against Dominic Teberio, 50, Renton miner, today for the fatal shooting of William Mellinger, 42, also of Renton, December 8.

Joseph Price and Lawrence Adams, both of Renton, who said they witnessed the shooting, testified they saw Teberio shoot Mellinger in front of the Renton School. The shooting was said to have followed a quarrel between the two men.

Sleuth Shoots Way Into Hotel, Seizes 4

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Four men were held by police today after their capture last night by a lone detective who shot his way into a dark hotel room where they allegedly were in ambush for two men well known in Washington sporting circles.

Tipped that the four were planning to rob Tom Moore and Harry Shapiro when they returned to their apartment, the detective, Frank O. Brass, found them awaiting their purported victims' return. Reserves arrived from headquarters as the fourth was found.

ATHEARN BARES OUSTER CAUSE

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 21.—Dr. Walter Scott Atheran, Boston, Mass., nationally known educator was dismissed as president of Butler University here October 28 because he refused to be a "mere rubber stamp" for the school's directorial board of directors.

This was set forth in a 72-page typed report of his two-year stewardship of Butler University which Dr. Athearn filed with the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools here today.

sensation in Indianapolis as well as in pedagogic circles in the United States asserted that under the present "dual control" system of the school, the president was a mere figurehead.

March Session Forecast, With Local Government Economy as One Aim

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—There will be no special session of the Senate in January to act on the Pinchot appointees to the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Shields

Nor will there be a special session of the whole Legislature shortly after the first of the year to deal with the program of social legislation which was slaughtered in the session ended today.

There may, however, be another special session about March first, with Gov. Pinchot including in the call practically everything projected for the present session, little of which was approved.

This is the gossip in administration circles today, where there is extreme bitterness toward the Republican organization and some senators who yesterday refused to vote to confirm the Pinchot appointees to the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Pinchot did not wish to call the session ending today at this time. If it had not been for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment the session would not have been called until February. With repeal effective on December 5, it was imperative that there be legislation dealing with the taxing and regulation of the sale of liquor.

For that reason the governor called the session for November 13, including in the program of legislation many social subjects. These he would have laid before the Legislature under any condition, but the liquor subject gave him a valid reason for summoning the legislature to Harrisburg.

* * *

Most of Pinchot's Program Blocked

With the exception of liquor legislation, soldier bonus, pensions for blind and a "half-loaf" old age assistance bill, the governor's program has been rebuffed.

Nearly all of the things for which he originally intended to call the special session have been rejected. The slum eradication measure embodied in the housing program, minimum wage legislation, state income tax and truck regulation have been buried through the action of the Senate, controlled positively by the Republican state organization.

Confirmation of the Governor's appointees to the Public Service Commission has been refused. His suggestions for election reform have been frowned upon. Abolition of the privately-paid deputy sheriffs and the coal and iron police has been refused.

Under the circumstances the Governor has a basis for a new call, though it is assumed that should he issue it he will make readjustments in the costs of local government one of the primary purposes.

The Governor is known to feel strongly that there should be an elimination of many of the duplications in local government which run up the costs to the taxpayers. He has been urged to call a session with no other purpose in view.

March would be a logical political time to summon the members back to Harrisburg. It would be the eve of the state-wide primary campaign, when Mr. Pinchot is expected to be a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination.

The action of the Republican organization, if it ignored the Governor's demands, would be fresh in the minds of the public as it went to the polls.

Senator's Reprisal Charge Adds Fireworks

The charge by Senator Leroy Chapman, of Warren County, that his brother was fired from the highway department yesterday because the Senator voted against the confirmation of Public Service Commissioner P. S. Stahlnecker added a fiery touch to the closing hours of this session. The Senator, while not naming Mrs. Pinchot, charged that she was running the government while Mr. Pinchot is suffering from shingles in New York.

There is little doubt that he is right, and that his brother was penalized for the adverse vote.

There was plenty of pressure surrounding the vote on the Stahlnecker confirmation. The Pinchot administration is reported to have offered attractive inducements for votes. The regular Republican organization is asserted to have exerted such pressure as was within its power for votes against the administration move.

The Senate vote demonstrated that the organization rules that body with an iron hand, though totally unable to direct the House. In the absence of the Governor the Pinchot contingent is without leadership.

It is true that Senator Frank J. Harris attempted to act as floor leader, scurrying feverishly about the floor, but his activities were ineffective except in attracting attention to his gyrations.

Representatives of the Governor's office came onto the floor to tell the Senator what to do, but they were unable to give him the votes to back up the various parliamentary maneuvers to which he resorted.

Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, on the other hand, marshaled his forces with military precision, the episode being the general's best recent evidence of party leadership.

GROUP TO STUDY CITY HOSPITAL COSTS NAMED

McNair Representative Expected to Urge Public Works Cut

The appointment of a committee of hospital executives and interested citizens to investigate the costs of three city hospitals has been announced by Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, who has been representing Mayor-elect William N. McNair in a study of city finances.

The committee of 18 has been named by McNair, Mrs. Smith stated. Several social workers are included.

PLAN EXPENSE STUDY

They will study the epenses of the City Home and Hospital at Mayview, the City Tuberculosis Hospital at Leech Farm, and the Municipal Hospital.

On the committee are Dr. B. Z. Cashman, Dr. A. H. Colwell, Dr. Ellis Frost, Dr. Charles Ley, Dr. I. D. Metzger, Dr. Susan Offutt, Dr. William O'Neil Sherman, M. H. Eichenlaub, Sister Mary Laurentine, Sister Mary Rose, Abraham Oseroff, Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, Henry G. Yearick, Dr. G. Walter Zulauf, Mrs. Frank A. Bond, Louis H. Gethoefer, Miss Isabelle Kennedy and Mrs. J. O. Miller.

A recommendation from Mrs. Smith suggesting large reductions in appropriation for the Department of Public Works was expected today in Council.

MAY ASK PAYROLL CUT

It is believed that some of this reduction may be a shifting of activities into relief bond funds as urged by Councilman George S. Oliver. However, it is believed that Mrs. Smith will ask for some reductions in payroll, represented in eliminations and consolidations of city bureaus.

It is also reported that a method has been found to make a further substantial reduction in the sinking fund, money set aside for the retirement of bonds.

WORKMEN STARTING THE TASK OF CLEANING COUNTY JAIL: NOTICE THE "NEW" COLOR

MAYOR-ELECT EVASIVE ON SELECTION

New Drive Started for Pennington; Leaders Back Mill Man

The weathervane of the next Mayor's cabinet slating continued to spin briskly today.

Commander John D. Pennington apparently was still under consideration as Director of Public Safety, but the word went around that Frederick W. Weir was the leading candidate.

One Democrat said of the Weir candidacy:

"You can bet all the tea in China on Weir for Safety."

Mayor-elect William N. McNair today received a letter expressing intensified support of former Prohibition Administrator Pennington from a group of ministers. They pointed out that Pennington now was eligible for the job, since they had convinced Council that the ordinance forbidding non-residents from holding the position should be repealed.

Wise Democats were afraid to bet on the proposition, however, due to the hot-and-cold attitude of Mayor-elect McNair.

To all their advances and all their advice he refuses direct replies. They say he denies former statements and that they are, conservatively speaking, bewildered.

But it was learned that Democratic leader Joseph F. Guffey, County Chairman David L. Lawrence and Michael L. Benedum are united behind Weir, superintendent of the Etna and Sharpsburg works of Spang-Chalfant and Company, since no other proposed candidate is known to suit the mayor-elect.

Apparently Weir hasn't sought the job. His taking it would mean a decided financial sacrifice, since the safety director's job does not pay what a steel mill's superintendent receives.

But Weir, an old-time Democrat, is thought to be available, and all that remains to be said is McNair's word.

Meanwhile, the nomination of James L. O'Toole, Jr., by Guffey and Lawrence for McNair's secretary to supplant Percy R. Williams, his present appointee, was not thriving today.

It was learned that McNair expects Williams to serve him for several weeks, at least, in the joint post of chief assessor and secretary before he names another secretary.

There were many objections to Williams, chief of them being, apparently, that he served McNair instead of the party. McNair consented to shift Williams.

But he hasn't yet accepted O'Toole, past candidate for County Court, and he evades the issue by saying he will save money by having Williams serve with only one salary.

But that's the sheerest evasion—McNair has made up his mind not to accept O'Toole, provided he can turn him down with a minimum of embarrassment.

That seems to be McNair's chief stock-in-trade today—evasion.

That's why the Democratic leaders are at their wits' ends today and that's why the game of "ring-around-the-rosy" seems to be their principal occupation—they don't know and McNair doesn't know—or he won't tell them—what's going to be what and who's going to be who.

Which leaves the cabinet slate today supposedly with Attorney Cornelius D. Scully for City Solicitor, Weir for Safety, James P. Kirk for City Treasurer and Williams for Assessor. Who the others will be is honestly unknown.

SHOPPERS SEE SUSPECT SHOT

While hundreds of late Christmas shoppers looked on, an alleged auto thief, fleeing police, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded by a Carnegie policeman late yesterday.

Nicholas Drosp, 22, of 115 Dickman street, Carnegie, was being returned to jail by Patrolman John Baird after a hearing on a larceny charge before Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen when he broke away from the officer and darted into the crowd of shoppers, police said.

Drosp, who was taken to the St. John's Hospital, was said to have been under parole on an assault and battery charge. He was arrested in Carnegie early yesterday in the machine of Louis S. Livermore, of 539 Bouquet street, Carnegie, Chief Keisling said. He admitted theft of three automobiles in the Carnegie district, Keisling said.

Kamins Auto Store Safe Looted of $100

One hundred dollars in cash and a quantity of motor parts were stolen from the Kamins Chevrolet Company, Shady avenue and Forbes street, by thieves who blew open the office safe last night. Entrance was gained by breaking a window and safety lock on a rear door, according to police.

Arlington Avenue Man Hurt in Crash

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 21. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

That Mussolini is a "darb." He interviewed 92 mothers with a gross total of 1,288 children, which divides out to about 14 head per each, while our great slogan for the perpetuation of civilization was "a car in every garage."

Will Rogers

Mussolini's was "a baby in every arm, and more if you can carry 'em." He knows no nation ever become great on garages. You can't win a war in a sedan, or repel an invasion in a coupe.

These other dictators think they are doing some "dictating" when they announce a budget quota. But when you start laying out a maternity quota for the women, then you are really in the dictating business. That makes these other dictators look like amateurs. Yours, WILL.

Master Barbers Fix Rates for Next Year

Members of the Master Barbers' Association of Pennsylvania today announced that January 1 the price of hair cuts would be 50 cents and shaves 25 cents in their shops. College Head Loses $5,000 Crash Suit

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marie Schuller, Chicago, today was awarded $5,000 damages against Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University, by a jury in Superior Court, for injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

She sought $10,000, claiming she received severe bruises and cuts in a crash July 24, 1932.

WANTS HUSBAND FREED

A Pittsburgh wife's plea that her husband be released from prison to take a job as manager of a meat shop and support his family is before the State Pardon Board. Mrs. Samuel Benjamin, according to an International News Service dispatch from Harrisburg, yesterday told the board:

"I want to plead with the board to forgive my husband from serving the last six months."

Benjamin has served three years of a three and one-half-year sentence on an arson conviction.

Frank Maley, Allegheny County murderer, who has been in Western Penitentiary since 1913, also asked the board to release him so that he could return to his native country of Jugoslavia.

COUNTY BUDGET CUT $162,362

With budget sessions scheduled to resume today for consideration of a few remaining departments, County Commissioners have reduced 1934 budget requests by $162,362.

This brings the total of budget requests down to $20,516,137, which represents no variation in salaries, which must be considered by the salary board.

In yesterday's sessions some $19,000 was added to the new Juvenile Court over which Judge-elect Gustav L. Schramm is to preside. The money, however, represented a transfer of sums previously allocated to other courts, and includes the salaries of three clerks.

Schramm will ask for a chief clerk when salary questions are officially discussed.

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

To Col. Sharpe, chief of the Department of Military Information, Secret Service Operator 13 was making a clean breast of everything. Except that she was in love. The July heat in Virginia was terrific, and the colonel was not sure whether perspiration or tears bedewed the flushed cheeks of the fair penitent.

She told him how—under Maj. Allen's regime—she had made prisoners of John Gailliard and Vespasian Chancellor, and how, horrified by the execution of a spy before her very eyes, she had let them go. Then she told him about her attempt to force John Gailliard across the Canadian border. "I bungled it," she said. "I suppose any other Secret Service agent would have shot him. But, after all, sir, you gave me the choice, and I did try to drive him into Canada. Now I suppose you'll never trust me again."

"You're mistaken, ma'am." For a while he sat in silence. Then he inquired abruptly, "Could you become a blonde, ma'am?"

"I suppose so," she said, startled.

"Can you wear a blonde wig—er—persuasively?"

She laughed. "I'd rather dye my hair and eyebrows. And eyelashes, too, if you like. I tried it once. It gives me a kind of pig-like look."

New Adventure

"Do it your own way, ma'am." There ensued another silence. Finally he said: "It's Richmond, ma'am. Gen. Meade wants information. Every bit you can send him. He'd like to know what's in Lee's mind—if you can find out. And what is happening in Richmond. And what Mr. Davis is thinking about. So you'd better go as a well-bred lady. Don't you think so, ma'am?"

"I think so."

He opened and handed her a gold locket. It contained a miniature of a dark-eyed girl with yellow hair.

"You'd look like her if you were blonde," he remarked. "Her eyes are a little piggish, but very fetching. This is the sister of the spy, Cleburne. It would be a safe impersonation for you; she sailed for England last week on a blockade runner out of Wilmington. She'll not be in Richmond to confront you. This locket was found on Cleburne's body." He handed her another packet. "Here are all Cleburne's papers, and also a full history of Miss Cleburne, her relatives and friends."

"It's like a part in a play, with cues," she said; "I am cast for a role and am to fa-

POLICEMAN PLAYS SANTA TO CHILDREN

Wilkinsburg Pupils Exchange Gifts With Officer

The envelope was addressed "To the Best Cop in the World" and the note read;

"This is for policeman, laughing and gay, When he's not here you can bet he's away."

This was the thanks Wilkinsburg School Officer John L. Shipley received from Little Betty Hill, of the Johnston School, when he played the part of St. Nick at Ecker way and Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, again this year.

Shipley has played the part of the Christmas spirit with the help of his wife and daughter, Stella for three years. They pack and distribute 200 boxes of candy to the children who use his crossing. Numerous return gifts, reflecting the personalty of the small givers, testify to his popularity. The gifts range from cigaretts and large linen handkerchiefs to Christmas cards of class room manufacture. All carry the stamp of junvenile worship.

SEEK TO QUASH VOTE CONTESTS

Attorneys for the Democratic party have filed a motion asking Quarter Sessions Court to quash four election contest cases filed recently by Republican attorneys for Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar.

These followed the action of the Republican attorneys who are seeking the quashing of 21 contests filed by the Democrats in the sheriff contest.

Judge Sylvester J. Snee fixed January 5 for both hearings. The main reason advanced by the Democrats in their petition is that insofar as Gollmar was elected he has no just cause for attacking the vote of his opponent, John Heinz, in four districts.

New Appeal Launched For Toys for Poor

With gifts of toys less than in former years, George L. Bond, founder of the Pittsburgh Toy Mission, launched a new appeal for playthings today.

The Mission has received a total of about 4,500 toys, he says. Last year 20,000 were given.

For 40 years the Mission has been the only Santa Claus many poor children of the city have known. Unless the Toy Mission has toys to put in their stockings this Yuletide, there will be thousands of children disappointed, Bond points out. Toys for older children are needed the most. Anyone who has toys of any kind, even if they are broken, should bring them to the Mission's headquarters, 100 Wood street, or call Court 7183.

LOAN APPEALS OF 3 BANKS APPROVED

Loans for three Pittsburgh district banks, giving relief to depositors of the closed institutions, have been approved by the Deposit Liquidation Board, according to an Associated Press dispatch quoting an announcement by Dr. William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking.

The loans approved are for the State Bank of Salina, Westmoreland County, $55,000, representing 75 per cent of the deposit liability; State Bank of Beaver Falls, $180,000, or 60 per cent, and the Fifth Avenue Bank, Pittsburgh, $610,000 or 50 per cent.

APPLICATIONS APPROVED

Dr. Gordon said six other banks had loan applications approved by the Pittsburgh committee of the Deposit Liquidation Board and they have been sent to Washington for approval. Applications from 10 additional institutions, he added, will be in the hands of the Pittsburgh committee by Friday.

The six applications before Washington authorities are the Citizens State Bank, Salisburg; Hamilton State Bank, Pittsburgh; Indian County Deposit Bank, Indiana; McGillick Savings and Trust Company, Pittsburgh; Perry State Bank, Pittsburgh; Real Estate Savings and Trust Company of Allegheny, Pittsburgh.

BANKS LISTED

The 10 banks to apply to the committee include the Garfield Bank, Pittsburgh; Citizens Trust Company, Bellevue; Federal Title and Trust Company, Beaver Falls; Dixonville Deposit Bank; Smicksburg State Bank; Farmers and Merchants Bank of West Newton; Monongahela City Trust Company; Valley Deposit and Trust Company, Belle Vernon; Washington Trust Company, Washington, and Merchants Savings and Trust Company, Pittsburgh.

Applications pending before the Pittsburgh committee are from the Bank of Secured Savings, Pittsburgh; Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, Pittsburgh, and Tarentum Savings and Trust Company, Tarentum.

DETROIT BANK 'DODGE' BARED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Evidence was poured into the record of Senate banking investigators today that the Guardian Banks of Michigan avoided showing bills payable in their reports to the Comptroller by a system of inter-bank deposits.

Robert O. Lord, former head of the Guardian group, denied his previous testimony, however, that the system permitted reporting no bills payable when there actually were some.

The committee then received in evidence a letter showing the head of one of the banks involved still considered the bills were "payable" though they were reported as deposits instead of outstanding bills.

WANT AIRFIELD RETAINED

Retention of Rodgers Field, which county commissioners have been trying to sell for the last seven months, is the objective of a campaign opened today at a meeting of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh.

The opinion of the members is that the field should be held for use of private planes and as a means of stimulating interest in private flying.

Addressing the regular weekly luncheon of the Aero Club, D. Barr Peat, pioneer in the aviation industry in Pittsburgh, said:

"We need Rodgers Field as a place where we as individuals can fly and maintain planes. There will shortly be manufactured an airplane, at the suggestion of the federal government, within the price reach of all of us."

Chairman C. C. McGovern, Park Director A. M. Marion and H. R. Bazley, county airport manager, will be invited to attend next Thursday's luncheon meeting to discuss means of utilizing Rodgers Field.

CAMPBELL GETS SAFETY POST

John Campbell, a former Pittsburgher, director of the Bureau of Industrial Standards and acting director of the Bureau of Inspection of the Department of Labor and Industry, has been named director of safety for Pennsylvania, according to announcement today from Harrisburg.

The appointment was announced by Eric Biddle, civil works administrator. It has met the general approval because "dovetailing" of the federal and state safety programs will be possible.

Campbell was educated in the Pittsburgh public schools and is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

ACTRESS WEDS MAN SHE SUED

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—Betty McMahon, pretty 20-year-old film actress, was on her honeymoon today with Franklin C. Stevens, Jr., the man she sued a few weeks ago for asserted breach of promise to marry her.

Their differences forgotten, Miss McMahon and Stevens, wealthy Beverly Hills sportsman, were married last night.

The couple first was married last September 19, but separated the next day when Miss McMahon learned that Stevens' final decree of divorce from his first wife was not final.

After Stevens' divorce became final, Miss McMahon sued for $150,000 breach of promise, alleging he had refused to keep his promise to marry her. Answering the suit, Stevens said he was "ready and willing to marry Miss McMahon at any time."

MAN, GIRL HELD IN HOTEL FAKES

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A man who identified himself as H. Ame Babcock, formerly a wealthy shirt manufacturer of Chicago, and a woman campanion, who gave her name as Mrs. Lee Moore, 28, former cigaret girl in the Lincoln Hotel, Springfield, Ill., were held without bail here today as fugitives from justice in Chicago.

Magistrate Michael A. Ford in Jefferson Market Court ordered a hearing for next Thursday and denied bail when Assistant District Attorney William Goldman told him the couple was wanted in a dozen different states.

The District Attorney's office said they had passed worthless checks at some 26 hotels during a four-month tour in a stolen automobile.

Police said definite complaints had been made to hotel associations concerning their check-cashing operations from hotels in Pittsburgh, Miami, Atlanta, Greensboro, S. C., Ashville, N. C., Memphis and New York.

H. A. Babcock is wanted in Pittsburgh for the alleged victimizing of three hotels with worthless checks last August. The checks were cashed on a credit that had been established by Babcock as a former member of the firm of Babcock and Babcock, of Chicago, according to the records of the William Penn, Fort Pitt and Pittsburgher hotels. The hotels report Babcock was registered in a single room, and Mrs. Lee Moore was not involved in the charges.

WOMAN BARES 'HONOR KILLING'

GLOBE, Ariz., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Sheriff Charles R. Byrne said today a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Maude Stegall came to him and said she fatally stabbed an unidentified man in resisting an attack near Birmingham, Ala., in August or September, 1929. He said:

"She seems to have gotten a big load off her mind."

Mrs. Stegall, who is about 28, gave her maiden name as Maude E. Graham. She told Byrne, he said, that she stabbed the man three times when he attempted to attack her at a resort 12 miles from Birmingham. She said she believed he died about three days later.

She said she gave herself up against the advice of her husband, with whom she came west for his health.

ROOSEVELTS WILL HANG UP STOCKINGS

By MARIE MANNING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—"Grandpa" will get the first glimpse of the gifts Santa leaves at the White House for the children.

In accordance with time-honored Roosevelt tradition, the grandchildren whose stockings are hanging at the presidential mansion Sunday night will take their presents to the President's bed to open them.

It is also in line with family custom for the youngest children to be the first to extend greetings to the head of the family.

ALL IS READY

Christmas preparations at the White House indicate there has never been a happier or more genuine family celebration than that which will take place Sunday and Monday, with everything revolving around "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall.

When "Buzzie" wrote to Santa on White House stationery two weeks ago, his letter was a long one. His mother says it sounded like an inventory of everything he has heard of in his brief life.

"Sistie," who is three years older, made fewer requests. She knew more about Santa than her brother.

THOSE CLOSED DOORS

For days, "Grande Mere," as they call the President's wife, has told them certain doors on the top floor are not to be opened; that if anything could turn old Santa into a crosspatch on Christmas eve it was poking and nosing around closed doors and cupboards a week or so before Christmas.

"Sistie" in her Christmas letter to Santa wrote that she wanted a bicycle more than anything else, and please not to forget to leave one for her.

All stockings will be hung by the fireplace in the President's bedroom before which a huge wood fire is laid every night, ready to be ignited before the President gets up.

FAMILY CUSTOM

Placing stockings in the room of the head of the family has been the custom ever since the President has had grandchildren.

In keeping with the way they are being brought up, it's an unwritten rule of the White House that they shall not be spoiled, and that extravagance in clothes, toys and parties shall have no part in their rearing. Consequently, Santa was advised that simple gifts be placed in White House stockings.

"Grandpa" is expecting to be awakened early Monday morning. After the children have emptied their stockings and shown them to the President, the elders will inspect their presents. The stocking of Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother, will hang next to his. What is to go into his stocking is being kept a secret.

The President is fond of the old family customs and always reads for those assembled beneath his roof at Yuletide, Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

The Roosevelts are sending cards only to close personal friends and they're being mailed to arrive Saturday.

MOB MENACES SUSPECT'S KIN

HICKMAN, Ky., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A strong guard today was being maintained at the Fulton County Jail after Deputy Sheriff Joe Walls said some men who were congregating in groups around the building had told him if they didn't "get" Monroe Irvine, Negro, they would take his brother-in-law, Daze Freeman, who is in jail here.

Irvine was removed to the McCracken County Jail at Paducah after his arrest on a charge of attacking Walter Harris, 53, storekeeper of East Hickman, who is in a critical condition with a fractured skull.

Freeman was arrested on information received by Sheriff Goalder Johnson that he was in possession of the money taken from Harris' pocketbook after the attack. The empty pocketbook was found among Irvine's effects.

San Jose Lynching Hearing Continued

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The preliminary hearing of Anthony Cataldi, 18, charged with participation in the recent lynching here of Thomas H. Thurmond and John M. Holmes, was continued yesterday until January 9.

The continuance was granted by a justice of the peace when Deputy District Attorney Herbert Bridges said the prosecution was not ready and that plans were being made to lay the matter before the grand jury.

Elliott and Wife Interview Santa

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt came to Dallas from Fort Worth to do some Christmas shopping yesterday and discussed the matter with Santa Claus in the lobby of a downtown hotel.

Young Roosevelt and his wife arrived in Fort Worth, Monday night from Los Angeles to spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Roosevelt's mother, Mrs. J. B. Googins.

'Santa Bandit' Robs Hollywood Woman

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Wearing a Santa Claus mask and with the statement "I'm Santa Claus—a new kind. I'm taking instead of giving," a bandit today held up and robbed Mrs. John Fisher of a $1,000 diamond ring and some cash.

LITTLE THEATER OPENS IN BARN

In a little theater constructed with their own hands, its materials bought with money they had earned, the Globe Players, made up of almost as many nationalities as there are members, formally opened their playhouse last night in the rear of the International Institute, 405 S. Dithridge street, with a Christmas program at which other clubs of the Institute were their guests.

Miss Yealy

Lacking a place to stage their productions, the Globe members decided early in the fall to remodel the old unused barn of the International Institute into a practical and artistic theater. To do this they raised money by giving entertainments. Some of the money was donated by interested Pittsburgers.

Members spent every spare moment for months in the barn tearing down, building up, whitewashing, painting, arranging, until their little theater was ready for its opening last night.

For their initial presentation in their new home, they staged a Christmas play, "The Dust of the Road." Those taking part, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Yealy, coach, were Dorothy Scott, Edward Comperda, Steven Orniska, and Alexander Unkovich. Following the play, the audience, representing almost all the nations of the earth, joined in the singing of Christmas carols led by Charles Stitt.

Tonight the performance will be repeated for members of the International Institute Board and for club members who could not attend the opening performance.

BUDDHISTS SEEK NEW RULER

Universal Service.

PEIPING, Dec. 21.—Rumor that the Dalai Lama died from poison spread through Buddhist Asia today as priests of Lhasa, Tibet's forbidden and holy city, sought his successor among baby boys born the hour of his death on Sunday.

Spinning prayer wheels, examination of the heavens, and iron rods cast upon water were the guides to which the heirarchs of Buddhism turned in performance of the age-old rites designed to find the New Buddha reincarnate.

But the rumor that laid the Dalai Lama's death to poison further maintained that the winner of a three-cornered game of international intrigue for control of the Tibetan plateau where China, Britain and Russia meet, will name the next supreme pontiff of 150,180,000 Buddhists.

Some foresaw possible restoration to power of the Panshan Lama, who was exiled to China 10 years ago. As a result of this schism, Chinese and Tibetan troops have fought each other the past year.

Britain is seen fighting against relinquishing its power in Tibet; Russia is anxious to remove this British sphere of influence from its southeastern frontier.

Santa Can't Insure White Christmas This Year

DENVER, Col., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—There were no less than 15 youngsters in their annual huddle with a department store Santa Claus about Christmas presents and everthing from dolls to electric trains was discussed. It remained for a toddler of three to suggest the weather. She lisped:

"I think we need a big snowstorm."

They all agreed and Santa suggested prayer. The tots joined him. But the weather man was against them for he predicted more fair and warmer weather with little prospect for a white Christmas in the mountain country.

HOOVER TO PLAY SANTA CLAUS

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Former President Herbert Hoover will be Santa Claus for his grandchildren this Christmas.

It will be the Hoovers' first "home" Christmas in seven years—the first, also in a long time, that the demands of formality will not cast a chill over the merry-making.

Little Peggy Ann, 7 years old; Peter, 6, and Joan, 3½, children of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., are expected with their parents tomorrow from their Southern California home.

Allan Hoover, younger son of the former President and former First Lady, is expected Saturday from Fresno, where he is employed in a bank.

Mrs. Hoover, quiet and smiling, often as not by herself at the wheel of her automobile, has made frequent trips to the "Main Street" shopping district of Palo Alto. Searching for the "loot" she calls it in conversations with friends.

Packages that go back to the campus home include toys and other good things for the children, gifts for all the household, and, of course, the trimmin's and fixin's for the tree.

AIRMAN FLIES TO RESCUE 5

EDMONTON, Alberta, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The rescue of five prospectors believed to have been stranded for two and half months on barren Manitou Island in Great Bear Lake was under way today.

When news of their plight reached Fort Norman, on the east arm of the lake, an air pilot was dispatched from Rameron Bay, Northwest territory, to bring them out.

The stranded party is headed by "Nick" Murphy, geologist of Calgary. It left Calgary last July. The others are O. S. Chapin, Jr., and L. A. Brotherston, former assistant city engineer of Calgary, and F. G. Dwelle, of Nanton, Alberta. The name of the fifth member was not learned.

Rockefeller Family Home for Christmas

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 20.—(AP.)—For the first time in 15 years all the Rockefeller family will be at Pocantico Hills for Christmas.

The illness of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., kept the aged oil multimillionaire from going to his winter home in Florida and his son, grandchildren and great grandchildren are all at the family estate. Rockefeller's condition was described as "just about the same" by persons close to the family tonight.

Christmas Tree For Birds at Washington

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Arno B. Cammerer, director of national parks, at dusk tonight will light a Christmas tree for the birds in Sylvan Theater.

It's decorated with Girl Scout pagentry, with particular foods—raisins, sunflower seed, suet, rolled oats—to attract particular birds.

Two large painted birds on either side of the tree will be flood-lighted to show all the birds they're invited.

BRITAIN TO BUY RAREST BOOK

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The British Museum will buy the Codex Sinaiticus, which has been called the most valuable manuscript in the world, from the Soviet government at a price of $500,000, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons yesterday.

The manuscript consists of a large part of the Old Testament and the Epistles of Barnabas and the Shepherd of Hermas, written in Greek, as a translation from Hebrew in the second half of the fourth century.

Mr. MacDonald said that a public subscription fund would be started and that for every penny put up by the public the government would contribute equally.

The document has been in Russia since it was presented to Alexander II in the middle of the Nineteenth Century. Other famous biblical manuscripts include the Codex Vaticanus and the Codex Alexandrinus, which is in the British Museum.

Erie Fireman Fights Blaze at Own Home

ERIE, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Sid Wheeler, fire company lieutenant, answering an alarm, found, to his surprise, that the engine was halting in front of his home. His wife had opened a gas jet on a water heater too far, and the excess gas ignited. Damage was negligible.

LINDYS RESTING, ANN MAY SHOP

International News Service.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 21.—Dropping back into their quiet routine of living, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh remained in seclusion today at the Morrow mansion here, a seclusion expected to be broken during the day by an excursion into New York where Mrs. Lindbergh was expected to complete her Christmas shopping, while her husband conferred with Pan-American Airways officials on their 29,000-mile jaunt over four continents.

Two private watchmen and two local policemen remained on guard at the Morrow estate to insure the privacy of the famous flying pair.

The Lindberghs, obviously overjoyed to be home for the holidays after their survey of transoceanic air routes which kept them away for five and a half months, found plenty to do in getting reacquainted with their infant son, Jon, and quiet conversation with members of the Morrow family and a few close friends.

DR. RASMUSSEN, EXPLORER, DIES

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Dr. Knud Rasmussen, 54, Danish Arctic explorer, died here today after a long illness brought about by food poisoning contracted on his last expedition to Greenland.

Dr. Rasmussen was seriously ill when he was brought home November 3.

Dr. Rasmussen was born at Jakobshavn, Greenland, June 7, 1879. His ancestors on the maternal side were Eskimos.

After making his first expedition to Greenland in 1902, he visited all of the known Eskimo tribes between 1905 and 1924, studying their customs.

Last year, the explorer was at the head of an expedition which surveyed 12,500 miles of Greenland's southeast coast.

He was awarded one of the few life memberships of the American Geographical Society in 1926.

STARS OF FILMS GENEROUS IN YULE GIFTS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—In Hollywood they often try to obey the Biblical injunction regarding the left hand and the right hand, but at Christmas time the charities of the stars are guarded more zealously than ever.

Players who don't mind talking about their newest divorces or their latest romances will shut up like train windows when asked to disclose to what extent the cause of the poor has touched their hearts at Santa Claus time. But very few of them could be accused of maintaining silence for the simple reason that there is nothing to tell.

Subscriptions to the Community Chest and the Motion Picture Relief Fund are but a part of the donations made from publicized high salaries to the welfare of others less fortunate, but Hollywood won't often talk about its good deeds.

SECRET BENEFACTIONS

Well known are Marie Dressler's secret benefactions—directed usually to old cronies of the footlights who didn't win new careers in films—but Marie gets indignant if they're mentioned.

Marion Davies' Christmas party—for the inmates of her clinic and other children—draws publicity by its very nature, but it isn't Marion's desire to let the right hand know about the left's beneficence.

But as there's nothing to prevent friends of the right from communicating with the friends of the left, it can be reported that Hollywood is doing its share to spread the season's cheer. For instance:

Genevieve Tobin contributes monthly to a small boy's school in Kentucky.

AIDES VETERANS

Claudette Colbert sends a neat check at Christmas to a small French Catholic Church in New York, and another to brighten the holidays for war veterans.

Eddie Cantor's "Christmas charities" are year-around affairs, directed especially at the N. V. A. and a Jewish welfare fund.

Richard Dix goes in for Christmas baskets. There are stories about two youngsters Joan Crawford is sending through school—but not from Joan. And June Knight is reported to have taken the children from three "adopted families" on a personal shopping tour.

Reports from several studios indicate the usual flood of expensive Christmas cards distributed by stars will be but a minor tricle this year—with the difference in cost going to charity.

'Sleeping Beauty' To Have Tree For Yuletide

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Suburban Oak Park's sleeping beauty, Miss Patricia Maguire, victim of a form of sleeping sickness for nearly two years, will have her Christmas tree even if she is unable to see it.

Patricia's sister yesterday supervised installation of a large Yule tree not far from the 29-year-old patient's bed and already packages addressed "To Pat" nestled about it.

"Pat" will be all dressed up for Christmas, the sister said.

FIND RICH MAN DEAD BY FUMES

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Frederick M. Campbell, 33, well-to-do executive in the New York offices of the Coca-Cola Company, was found dead today of carbon monoxide fumes in his basement garage. Police said it was a case of suicide.

His widow, the former Audrey Barrow, daughter of Ed Barrow, secretary of the New York Yankees Baseball Club, collapsed after finding Campbell slumped over in the front seat of his car, with the garage doors closed and the motor running.

Miss Olive Spence, nurse employed to care for the Campbells' two small children, told police she had heard Campbell and his wife quarreling last night.

TROOPER SEEKS VENUE CHANGE

The Superior Court will hear arguments on the petition for a change of venue of State Trooper John Mehallick, charged with the murder of Wilbur Vite, 32, of McGees Mills, Indiana County. District Attorney W. M. Ruddock today obtained an extension of time until February 1, for the argument.

Mehallick shot Vite last April, it is charged. Mehallick claims he fired at Vite in self defense.

River Thaw Menaces Towns in Germany

OBERWESEL, Germany, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Ice on the Rhine river which a thaw set into motion today threatened disaster to all riverside towns and villages between St. Goar and Lorch in Southwestern Germany.

Burgomasters in the towns ordered the entire populations to prepare for eventualities.

PINCHOT'S WIFE AIDS SANTA AT PARTY

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Ready and anxious to adjourn today, the House of Representatives surrendered to the spirit of Christmas last night, while a live Santa Claus, with whiskers and everything, frolicked in the legislative halls.

He even ventured into the Senate, where a gloomy session was in progress. But he didn't stay there long.

In the brilliantly lighted House, with a Christmas tree in a corner, there was a carnival of fun.

As "Her Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania," Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot addressed a "House of Misrepresentatives" composed entirely of women.

The 208 seats of the Assemblymen were occupied by women—all employes of various state departments and bureaus.

Representative Roy Shreiner, of Dauphin, attired as a woman, acted as major domo of the party.

The only men who had anything to do with the mock session were the regular pages and Speaker Talbot, also in woman's attire.

After Mrs. Pinchot's brief speech, a resolution was adopted urging all male members of the House to resign and asking that the $250 pay still due them be given to their wives.

Taking a jocular jab at Representative Darlington Hoopes, of Berks, for his domination of parliamentary moves during the fight over social legislation, a resolution was adopted providing for establishment of a new political party in the "House of Misrepresentation" to be called the "Hoopes-My-Dear" party and naming "Darling" Hoopes the floor leader.

Then Santa Claus appeared and he gave each woman a gift.

After adopting a resoution making every day a holiday and prohibiting employment of any kind by any person because "this country has just passed through three years of abnormal prosperity," the female House adjourned.

Employes of Store Guests at Dance

More than 1,000 employes of the Rosenbaum Company were guests of the Rosenbaum Company's Mutual Aid Association at a card party and Christmas dance in the William Penn Hotel last night. The committee in charge was headed by Miss F. C. Langenbecker, president of the association. The dance was held in the hotel ball room with Victor Saudek's orchestra providing the music.

Alchemy With Alum

I used to think, when I was rather small,
That white was white and black was very black;
That I would love forever if at all
Sans chance or hope of ever turning back.

I used to picture love as some slim wraith
That kept eternal troth upon a rock;
I used to scorn the world, that measures faith
Much as it counts the minutes on a clock.

But I have learned from age and tears and you
A woman loses him she loves too much;
I've learned to eat my cake and have it too;
And as for all my theories and such:

They're just hot air—the kind that keeps balloons full;
I'll take my love in level measured spoonsfull!

Counsel

One of the better lawyers in New York with a sensayuma is Arthur Driscoll. A client, who received a letter from a Californian (who offered a gold mine for only $1,000), sent the letter to Driscoll and asked for his advice on the matter.

The lawyer replied in this wise:

"I am in receipt of the letter sent you offering a gold mine in California. After you have bought that one, I know a lot of other gold mines the owners of which will be glad to sell you."

Between assignments, the plot-hatchers at Paramount studio spend their time trying to determine the silliest story they've ever heard. Here is the prize-winner.

A mamma bat, a papa bat and a baby bat were flying home one night.

"I hope all five of us will get home safe," the baby bat said.

"Whatever gave you the idea that there are five of us?" the mother asked.

"I dunno," came the reply, "I can't count."

The Crack Delicious

One of the town's better known authors had a date with Noel Coward when he was last here. They were to meet the following noon at the first-mentioned writer's apartment. The f.-m. writer's apartment, however, served as the scene for an all-night drinking affair for several friends. At 11:30 the next a. m. the writer "came to," still in his clothes, and urged his guests to go home.

The apartment was upside down, bottles, glasses and ice bowls were all over the place, and the stench of stale lager and cigars stifled the nostrils. Promptly at noon, the immaculately attired Coward strolled in.

"Ah," he ah'd, "this place looks as though it had been lived in!"

Arthur Caesar tells of the time, many years ago, when he worked for a detective agency which specialized in bringing wife-deserters back to New York. One day a woman came to see him, bringing a letter from her husband, who had skipped several months before. The wife could not read and asked Arthur to read the letter for her. It said:

"Dear Becky—Ha, ha, ha, I'm in Montreal. Ha, ha, ha, ha. There's no extradition to the States from here. Your husband, ha, ha, ha, ha. Moe."

Lindy Return On Screen

The return to their native land of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh is graphically pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Aerial and land views cover completely the trip of the intrepid couple in which they flew 28,000 miles and visited 21 nations. The Globe Trotter describes the entire trip.

The thirtieth birthday of aviation is celebrated by thrilling stunt flying by Army, Navy and Marine Eagles. Then Metrotone shows a flight by Orville and Wilbur Wright at Kitty Hawk in their original machine. As was the flight, the motion pictures are among the first ever made.

Frozen over from Poughkeepsie to Hudson, New York, during the recent cold spell, a Coast Guard cutter is shown clearing the channel of the Hudson.

State's Attorney Courtney, of Cook County, Ill., appeals to the nation to aid in the war on kidnapers.

Tremendous crowds gather before the palace in Havana and cheer President Grau. Then 48 hours later enemies of the government resume rioting.

Pictures show damage wrought by the worst flood in 20 years in the State of Washington.

From San Antonio, Texas, come pictures of kids with miniature autos fueled with real gas. They engage in a furious race.

Note—Because of the necessity upon theater managers to arrange programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

Hospital Play New York's Best

By GEORGE SEIBEL

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Since what was once called "The Road" has shrunken to a blind alley, it behooves the drama critic of our Hinterland to visit New York from time to time—not merely to see good plays before they are canned in Hollywood, but to see bad plays, which are speedily canned on Broadway. Nowadays, among dramas, it's the bad die young. But even the good often do not get very far from home.

Mr. Seibel

Take the best play now on Broadway, "Men in White" is not likely to be taken to another city. The cast of 28 makes travel costly, and the hospital scenes, worked up with infinite detail, make it very difficult to keep the play running smoothly with changes in cast or stage.

Another play, "All Good Americans," is so sophisticated that half of it would be lost by the time it got to Philadelphia.

All of which applies to the greater part of New York productions. They are put on by New Yorkers for New Yorkers. It is reported that Hope Williams balked at some of the naughty lines in "All Good Americans." She could utter them freely in Peoria or Omaha—they wouldn't be understood. Everybody can understand "Alice in Wonderland"—but to appreciate Ernest Hemingway's world you have to get a degree as D. D. (Doctor of Depravity).

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT

But not all these New Yorkers are that wise and wicked. Mobs have been pouring into "Little Women," and coming out with icicles on their eyelashes. The bookstores are selling "Little Women" at 59 cents to people who are afraid they won't live long enough to finish "Anthony Adverse." Now the severest censor would hardly find anything to cut out of "Little Women," although when they gave the play in London during the war they had to change Prof. Bhaer into a Frenchman. Maybe the next Passion Play at Oberammergau will show Jesus as a Norwegian.

Things like "Little Women" and "The Cradle Song" balance things like "The Road to Happiness," a saucy comedy based on the primitive bed-time stories of Puritan New England, and things like "Three and One," which caused a New York critic to blush, according to his own confession. Nobody saw him do it.

Besides these pictures, the two biggest hits of the season, "Mary of Scotland" and "Ah, Wilderness," are sweet and pure decoctions of romance and moonlight. There are some sizzling words, it is true, but these words are historical or hysterical, so they're swallowed without gagging.

THE ACTORS ARE IT

It's the actors that are drawing the public to the plays, for no play is on the horizon that is great as "Mourning Becomes Electra" was, or "Street Scene." The nearest to greatness is "Men in White," a drama of doctors in a hospital, by a new playwright, Sidney Kingsley, who spent months in a hospital, they say, to get the local color and smell.

The result is convincing. Doctors sit in the front seats while the preliminaries of an operation are shown on the stage, and the doctors can't pick a flaw in the surgical technique except perhaps a little hurrying of the sterilization procedure. A stage manager might save much time in a real hospital, but it might not be so good for the victims.

This play calls to mind the pet phrase of many critics on witnessing Ibsen or Strindberg plays: "After all, the stage is no clinic!" Here, actually, the clinic becomes a play. It is a play of shuddering sincerity—so true and vital that the Pulitzer Prize ought to be returned by any other dramatist who may get it. If the visitor to New York can see only one play, it should be "Men in White."

Comedy

Groucho Marx and his three looney brothers are featured in "Duck Soup," musical comedy in the Enright, opening today.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

First activity in the Nixon this week was the opening of the box-office this morning for the sale of seats for next week's engagement of Walter Hampden in four plays, "Richelieu," "The Servant in the House," "Hamlet" and "Macbeth." The attraction is one in the American Theater Society series.

Two changes in bills in effect today are "Smoky," on the Fulton screen, and "Duck Soup," in the Enright. "Smoky," story of a wild horse by Will James, has a cast headed by Victor Jory and Irene Bentley. The Four Marx Brothers are the stars of "Duck Soup."

'Y' Globe Players To Repeat Play

A repeat performance of "The Dust of the Road," a Christmas play presented by the Globe Players of the Y. M. C. A. International Institute last night, will be given at the Institute, 405 South Dithridge street, tonight.

Leading roles are played by Alexander Unkovich, Dorothy Scott, Steven Oneska and Edward Konperda. Miss Isobel Yealy is director.

Gowns for Norma Shearer In Film Kept Secret

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—Style innovations for Norma Shearer in "Rip Tide" are so advanced that extras, wearing today's fashions and appearing in a scene with the star, looked completely outmoded.

So conspicuous was the effect that Irving Thalberg called Adrian, MGM's noted designer, into conference and issued orders for the style expert to make special "new trend" gowns for 102 feminine extras.

Along with the physical effort of gowning so many atmosphere people, Adrian also faces increased difficulties in keeping his new styles secret.

Every effort has been made to spring the Shearer fashions as a complete surprise when the picture is released. The studio has refused to release costume sketches to fashion and fan magazines and has banned photographs of Miss Shearer in her 1934 wardrobe.

They've even closed the sets to keep curious visitors from getting a preview and possibly giving the ideas away to a competitor.

The real rivalry to win Carole Lombard's smiles is between Mack Gray, George Raft's "bodyguard," and "Cracker" Henderson, formerly man Friday to Jack Oakie. Every morning, when Carole gets to the studio, "Cracker" sees that a cup of coffee gets to her dressroom. As for Mack, or "The Killer," he is only a little less devoted to Carole than he is to George.

"These boys are native wits," says Carole. "What Hollywood male stars need are more straight-men like 'Cracker' and 'The Killer.'"

Sally Blane and Russ Columbo take peculiar delight in crossing up the gossips. One day they've lost interest in each other and the next they're as thick as ever. Sunday night in the Beverly Wilshire, it was romance . . . It's only the third time in her life.

Legacy

DOLLY LAUGHED when she first told Eddie about it. She expected Eddie to laugh, too. But he didn't.

"You mean," he asked slowly, "that the old fool really wants to marry you, is that it? Him with all his dough and all?"

"I guess he does," the girl told him. "He said so anyway. I was taking his dictation and he began to talk about his wife that died. Then he said he liked me and asked me to marry him. I said 'no,' of course."

"Oh, you did!" Eddie's voice was sharp. "Well, you were daffy, if you ask me."

"You mean you want me to?" Dolly gazed at him wide-eyed. "Why, I thought you loved me, Eddie."

"Sure. Sure I do. It's not that." The man's voice was wheedling. "But look, it's a swell chance to get in the dough. You wouldn't have to stick with him all your life. Anyway, the old guy might die. We could still see each other. It's a swell chance for both of us."

Perhaps Dolly should have smacked him soundly for that crack. But she happened to be in love with him. And she had been supporting him for three years out of her small earnings. Still she hesitated. Mr. Prescott was a nice old man. It seemed like a dirty trick.

"We gotta do something," Eddie urged. "Gee, I ain't got nothing now. No clothes or a car or anything. I've been thinking of getting out for a long while—"

That settled it. Dolly made up her mind quickly. She'd marry Mr. Prescott. She'd do it for the same reason she had done so many other things. For Eddie's sake. . . .

Henry Prescott was pathetically happy when Dolly told him the next day that she'd thought things over and changed her mind. He insisted that they be married right away. He couldn't understand why she refused to go to Europe. He didn't know that Dolly didn't want to be away from Eddie for that long.

The marriage was everything that all three had expected. Henry Prescott was rid of the loneliness, and he showered his young wife with gifts of money and clothes. Dolly, in turn, was extremely generous to Eddie and she was happy in the pleasure that he took in his new car and expensive clothing.

When Henry gave Dolly a birthday or Christmas check, she cashed it and turned over most of the money to Eddie. And the simple-hearted old man never knew. He was an unworldly old chap, and he had no suspicions when Dolly introduced him for the first time to her "brother." She and Eddie had thought up that scheme. It would facilitate matters. They could meet right there in the house without anyone being the wiser.

Eddie became a frequent visitor. Henry was glad because Dolly seemed so happy when the young man was around. He asked her once how it happened that Eddie had so much leisure time.

"Well, you see, he has an income," she explained. "He doesn't have to work."

"Is he doing well?" Henry persisted. "He always seems to have plenty of money, and the car he drives is a costly one. Your brother must be well-situated, my dear."

"Oh, he is," Dolly agreed hastily. "He's really well off."

It seemed the best thing to say. She didn't want Henry to become suspicious. Sometime back in the dim past, she had stumbled over a certain story about a goose and a golden egg. . . .

She and Eddie laughed about it that night.

"He was so funny," Dolly giggled, "talking about your money and your car and everything."

"If he ever knew," said Eddie, "that it was his dough. And that the car came from him!"

Dolly was silent for a moment.

"But I don't like it much," she said at last. "This lying and sneaking all the time. Don't you think I'd better leave him soon? Don't you, Eddie?"

Eddie looked uncomfortable.

"To tell you the truth," he confessed, "I don't. If you leave now, we'll be just as bad off as we were before. Just hang on for a while. Things'll turn out all right."

And it seemed that Eddie was right. For scarcely three months after that particular conversation Henry Prescott died suddenly from a heart attack.

Eddie and Dolly tried to look grief-stricken, but it was something of a job. For Henry had no relatives. There was no one else to share in the large Prescott fortune.

They sat in the library and waited for the family lawyer to read the will. They were both a little bored, and they hoped that he'd get it over with quickly. This was a mere formality.

The will was extremely brief. There were but three paragraphs in all. Stripped of its phraseology, the first stated that Henry Prescott had bequeathed his entire fortune to two of his pet charities.

Eddie and Dolly were stunned. They were at a loss to understand matters. To make things a little worse, the will was what is known as "iron-clad." For Dolly was mentioned in the following paragraph, and in the third, reasons were given for her exclusion in the fortune.

"I trust that my dearly-beloved wife, Dorothy Prescott," the legacy went on, "will understand that this is in no way an evidence of disapproval or loss of affection on my part. I trust that she will understand that, since there are so many more badly in need than she, I wish to bequeath my estate to those suffering in want.

"I have no concern for her welfare, due to the fact that she has a devoted brother, who is rich in worldly goods and who, I am sure, will provide for her most generously." . . .

Hutton 'Petted' Show Girls, Says Aimee in Suit

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—In an unexpected cross-complaint to the divorce suit of her night club husband, Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton seeks a divorce and elimination of "Hutton" from her name.

The nine-page reply takes particular exception to rotund David Hutton's association with "scantily dressed show girls whom he permitted to caress and kiss him."

Such alleged conduct of the baritone on his singing tour of vaudeville stages after he deserted his wife's Angelus Temple and filed suit for divorce, disclosed "a marked attitude of indifference toward her ideals, wishes and desires."

Among other things, the evangelist charges Hutton awakened her in the small hours of the night during their married life with demands for money; that he insisted she pay the $5,000 judgment Hazel Myrtle Joan St. Pierre won in a breach of promise suit against Hutton; that he caused her to suffer a permanent injury by shocking her at their Lake Elsinore home when he shouted news of the $5,000 verdict; by inference threatened to release scandalous stories for publication and attempted to disrupt the organization of Angelus Temple.

By filing an answer and cross complaint, Mrs. Hutton accepted service of the baritone's suit, against which she protested repeatedly after her return from a world tour. Hutton is now master of ceremonies at a Hollywood night club.

The evangelist filed her action through her attorney shortly before the county clerk's office closed yesterday.

AMERICA STOPS FRENCH WINE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Striking back at France for its attempt to put one over on American trade negotiators, the United States today moved to cut off entirely the flow of French wine into this country.

The Federal Alcohol Control Administration announced the French wine quota was exhausted.

In State Department quarters it was made known no more French wine will be permitted to enter the country until France clears up the situation which has developed in connection with American fruit exports to France.

The impasse with France has developed over the question of increasing the quota on French wine in return for more favorable treatment for American fruit products, especially apples and pears.

France agreed to increase the quota on apples and pears in return for an increased quota on wine. Afte ran agreement had been reached and the quotas were about to go into effect, word leaked out in Paris that the French intended, after the new quotas became effective, to slap an additional duty on American food products which would tend to nullify the benefits of the increased quota.

INCREASED TAX ON BLENDED RUM ASKED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—A stiff penalty tax on blended whisky will be considered by the House Ways and Means Committee as a result of complaints of poor quality and high prices charged for legal liquor, it was disclosed today.

The committee plans to begin secret sessions on the liquor tax bill tomorrow with the hope of approving the principles of a measure by Saturday night.

The scheme of backers of the penalty plan is to levy a graduated tax which would bear heavier on whisky of poor quality, the primary object being to force the manufacture and sale of good quality liquor.

BOOST IN TAX

Under the present law an additional tax of 16 cents a gallon is levied on rectified whisky. The President's interdepartmental committee has recommended that this be boosted to 30 cents. One member said:

"There are several members of the committee who are alive to the situation. We will discuss the feasibility of a heavier tax on poor quality liquor, and I should not be surprised to see it adopted."

Demands for levying heavy tariff duties against nations defaulting on their debts to the United States will be urged by Representative Knutson (Rep.) of Minnesota.

He is drafting a bill to require treble import duties from countries which are more than 75 per cent in default on their debts. The measure is aimed primarily at France.

While the Knutson proposal would cover all imports, it is proposed to start with liquor importations. France, Knutson has been informed, has a huge stock of champagne ready for shipment here.

The 200 per cent penalty tariff, under this proposal, would be applied to the debt of the foreign country.

OPPOSE STATES' SHARE

As the Ways and Means Committee prepared to act on the liquor bill, increasing opposition to the proposal to share the federal liquor tax with states was noticed.

Demands of spokesmen for dry states for a portion of the revenue, which would be given primarily to persuade New York and other wet states to abandon their gallonage taxes, is said to have complicated the situation.

Representative Bacharach (Rep.), of New Jersey, planned to lead a fight against the state sharing plan, although Republican Leader Snell, of New York, has decreed that liquor taxes shall not be made a party issue. Bacharach said:

"New Jersey has already levied a gallonage tax after eight months of consideration. The state will not abandon it to take a less amount from the federal government."

Dry members of the Ways and Means Committee were working for a higher liquor tax if the state sharing scheme is not adopted.

Treasury 'Borrows' 750 Dry Sleuths

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Treasury augmented its bootleg combat unit today by borrowing from the Justice Department 750 prohibition agents.

A statement said "certain important questions" remained to be worked out relative to liquor control and liquor tax collections, but that in the meantime the agents would assist in enforcing the internal revenue laws.

U. S. to Carry Rum Violation To Highest Court

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The government has decided to take a direct appeal to the Supreme Court in a North Carolina Federal Court decision involving prosecution for violation of the prohibition law, Attorney General Cummings said today.

The case will be argued before the high court on January 18, and the government intends at that time to raise every question involving prosecutions of violations of the prohibition act in order that the court may lay down a yardstick for future action.

Up to the present time there have been four court decisions holding that prosecutions for violation of the prohibition act cannot be made since the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, while two decisions hold that prosecutions still can be maintained.

Cummings said a plan was under consideration to have Department of Justice agents commissioned as Treasury agents in detection of liquor law violations. The plan probably also will be broadened to include postal, customs and other inspectors.

CHICAGO BARS TO CLOSE AT 1

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—More stringent regulations of retail liquor establishments, enforcing a 1 a. m. closing rule, were completed today as an aftermath of the spectacular gun battle at Alderman Mathias Bauler's saloon in which two officers were wounded.

At the request of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, city council adopted an amendment to the city liquor ordinance which will prohibit bars, taverns and saloons from remaining open after 1 a. m. on week days and 2 a. m. on Sundays. Mayor Kelly immediately signed the amendment, which will go into effect December 31.

A grand jury investigation into the shooting affray was begun today on orders of State's Attorney Thomas Courtney. Alderman Bauler has been charged with assault with intent to murder Policeman John Ahearn, former bodyguard of the late Mayor Anton Cermak. Chief Deputy Sheriff Frank Wright was the other victim of the shooting.

HARVARD MAY SELL BEER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The storied "beer nights" of an elder generation of Harvard men again may be celebrated by Harvard students, for the university has applied for licenses for the sale of malt beverages in the college and graduate school dining halls.

The sale would be restricted to the seven house dining halls in Cambridge, and the dining halls of the business and medical schools in Boston. No license would be obtained for the freshman dining hall in the Harvard Union, and in the others the malt beverages would be served only at tables reserved for persons over 21, university authorities stated.

Early in the 19th century, the university owned and operated a brewery to supply beer and ale to the students. But in 1887 the City of Cambridge voted dry.

STATE STORES OPEN WAR ON BOOTLEGGERS

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Without specifically recognizing criticism of its prices, the Liquor Control Board today was on record with the declaration that it is prepared to "wipe out bootlegging by making it unprofitable as well as difficult."

The board pointed out that its duty to its customers is to insure that only safe liquors are sold, and those at the most reasonable prices possible. The statement said:

"The control board and any reputable dealer can match bootlegger prices by distributing bootleg liquor. It is one thing, however, for a bootlegger to sell colored alcohol and water in an alley. It is quite another problem to sell bona fide liquor and wines with the assurance that the customer gets just what he pays for and may drink it safely."

Thirteen more options were announced by the board together with 136 more retail liquor licenses which brings to 3,764 the total retail establishments in the state.

Attorney General Cites Sunday Sales Ban

The 250 clubs in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County licensed to sell liquor are violating the law if they sell the hard stuff on Sunday, Attorney General William A. Schnader told the Sun-Telegraph today.

Over the telephone from Harrisburg, the Attorney General emphatically cleared up a point which the operators of many clubs professed left them in doubt.

Many of them have been taking the benefit of the doubt by catering to the Sunday drinkers, it is said.

PROVISIONS CITED

Schnader scoffed at the suggestion that the new laws were vague on this point. He said:

"It is simply a question of good English. And to me it is clear that the law forbids Sunday sales."

This is the disputed paragraph in the law passed by the Legislature a few weeks ago:

"Liquor may be sold by licensees other than clubs only after 7 o'clock, ante meridian, of any week day, and until 2, ante meridian, of the following week day, and shall not be sold on Sunday. . . ."

SALES INVESTIGATED

The Board of Liquor Control in Harrisburg today announced that 3,764 liquor licenses have been granted thus far. Approximately 700 of these are in Allegheny County. In Pittsburgh the Department of Health inspectors began an investigation of impure liquor and a drive to insist on dealers labeling their bottles correctly. The inspectors reported finding some instances of "fifths"—one-fifth of a gallon—being sold as quarts.

Woman Driver in Court Refuses to Quit Beer

Magistrate Fails as 'Reformer;' Radio Fans Listen

Magistrate J. Scott Morgan today played the unsuccessful role of a man trying to convince a woman she shouldn't drink beer, in the daily noon radio broadcast from Traffic Court over station WCAE.

Mrs. Mary Brozanski, 37, of 107 Baldwin avenue, Hayes, was the woman, arrested last night by Oakland police after her car is alleged to have struck a parked machine owned by Leo Lardner, of 5303 Second avenue. After a witness testified she appeared to have been under the influence of liquor, Mrs. Brozanski said she had had two glasses of beer.

Asked Magistrate Morgan:

"Will you promise to quit drinking beer?"

She said:

"A glas sor two of good beer in the summertime is all right."

He asked:

"Will you promise not to drink in the winter?"

And she said:

"No."

The case was held over until Mrs. Brozanski has paid for the damages to the other car.

'STILL' FOUND IN PRISON

International News Service.

EASTVIEW, N. Y., Dec. 21.—Some prisoner at Eastview Penitentiary has been enjoying firewater—literally—for the last few days.

Principal Keeper A. W. Trevit, as he detected a familiar and suspicious odor, murmured:

"Your nose knows, but where is the stuff?"

Yesterday Trevit discovered a fire extinguisher, contents of which had been dumped and replaced with a potent concoction made from apples, potatoes and yeast.

Trevit today was trying to locate the brewer. He said:

"I'm glad they didn't turn the stuff on a fire."

REED REGARDED NEW G. O. P. LEADER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—A thorough reorganization of the Republican party will take place before the presidential campaign of 1936, according to party leaders, now gathering here for the oncoming session of Congress.

In this reorganization, former President Herbert Hoover will play little part.

Those who have conferred with him recently in California say he is no longer politically ambitious, and is reconciled to the idea that the Republican nomination for the presidency in '36 must go elsewhere.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

Republican affairs were subjected to frank analysis here at a luncheon recently given by ex-Senator Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, who is frequently mentioned as the next chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Present at this luncheon, which was rather in the nature of a Republican clinic, were Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, himself a potential candidate for the nomination in 1936; Ogden L. Mills, also a prime candidate; Senator McNary, of Oregon, Republican leader of the Senate; ex-Senator Frederic Sackett, former ambassador to Germany; Senator Frederic A. Walcott, of Connecticut, who was the White House spokesman in the Senate in the closing days of the Hoover administration, and several others.

Three of those present, including Senator Reed, recently visited Mr. Hoover in California. They reported the former President was in agreement that party reorganization was necessary before the next national election, and, what is more significant, that he himself was "out of the picture."

WANTS TO HAVE VOICE

Mr. Hoover was represented, however, as being desirous of having a voice in the selection of his successor.

The Republicans so far gathered in Washington have been unable to agree on a program for the coming session of Congress. They have agreed, however, that Republican policy in opposing the administration should be guided by reserve and caution.

The will oppose additional large appropriations for public works, such as President Roosevelt plans to ask for; they will strive to amend the National Recovery Act in certain particulars, and propose changes in the AAA.

Otherwise they have been unable to agree upon anything approaching a set program.

HAVANA RIOTS, MAYOR QUITS

HAVANA, Dec. 21. — (AP.) — A wild outbreak of shooting on the eve of what officials said would be "the largest demonstration Cuba ever saw"—against the Platt Amendment — precipitated early today the resignation of the city's mayor.

While scattered shooting echoed through Havan's deserted streets after a barrage laid down from housetops by snipers last night, Mayor Alejandro Vergara was reliably reported to have presented his resignation to President Grau San Martin.

He was said to have told the President he could not continue in office "after the burning of El Pais" (one of the city's few remaining newspapers which was destroyed by fire Sunday at the hands of a mob) and other "outrages."

Police said they had arranged to handle a crowd of more than 100,000 protesting against the Platt Amendment, which specifies the right of the United States to intervene in Cuba under certain conditions.

Supreme Court Acts In Trooper's Trial

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21. — (AP.)—The Supreme Court today gave W. M. Ruddick, district attorney of Indiana County, until February 1 to answer an order obtained by State Policeman John Mehallick, who seeks to have his trial on a homicide charge removed to another county.

Mehallick killed Wilbur C. Vite in Glen Campbell, saying he thought the man was about to shoot him.

Vacation Cruise Contest Winners Leaving Tomorrow for Florida

Pittsburgh Teachers Get 14-Day Free Sojourn

Sunny Florida is waiting for two Pittsburgh girls—winners in the Vacation Cruise Contest conducted late last summer by the Sun-Telegraph in conjunction with the Merchants' and Miners' Steamship Line of Baltimore.

By a coincidence it happened that both of these winners were identified with school activities and, until now, they were unable to make the trip. Tomorrow morning, however, they are on their way for a 14-day trip, four days each way on the ocean, and six days of sightseeing along the entire length of balmy Florida from Miami to Jacksonville.

The fortunate winners are Miss Lola Burrall, 625 Taylor street, Avalon, and Miss Ruth Dell, 1316 Adams street, North Side. Miss Burrall is a teacher at the West View Junior High School and Miss Dell is a student at Frick Training School.

The girls leave Pittsburgh tomorrow morning on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, sailing from Baltimore on the S. S. Chatham of the Merchants' and Miners' Line tomorrow night for Miami. They will spend Christmas at sea, arriving in Miami Wednesday, where they will remain for three days. Then they start on a tour through Florida, stopping at Palm Beach, Daytona, St. Augustine and Jacksonville, where they again take boat for Baltimore. Their entire expenses are paid and everything will be de luxe. The arrangements were made through the Pittsburgh office of the Merchants' and Miners' Line.

SON OF DICKENS DIES OF HURTS

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Sir Henry Dickens, 85, son of the novelist, Charles Dickens, died today from injuries suffered several days ago when he was hit by a motorcycle on the Chelsea embankment.

Four specialists made a stern fight to save his life but his injuries were too severe to prevent his death at the advent of the season which his father had pictured as the happiest and jolliest period of the year.

With Sir Henry's death disappeared the last direct link with the creator of Oliver Twist, Pickwick, and all the other famous Dickens characters.

Sir Henry made his name in the profession his father detested—law. He was the novelist's sixth son.

Short and slim, he was much like his father in appearance. Like his father, too, he was a mixture of softness and severity in his attitude to sinners and offenders.

In 1928 he published his book, "Memoirs of My Father." For many years his recreation was fencing.

HUNT SUSPECTS IN BLAST, FIRE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Incendiaries who used a gas tank to touch off the blast, today were sought by police in connection with a terrific explosion and fire which razed the Brooklyn home of Joseph Puma, shatered windows and damaged adjoining houses and threw residents of the neighborhood into a panic.

For a time, it was feared Puma, his wife and five small children had perished in the blast. Search of the ruins, however, disclosed no bodies and neighbors told police the family had gone to the home of relatives early last night.

Woman, 77, Struck By Youth's Machine

Mrs. Susan Sibeger, 71, of 5170 Woodworth street, was in Homeopathic Hospital today with injuries suffered when struck by an automobile at Baum boulevard and Cypress street, last night. Police said the machine was driven by Bart Shiber, 22, of 5206 Dearborn street.

Hold 2 for Attack On Butler Principal

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A verdict of guilty has been returned against John and Joseph Maliz, brothers, accused of attacking T. Earl Boliver, supervising principal of Butler Township schools.

The two were convicted yesterday upon testimony that they attacked Boliver after he disciplined Steve Maliz, a younger brother.

Fire Routs Eleven Into Driving Rain

Eleven persons were routed from their home into a driving rain when fire partly destroyed a two-story frame dwelling at 1409 Terrace street, North Braddock, late yesterday. Damage was estimated at $1,500. The blaze was of undetermined origin.

CLASSIFY STATE PRISONERS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A complete classification of all prisoners in Pennsylvania is planned as a result of investigation of conditions at the Eastern Penitentiary by a committee appointed by Gov. Pinchot.

A classification study of prisoners at the Eastern institution, on which the broader grouping will be based, was started Monday under the direction of Dr. G. Giardini, psychologist of the University of Pittsburgh.

Meeting for the first time to study the investigators' report, the Prison Board of Trustees yesterday named a number of committees to carry out recommendations in the report including an inquiry into charges of attacks on prisoners, management of the prisoners' commissary, management of concessions, extension of recreational facilities and placing men in punishment cells under medical staff control.

TRUCE VIOLATED, BOLIVIA SAYS

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A new strain on Paraguayan-Bolivian relations was expected to be injected into the Pan-American conference today with a formal protest from Bolivia that Paraguay has violated an armistice that halted fighting between the two countries Tuesday night.

The alleged violation was the capture of four forts by Paraguayan forces a few hours before the armistice became effective. Capture of the forts was confirmed in dispatches from Asuncion.

The plenary session of the conference was postponed yesterday to today, leaders hoping a Bolivian protest might be averted and tension relaxed in the meantime.

Heart Attack Fatal To Famous Cellist

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rozsi Varady Anthony, 31, internationally-known concert 'cellist, is dead of a heart attack at her hotel here. Mrs. Anthony, when 9, made her debut here.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph Anthony, author and editor for the Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, and a brother in Budapest.

Vance Funeral Held In New York Chapel

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Funeral services were held yesterday for Louis Joseph Vance, detective story writer, in the chapel of St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church. A small group of friends from the literary and theatrical worlds attended. The body was cremated.

Vance was found dead after a fire in his apartment last Friday.

Repaired Furniture Sale to Aid Needy

On exhibition in the sub-cellar of the downtown building of the Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way, are many pieces of furniture and toys that have been given the organization, and repaired by unemployed tradesmen. They are for sale.

Proceeds of the sales will be used to give the homeless unemployed heat, clean beds, shower baths, sitting rooms and three meals a day. The association also operates three restaurants, two on Duquesne way and one on Webster avenue.

England Decides to Run Newfoundland

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A bill empowering the British government to suspend self-government in the "ancient colony" of Newfoundland and to take charge until its finances are restored received final approval today.

Administration of the island will be under a commission of six members, appointed by the British government. It was estimated a period of three years will be necessary before the island is re-established.

Student Killed, Two Hurt in Crash

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Christ Smith, 20, of Charleston, a senior student at the University of Virginia, was killed today when he was hurled out of his automobile as the car skidded on a road near here.

Two other University of Virginia students, William Mathews and Sam Smiley, also of Charleston, who were riding with Smith, were critically hurt.

Nurses to Entertain 'Christmas Patients'

Music and dancing will feature the Christmas party to be given by nurses of West Penn Hospital for the patients on Saturday. Crutches, wheel chairs, and beds will transport more than 100 patients to the nurses' home where the affair will be held.

"Christmas Reverie," a dance routine, will be presented with nurses impersonating the popular toys of the day. Jean Lewis, 12-year-old violin prodigy, will play a violin solo, and Miss Helen Gavin will be the vocalist on the program.

CITY DEMANDS PERCENTAGE ON EXPO

The Greater Pittsburgh Exposition Society has been told that the city must be guaranteed some revenue if a 50-year grant is given the society on the Exposition property at the Point.

Councilman W. Y. English suggested that the city should receive 2 per cent of the gross revenue each year, rather than all revenue in excess of expenses and fixed charges as the society at first suggested.

A group of prominent citizens appeared before Council to urge that the grant be approved. The society, according to P. M. Chamberlain, general manager, proposes to build a building costing in the neighborhood of five million dollars with an autditorium seating 14,000 persons.

FISHER FAVORS PROJECT

Former Gov. John S. Fisher, speaking for the project, said he had been told it could be financed, and if so would be a desirable improvement for all Western Pennsylvania.

A. H. Burchfield, of the Joseph Horne Company, said:

"I would consider it a great mistake for members of City Council to say 'no' to this proposition. The erection of this building as planned will hold business in Greater Pittsburgh, will bring much new business to Pittsburgh, and will help manufacturers, hotels, stores, railroads, trolleys, buses, and bring us operas, concerts and amusements such as we have never had, at popular prices."

CITES PAST EXPERIENCE

J. W. Bamford, manager of the Koppers and Gulf buildings, declared he was opposed to any leasing of the property unless the city be paid a fair income on the value of the land as well as taxes. Bamford said:

"You've just gotten out of one very bad 50-year grant and it has cost you $500,000."

He referred to the agreement by which the city paid the debts of the old Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society in appropriations of $30,000 a year since 1919.

James P. Donovan, real estate broker, explained that the building is to be financed through the leasing of exhibit space, and that present prospects are favorable.

Others who spoke for the plan were W. Y. Cocken, architect; W. C. McKinney, of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, and Leo Green, business agent of the Steamfitters' Union.

JUNIOR PATROL

Drink plenty of milk, fellows! And eat just as many fresh vegetables and fruits as you can. This is the kind of weather, remember, when it is easiest to catch cold or some other sickness that is even more serious. To keep well, doctors tell us all to strengthen our resistance—that means that we should always feel as nearly tiptop as possible.

So drink plenty of milk and water, and eat wholesome food at regular hours. Plenty of sleep is important, too. When you are studying hard, and playing hard also, your mind and body need to get some rest. So even on Christmas Eve, when you know that Santa Claus will soon pay a visit to your house, be sure to go to bed and get a good sleep.

Then, when you do wake up Christmas morning, you'll feel rested and ready to have more fun opening your gifts.

We have heard that many of our Junior Patrol members are helping to sell Christmas seals. We're mighty glad to hear that, fellows, and we hope that you will make a real effort to sell lots of seals. They do a lot of good.

Then, too, we won't want you to forget the Toy Mission. Just think, fellows, there are more than 20,000 boys and girls in this city who won't have their stockings filled unless the Toy Mission has toys to give them. The Toy Mission has to be their Santa Claus—but we must all help. Take any spare toys you have—even broken ones, to the Toy Mission, 100 Wood street.

We were walking around downtown yesterday, fellows, and we notice that everywhere there are beautiful Christmas decorations. We hope that you can all come to town to see them. In the banks, for instance, there are thousands of beautiful real poinsettas, those brilliant red Christmas flowers, and evergreens, holly, and laurel. Another bank has a huge Christmas tree, with the branches festooned with millions of shining icicles and lighted with hundreds of bright blue lights. And underneath the tree, a small miniature town is built, with a factory filled with toy machinery, lighted houses, a railroad station with two trains which start and stop, and street lights everywhere. There is a church, too, and a waterfall which pours right out of the base of the big tree.

The store windows are lots of fun to see, too. Mickey Mouse is riding a horse, and the three little pigs are all there. Up on the toy floors, old Santa Claus, in red velvet robes and flowing white beard, is ready to greet you. Just whisper to him what you want for Christmas. He is getting his pack ready, full of thousands of wonderful gifts—dolls and trains, and Indian outfits, and skates and sleds and bats and balls, and doll houses, and small irons, and everything.

Woman Has No Right to Open Husband's Mail

Is it okay for the little wife to open the big boy's mail?

Mona insists that it is—and she's doing it, despite the fact that Jack has thrown a fit and threatens to throw more.

"Why not?" she wants to know, eying him suspiciously. "What are you trying to hide from me?"

Is it right? Is it a sign he's trying to deceive her, when he objects to her snooping?

My Dear Miss Robinson:—

I wonder if you'll try to come to the rescue of a mere man? Maybe you won't think I need rescuing—that my wife is within her rights. But I'm going to take a chance.

I haven't been married very long—four months, to be exact—and my wife has shown up a trait that I never suspected she had. She opens my mail, and insists that she has a right to. And she appears very suspicious of me because I object.

She insists that I am being "secretive," and that I am probably covering up something or, at the very least trying to lay the groundwork for future chances to deceive her.

She cries and is very hurt at my attitude, and has taxed me with not being the right sort of husband. Her idea seems to be that "we are one" now, and should "tell each other everything," and have no secrets of any kind from each other.

LED TO QUARREL

Now I am not setting out to "have secrets"—but I very much resent her insistence on opening letters addressed to me. The fact that she does insist makes me feel as if I were in prison. I don't like it.

We had one violent quarrel over this, but she wouldn't give up her point, and put it up squarely to me that I must have some very shady reason for not wanting her to see letters written to me.

Finally, I told her that I was going to write to you about it, and that if you said it was okay I wouldn't say any more. So—what's the verdict? Has a man's wife the right to open his mail? I never would dream of opening hers. I believe that even though married, you have a right to privacy. Am I right? Or is Mona? JACK.

What is the verdict?

Since your wife knows that you've written this letter, and has agreed to listen to me, I'm going to address my answer to her.

WIFE IS WRONG

You're way off the track, sister—and Jack is right. You have no more right to open your husband's mail than you would have to open mine. It belongs to him. It is his own personal business, and it's up to you to respect his privacy if you expect your marriage to be anything but a mess.

Yes, I know. You think "you are one" now, and should know all of each other's inmost thoughts. But, romantic slush to the contrary that is not true. Your husband was an individual long before he ever saw you. He still is an individual. No love, however great, can make two people "one"—or give them a right to pry.

And if you don't want to smother and kill your love, you'll have to learn to let him be that individual—just as you'll have to be an individual yourself.

He isn't objecting to your snooping because he is trying to sneak something over on you, but simply because no human being can stay happy and sane without privacy.

So cut out the foolishness, my dear. Quit suspecting him. Quit expecting to pry into his inmost thoughts. Give him a break. Or else—

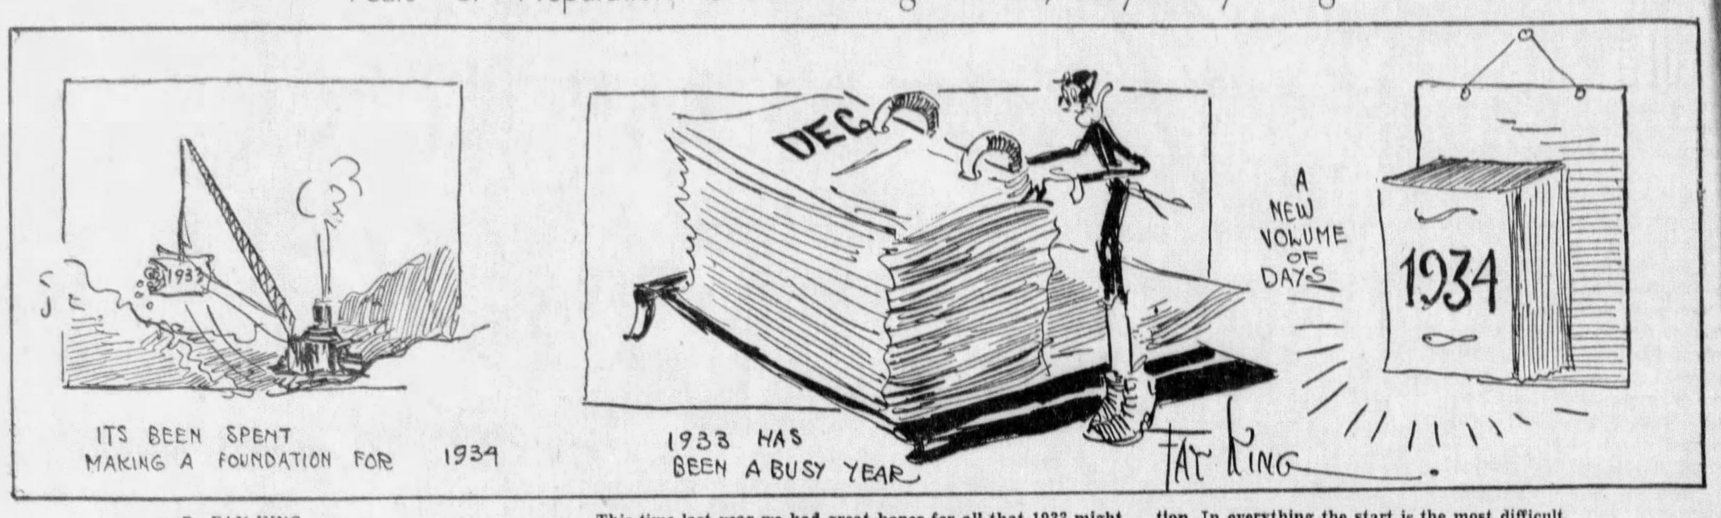
Years of Preparation Should Bring Results, Says Fay King



By FAY KING.

It seems no year ever passed more quickly than this year which is now drawing to a close.

During 1933 we had so much to watch, and so much to readjust, time could not hang heavily or pass slowly.

This time last year we had great hopes for all that 1933 might bring. But it proved to be a year of great preparation, and the beginning of much that may prove a great success when in proper working order.

There is always confusion and uncertainty about any innovation. In everything the start is the most difficult.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-three has called for faith and decipline. Next year should bring results.

Foundations are not attractive, but on them depend the ornate tower!

Boys Accept Job of Keeping Avis Busy

"Who's meowing now?" Bob demanded, and I saw that he and Ronald were still rebelling at the roles for which Carolyn's scheme was casting them.

"We are," Marion answered promptly. "And we don't care who knows it. All rules go by the board where that apology for living is concerned. She's out to do wrong by our Mary, and we're going to do her plenty. And you're going to do your share and say 'thank you.'"

"It looks as though we were going to be the prime goats of the whole thing," Ronald grumbled, then as both his sister and Marion on whom his youthful affections are centered, whirled on him accusingly, he threw up both hands in token of surrender.

"But we'll go through with it, won't we, Bob?"

"Surest thing, you know," Bob agreed, and I saw sparkling in his eyes the michievous diablerie which has caused him to be dubbed by his associates as "the biggest devil in Yale." "In fact, I'm beginning to see points in this plan. There's no use making martyrs of ourselves over it, old bean. We might as well get some enjoyment out of it as we go along. And the Arlen isn't altogether without charm, you know. She's not the world's wettest smack."

But Ronald was in no mood for foolery.

"She's a strong runner-up," he said viciously, and I saw Marion flash him a look of involuntary approval, while I fancied that Carolyn, though smiling broadly, had a vague look of uneasiness in her eyes.

But I had no time to linger over the temperamental vagaries of youthful sweethearts, as these four were, and I rose with an approving smile that included all of them.

GOING FOR AVIS

"I'm leaving everything to you, now," I told them as I started for the door. "And I'm not giving you any more advice or directions, except to ask you to get hold of Bill and Hank as soon as possible. You see I shall be back here with Avis, barring accidents, in a little over two hours, so you must be ready."

"What about the rehearsal of the wedding procession?" Carolyn asked. "Do we have to wait for that sap to get here, before we put it on?"

"I don't think you'll be ready before," I said placatingly. "If you are, you may go through with it once without her, but you'll only have to do it over when she comes. We can't get out of that without being deliberately rude, you see that?"

"Of course," Carolyn said promptly, and Marion's sapient sober comment followed me out of the door.

"There's only one person to consider," she said. "Mary. She has enough with having this pest as a bridesmaid without being worried with anything else. We simply must keep the rest of this mess from her. Come on, let's get hold of Bill and Hank. You'll have to get started on your vamping program, Carol, so as to have Hank well hobbled by the time dear Avis gets here. I'll concentrate on Bill, and you two boys can think up ways to charm Avis into forgetting Noel ever existed."

Disgusted emphatic expletives from the two enamored youth punctuated her words, but as I went rapidly up the stairs toward my room, I knew that all four of them would do their best to foil Avis in her plan to see Noel alone, in the wild hope, I was sure of making some final breach between the two lovers, whose wedding ceremony was now only a matter of hours.

EXPLAINS TO HUSBAND

Dicky was waiting for me in my room, a quizzical expression on his face.

"Where's the fire?" he asked. "From the way old Harry hustled me out of my room and over here, I expected at least to see you brandishing a fire ax and dragging a length of hose."

"I feel as if I were dragging an entire hook and ladder outfit," I retorted, "and so will you when I tell you what I want of you."

He struck a burlesqued attitude with folded arms.

"Shoot when you're ready," he said.

But when I had told him of the arrival of Avis Arlen at Patchogue, and my desire to have him go with me to fetch her, he looked at me with suddenly dancing eyes.

"Sure you wouldn't rather have Faithful—I mean our neighbor of The Larches?" he queried.

Hints for the Household

When baking apples, remove the core with a corer, cut off the top and bottom, fill the opening with sugar and replace the pieces. In this way the apple will be sweetened right through, for the sugar cannot escape.

A special makeup mirror is a good if candid friend to the woman who makes up. It is also ideal for such delicate operations as eyebrow tidying and color applications when magnifying is helpful.

In order to prolong the life of bathing shoes and other such rubber accessories when they are stored at the end of the season, smother them, inside and out, with French chalk. This is an excellent preservative.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Danger of Disease 'Carriers'

A short time ago Chicago gave us a scare. Several cases of "amebic dysentery" were discovered and we had a right to worry. Many were taken sick and many of its victims died.

Dr. Copeland

The ameba of dysentery is probably the most important intestinal parasite found in the United States. It does not belong here. Persons who have been to the tropics may contract this uncomfortable disease and bring the ameba back to this country. Even though they have recovered from the illness and even if they do not actually have dysentery, they may be "carriers" and, if they are food handlers, pollute the food and water that will be partaken by well persons.

Dysentery must not be confused with simple diarrhea. The latter is annoying but is easily checked. If the former takes the amebic form it is more serious.

Be careful of the food you eat and the water you drink. Be sure that it is prepared in a clean, sanitary place where only healthy people and those free from germs are employed. Many infectious diseases may be carried to you on a tray of half-cooked food. It is better for you to wait an hour before you eat, than to go into a place of doubtful cleanliness.

Amebic dysentery is characterized by very loose bowels, blood, fever and generally severe vomiting. The patient remains weak and usually loses sleep and weight.

The best thing to do if you think one of your family has dysentery is to call in the family physician. If a doctor is not available, it is best to give the patient a thorough cleaning out. An enema will help considerably and help nature to rid the patient of the ameba.

We are never quite safe from the carriers of disease. Typhoid fever, diphtheria and amebic dysentery are three ailments that are traced to such persons.

Health officials are on the outlook for such persons, but it takes clever detective work to locate some of them. I knew of a case where the wife of an employe on the water shed of a large city was found to be a typhoid fever carrier. Her discovery was due to the remarkable work of a health inspector.

Cleanliness and thorough cooking of the food, guard against the danger of infection. When these are guaranteed, we may eat in safety.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Never enough blouses is the cry of most of us who wear suits or the separate blouse and skirt outfit. To dress up a simple black suit there is a grand blouse of silver lame with a tiny ruffle at the neck closed with a drawstring of silver cord.

Demure and dainty are some of the new fashions. An old-world note is struck by a velvet jacket with flared peplum and puffed sleeves. It has a tiny collar and a narrow border all around and down the front of ermine, also ermine-covered buttons.

PATCHWORK GIFTS PATTERN 612

Use Up Scraps on Patchwork Gifts

Here are some gifts that solve that awful last-minute problem of someone who somehow didn't get on the Christmas list. These colorful gifts can all be made of scraps of material and are made of simple small blocks that are quickly made. The three pincushions are the type so much in vogue now and the potholders, handkerchiefs and lingerie cases make gifts that are always welcome.

Pattern 612 comes to you with three blocks, ranging from 4 to 6 inches, and a pattern for novelty pincushion; the blocks being given in actual size with pattern pieces and directions for making the articles shown.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

When to Lead Trumps

One of the popular sayings among Bridge players today that was old even one hundred years ago has behind it so much truth that I do not wonder that it has survived. The saying to which I refer is that which first gained currency in the early days of Whist in London, to the effect that "thousands of men are walking the Thames Embankment because they failed to lead trumps."

Generally speaking, the Declarer at a suit declaration should lead trumps at the first opportunity. This rule, however, like most others, has its exceptions—notably the case where the trick-taking power of the Dummy is dependent upon the ability to ruff otherwise losing cards, and where drawing the adverse trumps immediately would mean drawing all of Dummy's trumps as well. The hand below is an example:

West, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ Q J 9 ♡ K J 7 ◇ Q 8 3 ♣ J 10 9 8
♠ A 10 8 7 2 ♡ 10 4 3 ◇ A K 2 ♣ A 6	West North East South	♠ K 6 3 ♡ 8 6 ◇ 7 6 5 4 ♣ K Q 4 2
	♠ 5 4 ♡ A Q 9 5 2 ◇ J 10 9 ♣ 7 5 3

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding of the hand is simple enough. North and South, of course, never enter the bidding as North has no suit to bid and South cannot, with his weak holding, consider for a moment making an Overcall at the range of three. After East has shown adequate trump support, West, with a four honor-trick hand and a five-card trump suit, naturally does not temporize but bids for game.

In the play North opened the Club Knave, and West, taking stock of his resources, could see that he faced the practical certainty of the loss of a trump trick, two heart tricks and one diamond trick. He would lose three heart tricks if he immediately drew trumps. Therefore his proper plan of play required an attempt to eliminate one of his heart losers through ruffing in the Dummy. Thus West's proper continuation and the line which he adopted was to lead a heart at once, which assured him of control of the time, to be sure of using a low trump in Dummy to ruff one of the losers.

Whatever line of defense North and South might now adopt, the contract must be made. If, upon regaining the lead, they continue clubs, the trick is won in Dummy and the last heart led. If another round of clubs is led at this time, West's proper procedure is not to play the Queen but to ruff and follow with a low spade to the King and return to the Ace.

At this point all the trumps in the adverse hands have been eliminated, except the high one. Therefore West now leads his low heart, ruffs in the Dummy, and leads the Queen of clubs, upon which he discards his losing diamond.

By making a correct plan of play at the beginning of the hand, West fulfilled a contract which, with less careful planning, would have been defeated.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you kindly advise me, if when consomme is served, it is correct to raise the cup when it has only one handle?

2. Also please advise me the correct way of introducing a man to a woman.

3. Does the sex of the person doing the introducing have any bearing on the form of the introduction? H.

1. Yes. We may correctly consider the one-handled cup in which the consomme is served, as we would consider the two-handled consomme cup. We test the heat of the soup by taking the first few sips with the spoon (bouillon spoon or cream soup spoon or tea spoon), and then, if we wish, we drink the rest of the bouillon.

2. The conventional form of introducing a man to a woman is: "Miss Robinson, may I present Mr. Allen?", or "Miss Robinson, may I introduce Mr. Allen?" This may seem a bit formal, but it really isn't . . . it's just the traditional way of making this introduction, giving it the importance that an introduction should have.

However, if you wish the introduction to be more casual, it is just as correct to use the names only, always remembering to mention first the woman's name: "Miss Robinson, Mr. Allen." Say the names distinctly, and look at the person whose name you are saying, and make the introduction with graciousness and charm.

3. No.

'It Was I'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I had an argument over which is proper—"It was I" or "It was me?" Also, "I went with him and Alice" or "I went with he and Alice?" B.

"It is I" is correct. Any form of the verb "to be" takes the nominative case after it. "I went with him and Alice" is correct. Prepositions . . . with, for instance . . . are followed by the objective case. In your sentence, HIM is the objective of the proposition WITH.

FORCES OF CWA BEGIN SEALING OLD MINES

Work was begun today in the first mine sealing project for the protection of public water supplies under the CWA.

It is the first attack ever made on stream pollution at the source and is the first of a series of projects planned for 10 states along the Ohio River and its tributaries.

Made possible through an allotment of federal CWA funds, the work in Pennsylvania is under the personal supervision of Dr. Theodore B. Appel, State Director of Public Health. Two thousand, six hundred and thirty-five men will benefit directly by employment. The estimated cost in wages alone approximates $600,000.

PLUM CREEK WORK STARTED

Eighteen previously unemployed men set to work today at an abandoned working of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, along Plum Creek, which empties into the Allegheny River at Verona, just above the sources of supply for Pittsburgh's City Water Works and the Pennsylvania Water Company. A crew started dismantling the tipple, utilizing the good timber obtained in shoring up cave-ins along the main entry to the mine.

Other men were put at work clearing the main entry and closing other surface openings. The object is to seal all of the surface openings to make them airtight, then to begin work on the lower drainage levels to dam up the water underground and force its escape through natural seepage.

BOON FOR FISHERMEN

Besides its great advantage to public health, W. L. Stevenson, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, pointed out, the sealing project will bring about partially, at least, the fondest dreams of the sportsmen who for years have sought legislation to protect the streams for fish. Dr. Appel declared that many of the smaller streams, such as Plum Creek, without propogation, will contain fish within two years.

In direct charge of the work in this district is Frank L. Hill, supervisor. James W. Paul, assistant director of the State Department of Health, is in charge of the corps in the field, and Arthur Neal is head supervisor.

HALT INTERVIEWS

Interviews for job seekers under the CWA projects will be discontinued tomorrow and Saturday while office staffs endeavor to prepare work lists to permit the placing of 15,000 men on payrolls next week.

No worker will be granted an interview, it was announced. Already approximately 9,000 workers are employed and 10,000 will be on the working list by the end of the week, though the Christmas payroll probably will be somewhat less due to a tieup in the paymaster's office. The entire headquarter staff will seek to bring the working list to 15,000 by concentrating the remainder of the week on preparing records.

WIFE FOLLOWS MAN IN DEATH

Dying two days after her husband's funeral, Mrs. Regina Ruswinkle Hoskinson, of Crafton, will be buried Saturday in Homewood Cemetery. She died of pneumonia yesterday at her home 98 Crafton avenue.

Mrs. Hoskinson was too ill Sunday to attend the funeral of her husband, George E. Hoskinson, who died after several months' illness. Mr. Hoskinson had been a prominent printer in Pittsburgh for many years. He worked on several local newspapers, and was at one time editor of the Crafton Mirror.

The couple left no children. Mrs. Hoskinson is survived by a brother, John W. Ruswinkle. She was a member of the Order of Eastern Star, and of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. Funeral services will be held at the J. Herbert Hershberger and Son Funeral Home in Crafton on Saturday at 2 p. m.

Chow Fights Death For Killing Cat

GODERICH, Ont., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—T. G. Connors has retained counsel to defend the life of his chow dog, charged with killing James Johnston's cat. The case will be heard in police court.

Police Chief Postlethwaite brought the charge, alleging the chow had "a habit of killing cats and biting people." If convicted the chow must die.

Erie Police, Girls Basketball Foes

ERIE, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Erie policemen will clash with the General Electric Company's girl basketball team in a charity game to swell Christmas funds of Erie newspapers.

District Attorney Mortimer E. Graham, who played on the Allegheny College hardwood squad, in his undergraduate days, may officiate.

Ohio Pen Fugitive Held for Robberies

William Dyer, 24, of Denniston avenue, arrested yesterday and said by detectives to have admitted participation in two holdups, one in East Liberty and the other in the West End, today faced arraignment before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. Detectives said Dyer told them he had escaped from Junction City Prison, near Columbus, O., last Labor Day.

BUCS, SENATORS CARD PAIR OF EXHIBITION TILTS

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Advance Peek at Pirates.• Trojans Point for Pitt. Booking of Nats Popular. Warburton System Stays. Loyalty to League Shown. Heavy Series Blocked.

BUCS' EARLIEST HOME SHOWING IN 41 YEARS

With arrangements finally clinched for a pair of spring exhibition games between the Pirates and Senators in Pittsburgh and Washington, an agreement whereby Clark Griffith will bring his American League champions here for an appearance at Forbes Field on Saturday, April 14, another innovation is added to the program for a season already destined to be the most unusual in local history by reason of the introduction of Sunday ball. It will be the first time ever a major league exhibition in Pittsburgh has preceded the opening of the regular championship campaign, and the first time in 41 years that the Pirates have been seen in action at home before playing a pennant game abroad.

Clark Griffith

The last occasion on which the Bucs appeared at home prior to seeing pennant action on foreign fields was in 1893, when they opened the regular season at old Exposition Park and dropped a 7-to-2 decision to Cleveland. Giving the home fans the first look at them brought the Corsairs luck that year, as it was their best season before they actually won a pennant. They finished second in a 12-club league and might have won the flag but for an injury that cost the catching services of Connie Mack for almost the full remainder of the race after June 13.

PIRATE HEADS SHOW LOYALTY TO LEAGUE

The coming of Joe Cronin and his 1933 pennant winners to whet the appetites of the local fans for the real race to follow no doubt will prove a popular attraction, and the booking is another progressive move by the enterprising combination of Bill Benswanger and Sam Watters.

The Pirate officials also made a neat gesture in declining Griffith's request to reverse the order of the two games and have the Sunday exhibition played here instead of in Washington.

The stand showed that the Buc chiefs are not going out of their way to squeeze in an extra Sunday gate here under the new law, and are dealing fairly with the National League and their patrons in insisting that the first Sunday game in Pittsburgh be a real championship contest. Both sportsmanship and league loyalty are reflected in the refusal to take advantage of Sunday privileges for a mere exhibition in advance of pennant competition.

JONES ALREADY PLANNING FOR PITT TILT

One reason why Howard Harding Jones has been so successful in keeping Southern California in the football foreground is that he's always looking ahead. No sooner is one season over than he starts planning for the next. Accordingly, though the game is almost 10 months away, the famous coach is found busy already figuring on that meeting with Pitt next fall, when the Trojans will make their first appearance in Pittsburgh. As the Panther tilt comes on October 13, Jones considers it the first tough engagement and therefore will point for it while his team is facing minor opposition on the last two Saturdays in September and Washington State on October 6.

Cotton Warburton

The Trojans will lose more than enough fine players by graduation next spring, including Rosy Rosenberg, their all-America guard, to make up a full first team, but Jones has a lot of good material coming up, among the newcomers being Fullback Storey, who transferred from Chicago. Some of this year's backfield may be shifted around to meet new requirements, and the Trojan mentor figures that by bearing down unusually hard in spring practice he can get things pretty well shaped at an early date. No matter what other timber he may lose, Jones will still have his famous scourge, Cotton Warburton to turn loose against the enemy, and that's enough to give Pitt or any other opponent plenty of worry.

WARBURTON TO BE HELD BACK AT START

If Jones sticks to his present plans, the Panthers and Pittsburgh fans may expect to see the great Warburton sitting quietly on the bench when the game gets under way, to be rushed into the fray when the time is ripe for him to do his stuff. The Trojan coach intends to follow that system instead of starting his senior quarterback. He points out that it worked very well this year, explaining that while on the bench Warburton is all eyes and uses his head, and that when he sits out until the team gets going he knows what plays to use when he gets into the game.

Cotton's record for 1933 surely bears out Jones' remarks. The 145-pound terror was the most astounding discovery of the season on anybody's team, and critics in the Far West pronounce him the greatest player to break up a game that ever performed on any Pacific Coast eleven. Warburton didn't do much against Loyola, St. Mary's or Oregon State, but otherwise he ran wild. He ran 80 and 75 yards for touchdowns against Washington, each time on the first play after being put in the game. He beat California with a 60-yard dash, put Stanford in a hole with a wild gallop of 44 yeards, ruined Oregon with one of 54 yards, and with a 35-yard run he set the stage for the first touchdown that sealed the doom of Notre Dame. There has been none like him since Red Grange.

WARY PILOTS BLOCK HEAVYWEIGHT SERIES

Bill Brown, New York boxing commissioner, who urged promoters, managers and fighters to go in for as many heavyweight bouts as possible with the object of stirring up interest in the big division and possibly developing a future challenger for the championship, admits that the response so far has not been very encouraging. All because managers have not changed their ways. They won't let their boxers fight, except against set-ups. They're all holding off, waiting for a chance to cash in heavily on big shot, and until the opening for that rolls around they refuse to run any risks.

Bill Brown

Brown tells pilots that this is a mistake. He says that if he were a manager and had a young heavyweight, he'd have the man fighting as often as possible, and if there were not enough matches available in New York he would campaign about the country, in that way giving the battler experience and making money. The commissioner can't see where there could be any serious results, even if the youngster did get knocked off once in a while. If the fighter is any good at all he always can come back. Almost every great ring star was beaten at some time or other on his way to the top. Brown warns the managers that it's their bacon not his, and that if they don't make an effort to keep boxing going they may have to go to work—and jobs are few.

If Winter Comes—It Brings Boxing and Wrestling to Pitt

JACK SCHRICKER, BOXING CAPTAIN

MOSE ILSLEY, STAR WRESTLER

CHARLEY JUNGE, BANTAMWEIGHT BOXER

Basketball is not the only indoor sport at Pitt during the winter months, aside from, of course, swimming and indoor track and gymnastics. No sir. Several years ago the Panthers took up boxing and last year they went in for wrestling and they'll be well represented in both of the sports this season. The boxing team is a member of the Intercollegiate Boxing Conference, along with Carnegie Tech, Duquesne, W. & J., West Virginia, Bucknell and Temple. Schricker is the middleweight champion of the Conference and Junge is considered a top contender for the bantamweight laurels. Ilsley won the only match for Pitt in its only wrestling meet last year, with Waynesburg. Joe Orsini is coach of the fisticians. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

GARIBALDI WINS OVER JONES AT GARDEN

By JAMES MILLER

Gino Garibaldi, of New York, who is striving for a match with Jim Londos, recognized as heavyweight wrestling champion by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, won his third straight match in as many shows here by tossing Paul (minus whatya say) Jones, of Texas, in the main bout at Motor Square Garden last night.

The end came after 30 minutes and 31 seconds of grappling, with Garibaldi pinning Jones' shoulders with a cradle hold (no relation to the cradle song) after Jones had Garibaldi pretty well squeezed with his hook scissors.

It was a fast bout and the small crowd attending booed the decision. Yes, sir, it was a pro-Jones gathering.

KAMPFER VICTOR

Hans Kampfer, of Germany, claimant of the Graeco-Roman title, put up with Floyd Marshall, of Phoenix, Ariz., for 23 minutes and 2 seconds and then slammed him to the canvas with a body hold. Marshall did very little wrestling, but plenty of punching and complaining to the referee.

Orville Brown, of Cheyenne, Wyo., a pleasing matman, won from Ivan Vakturoff, of Russia, in the second bout, the end coming after 14 minutes and 42 seconds. Brown got the fall with a body scissors and arm lock.

BAUR BEATS STEWART

Bob Stewart, of Alabama, who talks and punches a good bout, lost to the veteran Hans Baur, of Chicago, in the opening number, which went the limit of 30 minutes.

It was a slow affair and when the crowd clamored for action, Stewart, who was near the ropes at the time, yelled back at one of the ringsiders:

"Why don't you come up here and try it, ya punk?"

He further asserted himself, this time to the referee, when the latter warned him for using illegal holds:

"You do the refereeing and I'll do the wrestling."

STEELE THROWS LEWIS

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 21.—Ray Steele outroughed and threw Strangler Lewis in 36 minutes 38 seconds before a crowd of 12,000 here last night. A body slam ended the match. Milo Steinborn threw Lew Plummer in less than 12 minutes.

MAT TOURNEY CARDED

AMES, Ia., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The National A. A. U. wrestling tournament will be held here April 13 and 14, Hugo Otopalik, manager of the tournament and mat coach at Iowa State College, said today.

Keck and Trench Appear on Seals' Program Tonight

Alan Trench, WCAE announcer, collaborates with Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in presenting the weekly radio broadcast of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

Alan Trench

Trench will assume the role of interrogator and will quiz Keck on pertinent sports topics of the day.

BAILEY SHOWS FURTHER GAIN

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Irvin (Ace) Bailey, injured Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star, today was "considerably improved over yesterday," according to a bulletin issued at 11:30 a. m. His chances were 60 to 40 in favor of recovery, attending brain specialists said. They said Bailey had recognized his wife and Connie Smythe, manager of the Leafs, but that he had not as yet spoken to anyone.

Bailey's case, it was said at the City Hospital, has created a furore in medical circles. He has remained alive a remarkably long time for one with such serious brain injuries and if he recovers, it will be a case for the medical records.

The father of the injured player, C. H. Bailey, of Bracebridge, Ont., arrived here during the day and his two sisters are expected before Christmas. As a result of this family gathering, Mrs. Bailey has engaged a hotel suite where a Christmas tree will be set up for her small daughter, who is 4 years old today.

A. A. U. NOTES

An invitation swimming meet will be held at the P. A. A. next Wednesday night.

The North Boros A. C., of Etna, is arranging an amateur boxing show for the Etna Elks Club, January 18.

The Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. junior weight-lifting and junior wrestling championships and the Greater Pittsburgh boxing championships will be staged at the Pittsburgh Boys' Club this winter.

DRAKE TO MEET UTAH

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The University of Utah, winner of the Rocky Mountain Conference championship for many years and coached by Ike Armstrong, former Drake star, will meet the Drake University football team next October 28, E. C. Lytton, Drake business manager, said today.

LIONS REACH DALLAS; FOE LOSES STAR

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 21. — We were pulling out of Texarkana this morning on the Columbia University football special, bound for the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, and the poker game between the newspaper correspondents and the coaches was just breaking up when I thought I noted a familiar figure wrestling her suitcase through the club car. I gasp:

"Say, do these bleary eyes deceive me, or is it Sally Touchdown?"

It was, and she panted:

"Sure, it's me, or I, as the case may be. You didn't think I was going to miss this game, did you? Why, I'm a fiend for roses, I adore the Lions and I'm going out to California and root those Stanfords right back to Palo Alto."

ALL-AMERICA GIRL

In case you have never had the pleasure of meeting Sally Touchdown, she is the all-America football girl who followed your correspondent around all through the recent football season and won herself enough pairs of hose on his predictions to last her right through to 1946.

"Tell me all about the trip so far, how's it been going?

"Well, the team had the worst practice in St. Louis yesterday it has put in since early October. The boys couldn't throw the ball, kick it, catch it, or stand up even when they did get it in their hands. They looked almost as bad, in fact, as some of their critics have been painting them. But up to then it was great."

The team will stage a workout in Dallas today, go on to El Paso tomorrow and then to Tucson, Ariz., where the boys will remain until the eve of the Rose Bowl battle.

STANFORD LOSES NORGARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The eve of Stanford's departure to meet Columbia in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena in the New Year's Day football game, Al Norgard, first string right end of the Stanford eleven, was declared ineligible for having played two minutes as a substitute with St. Ignatius College of San Francisco in 1929.

The announcement was made by Prof. William Owen, Stanford faculty representative in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Prof. Owen said he went into the matter thoroughly after Norgard's eligibility had been questioned, first by Santa Clara and later by the University of California.

His investigation, he said, developed that Norgard had registered at St. Ignatius, now the University of San Francisco, in August, 1929, and later had withdrawn and entered Menlo junior college. He registered at the latter school September 16 of the same year.

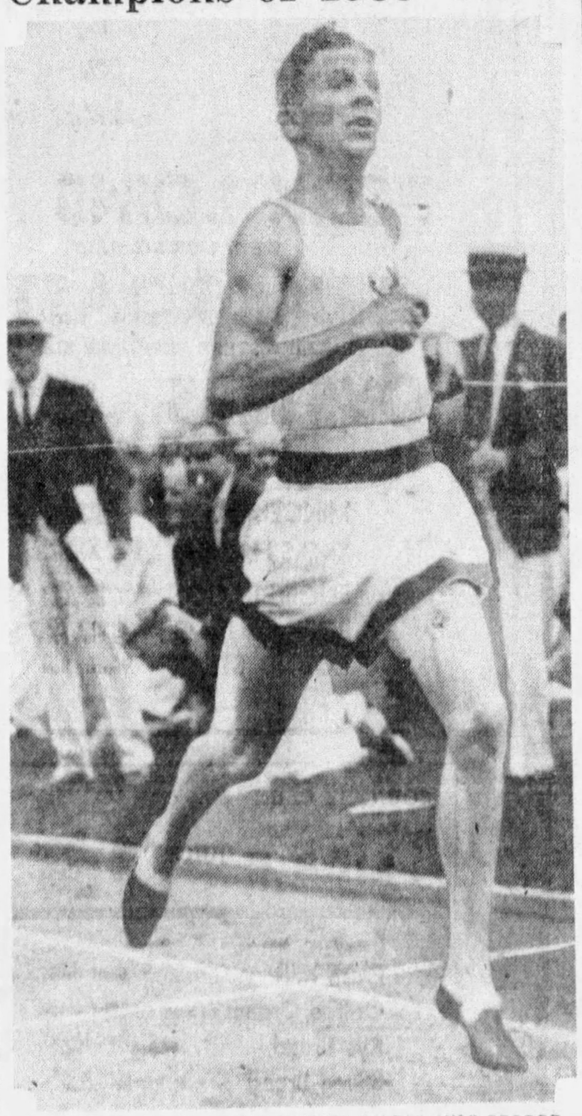
OFFICIALS NAMED

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Tom Louttit, of Portland, Ore., a graduate of Oregon State College, was named today to referee the Columbia-Stanford football game at Pasadena, New Year's Day.

The announcement was made by Herb Dana, commissioner of the Pacific Coast Conference, who joined with Walter Okeson, commissioner of the Eastern Intercollegiate Association, in selecting the officials for the Rose Bowl classic.

Ed Thorpe, of New York, was selected as umpire; W. R. Crowley, of New York, as linesman, and Tom Fitzpatrick, of Oakland, as field judge.

Champions of 1933—No. 7



JACK LOVELOCK . . . SHATTERING WORLD MILE RECORD

The greatest individual feat of the year 1933 in track and field is pictured above—Jack Lovelock, the Australian Oxford student, breaking the world record for a mile in a race in which the runnerup, Bill Bonthron, of Princeton, also bettered the former time. Lovelock breasted the tape in 4 minutes 7 6/10 seconds, an amazing speed. News from London today was that Lovelock is recovering from an operation on a cartilege in one of his legs and may never race again. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

CLUBS TO PLAY FIRST GAME HERE APRIL 14

Making new baseball history for Pittsburgh, the Pirates will stage a pre-season exhibition game with the Washington Senators at Forbes Field April 14 next year. The contest will be a Saturday attraction and the interleague rivals will move to Washington for a Sunday engagement on the succeeding afternoon.

The Sun-Telegraph carried an exclusive article shortly after the finish of the world series to the effect that the American League champions figured on coming to Pittsburgh for exhibition play. At that time the Washington authorities desired to stage two games here on the Saturday and Sunday mentioned above, but the Pittsburgh officials demurred concerning the Sunday game.

SUNDAY GAME OUT

The objection of the Pittsburgh officials to the Sunday game at Forbes Field was due to the common feeling shared by President William E. Benswanger and Vice President Samuel E. Watters, concerning the introduction of Sunday baseball to the city. The Pirate directors felt that the first Sunday game should feature two National League clubs in championship action.

The two clubs will travel from western points in order to reach the Oakland Orchard in time for the game of April 14. April 13 had been open on the Pirate card, but in announcing the games with the Senators, the home officials also stated that the Pirates would meet the Chicago White Sox in Terre Haute on the preceding Friday. The White Sox and Pirates will thus complete a transcontinental tour at Terre Haute.

OPEN SEASON APRIL 17

It had been announced previously that the Fonseca and Gibson entries would play a long series of games on the return trip after finishing their training in California.

The Pirates will open the season in some western city, on Tuesday, April 17. They will play 28 exhibition games after leaving their Paso Robles camp.

Joe Cronin's personal popularity in Pittsburgh is sure to put a big crowd in Forbes Field when his club shows here, provided the weather is favorable.

John Connelly, of Duquesne, a pitcher, returned his signed contract to the Pirates yesterday. Connelly, who became a Pirate in 1931, and who was with the Springfield Club of the Middle Atlantic League last summer, will accompany the Bucs to their Paso Robles spring training camp.

CURRY TO FACE RIEHLS IN SENIOR CUP FRAY

SHANNON SEEKS PERMISSION TO USE ZYWAN

By TOM BIRKS

The Western Pennsylvania Soccer Football Association is insistent that play in the senior cup competition get under way on Sunday afternoon and thereby has assured district fans the match between the Curry and Castle Shannon Riehls at Greenlee Field on that date.

Realizing that they will have a stiff battle on their hands, the sponsors of the Riehls appeared before the cup committee yesterday in an effort to get the suspension of Zywan lifted for this particular game.

Zywan was suspended over a battle that started in the last meeting with Curry. The Riehl won that game in the last minute. The Black and White team played without the services of Buff Donnelli that day. Manager Johnny Bruce hopes that with Buff in the lineup the tide of victory will turn to Curry.

With Johnny Jaap leading the attack for the Riehls, and Buff Donnelli playing for Curry, the game should produce plenty of thrills.

HUNK CONCEDES LIONS CHANCE

BALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Hunk Anderson, former Notre Dame coach, expressed the opinion here that Columbia University will give Stanford "a good game" in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. Hunk said:

"There oughtn't be more than a couple of touchdowns difference between the teams, Columbia has a good defensive club and a fairly good offense."

Anderson, who arrived in Raleigh on the eve of a meeting of the althletic council of North Carolina State College to consider hiring a new football coach for the school, insisted he was not applying for any coaching job.

Anderson revealed he has been in touch with the University of North Carolina in regard to the coaching vacancy there and said he planned to visit Auburn, where there is another opening, while in this part of the country.

Asked by newspapermen to what he attributed the defeat of Pittsburgh by U. S. C. in the Rose Bowl game several years ago, Anderson replied:

"They used the wrong defense. They wasted a man all afternoon waiting on a quick kick that never came. They used a six-man line and it wasn't strong enough."

Tilden, Richards Top Tennis Draw

Boxer Is Jailed For Taking Count

PANAMA CITY, Dec. 21.—They do things in a big way here to boxers believed to be guilty of faking.

There's Rafael (Kid) Hurtado for instance. Mayor Carlos de la Ossa has had him committed to jail for 20 days and the boxing commission has confiscated his purse and barred him for life for taking a count in the third round of a bout without being hit. He is the Panama featherweight champion.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTON OF YESTERDAY: THE BLACK HOLE OF CALCUTTA—This spot recalls the chief event in the history of the Indian city, when the town was sacked and the fort captured by the Navab of Bengal. On June 20, 1756, 146 English prisoners were forced into the guardroom, measuring only 18 feet by 14 feet, and having only two small windows, where they spent the night. The heat was very intense and on the following morning only 23 were still alive. The city was retaken in January, 1757, by an expedition from Madras. The incident has been commemorated by a monument erected on the spot in 1902. TOMORROW: THE BLUE EAGLE OF THE BIBLE. ANSWER TO ABOVE MATHEMATICAL PROBLEM WILL APPEAR NEXT TUESDAY.

EDGEWOOD GRID CARD SET

By JULIUS LEVIN

Seven games with class B opponents and one with a class A rival will be played by the Edgewood High School football team next fall, according to the schedule announced today by Wally Pickett, athletic director.

Two schools engaged on the gridiron in 1933 will not be met next season, Verona and Sewickley, two newcomers, replacing Shady Side Academy and Rankin.

Edgewood will usher in its season on September 28 against Verona. Sewickley will be tackled at Edgewood on October 5. October 12 will find Edgewood at Brentwood, while on October 19, Aspinwall will be met at Edgewood.

The second half of the schedule will be inaugurated on October 26, when Coach Storer's Freedom High eleven is met at Edgewood. November 2, East Pittsburgh, a strong contender for the 1933 class B championship, will be the attraction at Edgewood. East McKeesport will be played at East McKeesport on November 9. The season will be brought to a close on November 17, when Swissvale, a class B school, is met at Edgewood.

Braddock, Wilkinsburg, Scott and New Castle turned in basketball triumphs in contests played last night.

The Scott passers journeyed to Erie, where they defeated the crack Strong Vincent High School quintet, 38 to 33, in a nip and tuck battle. Braddock nosed out Westinghouse, of the City Scholastic League, 31 to 28, in another thriller and New Castle defeated New Kensington, 28 to 22.

Another City League team fell when Wilkinsburg took the measure of Peabody, 26 to 18. The lineup of the Scott-Erie Strong Vincent game:

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Fred Lindstrom says he will not make the same mistake twice as regards conditioning. Lindy was so eager to shine in Pirate raiment he hurt his chances during the long grind in California last spring. He took off weight so fast he was under playing condition long before the bell rang. The long barnstorming jaunt in the faraway state was a physical test in itself. Fred expects to have extra poundage for these games of next year.

Had Lindy not gone stale for several weeks this year he might have been runnerup to Chuck Klein for the batting honors of the league. After his strength returned he gave one of the finest performances of the season and finished high in the list of de luxe swingers. He was within a whisper of the top in accepting chances in the field and his baserunning was very good. He should be a headliner in the next campaign.

Quick wit is one of the high spots of Lindstrom's charm. The handsome Chicagoan is quiet of speech, but he has a very bright sense of humor that makes him standout as a conversationalist. Lindy invited the members of the Pittsburgh delegation to his home, where Mrs. Lindstrom had prepared what Sharon folks would call a very fine supper. Freddie Jr., aged 5, who likes football better than baseball, was trying to assist his mother in serving the meal.

Lindy was regaling his guests with an interesting dissertation when he noted Junior approaching with a trayful of costly glassware. Fred took time out to caution his boy in this fashion:

"Be careful there, son—after all I might have to take a cut."

Lindstrom glowed with admiration for Bill Terry when he learned his longtime roomie had suggested to the Red owners that they make a trade with the Pirates with the idea of getting Fred for the Red leadership job. Lindy had been told by one of the New York officials to be ready to wear the McGraw toga which was passed onto the shoulders of Memphis Bill.

George Susce, smart catcher from Calico Hill, is the latest Hollywood Sheik. George was a bit surprised upon learning that Beaumont had sold him to the Coast League team, yet he knew that scouts were on his trail when he suffered a broken shoulder bone. The former Schenley High star is one of the best receivers in the minors. A little boost in the batting department and he would be right back as a big league maskman. They tried to rush him too fast at the start.

Joe Cronin should experience a joyful thrill when he leads his American League champions into the Oakland Orchard next April. As he looks across the field from the visiting dugout to the home bench he can visualize an obscure young infielder sitting in the corner nursing a big ambition which seems to have been realized.

Pasadena Open Play on Today

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The big push for California's winter golf gold got away here today, the immediate objective $4,000 in stakes in the Pasadena, 72-hole medal play championship and the qualifying field divided into two sections of about 100 players each.

Half the field will play 18 holes today over the Brookside Park course, the second half competing tomorrow for the 100 qualifying places in Saturday's second round. The field will be pared to the 57 low scores and ties for Sunday's final 36 holes.

It will be a thoroughly representative field, with scores of the nation's leading professionals training their big guns at the championship sub-par 278 posted for the 72 holes last year by Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J.

Westminster Game With St. John's Off

FREEPORT, L. I., Dec. 21.—The basketball game between Westminster College, of New Wilmington, Pa., and St. John's College, of Brooklyn, N. Y., scheduled for the local high school floor last night was canceled due to a disagreement over the expense guarantees.

Westminster is coached by John Lawther, former athletic director at the local high school.

VEGSO HONORED AT CHARLEROI

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 21.—Johnny Vegso, halfback, was elected captain of the 1934 Charleroi High School football squad at the annual banquet held for the Cougar squad in the Methodist Episcopal Church last night.

Howard Harpster, head football coach at Carnegie Tech, was the principal speaker and made a decided hit with the guests in relating some of his football experiences as a coach and player.

David Glunt, assistant coach at Charleroi, was toastmaster. Among the other speakers were T. L. Pollock, superintendent of schools; James R. Russell, Sr., president of the Charleroi Athletic Association; D. H. Clipman, Jr., principal at the Senior High School; R. C. Mountser, president of the Board of Education; D. W. Copeland, faculty manager; Head Coach Steve Stepanian; Co-Captains of the 1933 team, Paul Zalom and Henry Pyzynski; Line Coach Frank Cantoni, and the Rev. B. C. Neusman, who offered the invocation.

Among the guests were Coach Jimmy Russell, of Donora; Coach Carl Aschman, of California; Coach Preston Ditty, of Monessen; Principal W. F. Blackburn, of Monessen; Harry Burnett, Paul Kurtz, Harper Jennings and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

ROLLS PERFECT SCORE

After 22 years, Walter J. (Honus) Dubski, manager of the South Side Recreation alleys, finally bowled a perfect score recently. Dubski lives at 65 South Fourteenth street. Brown was paired with Dubski against Ed Stern and Eddie in a special match.

IRISH COLLAPSE OUTSTANDING '33 UPSET

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The athletic woods were full of bear traps and trouble during 1933, but none of the assorted consequences so shocked observant sports-followers as the course followed by Notre Dame University's football team.

The collapse of the Ramblers over a stretch of four straight shutouts, followed finally by a thrilling one-point victory over West Point, combined to give the sports world more to talk about than the developments surrounding any other events of the year, on the basis of opinion reflected in the third annual Associated Press poll.

Asked to name the outstanding upset or surprise of 1933, sports editors and writers put Notre Dame's collapse at the top of the list with 33 votes while 28 others singled out the Irish comeback against Army, thereby concentrating 61 out of a total of 204 votes on events surrounding the South Bend institution.

The only rivalry in the balloting was furnished by the Giants. Already named as the outstanding team of the year, the world baseball champions also surprised 31 experts by the rapidity with which they beat the Senators in the world series and 18 others by their sensational dash to the National League pennant. The vote follows:

Notre Dame's football decline	33
Victory of Giants over Senators	31
Notre Dame's victory over Army	28
Giants' pennant victory	18
Downfall of Ellsworth Vines	15
Max Baer's knockout of Max Schmeling	12
Primo Carnera's knockout of Jack Sharkey	8
Defeat of U. S. Davis Cup team	7
Downfall of New York Yankees	6
Stanford's football defeat of U. S. C.	5
Iowa's football comeback	5
British Davis Cup victory	4
Helen Jacobs' victory over Helen Wills Moody	4
Tommy Loughran's fistic comeback	4
Tony Canzoneri's knockout of Kid Chocolate	4
Jack Sharkey's series of defeats in ring	3
Louisiana State's track victory in N.C. A. A. meet	3
Selection of Columbia for Rose Bowl game	3

Two each for following: Bill Bonthron's defeat by Jack Lovelock in record-breaking mile, Johnny Goodman's victory in U. S. open golf, Michael Scott's winning of British amateur golf at age of 55, Broker's Tip's victory in Kentucky Derby.

One each for following: Arkansas' rise in southwest football, Cardinals' decline in National League baseball race, Babe Herman's failure as slugger with Cubs, Barney Ross' first victory over Tony Canzoneri for lightweight title, defeats of Equipoise, Georgia Tech's football victory over Duke and Denny Shute's triumph in British open golf.

McLennan, Racing Secretary, Succumbs

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Joseph McLennan, America's foremost racing secretary, died in his sleep at his apartment here today. He had been suffering from influenza several days, but his condition had not been considered serious.

With McLennan when he died, was his wife, Bertha.

His son, Charles, assistant secretary of the Charles Town, W. Va., track, was notified and told his mother he would fly to Miami. Funeral arrangements will be completed after his arrival here.

Jockey Tod Sloan Suffers Relapse

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Tod Sloan, world-famed jockey, was in a "very low" condition today at Sylvan Lodge Hospital. Suffering from a chronic liver ailment, Sloan spent a bad night, hospital attendants said. Little hope was held for recovery.

Did you notice that our Teddy Yarosz is the unofficial middleweight champion of the world, according to the latest rankings of the National Boxing Association, which place him in the No. 2 position, with only Vince Dundee, the champion, above him? Since Teddy has beaten Dundee twice in as many starts, the conclusion is obvious.

Jim Browning and Ed Don George wrestle 1 hour 40 minutes to a draw. Why is it all of the really important wrestling bouts, where both contestants have much at stake, invariably end in a draw, a double knockout or an accidental finish? You answer the question.

A name to conjure with in football passed out with the death of Malcolm (Red) Fleming, former W. & J. halfback star of the Johnny Speigal-Fleming regime in the Red and Black's heyday, from 1912 to 1914. A great blocking back, Red managed to draw the cheers of the crowd.

How the mighty have fallen! Defending his title in the world pocket billiards championship tournament in Chicago, Ralph Greenleaf loses seven matches in nine starts, one of them by forfeit when he was disqualified for protesting a decision of the referee. The swift descent of this once brilliant player is one of the most amazing in the history of the sport.

The real reason Joe Ferrare, local lad on the Columbia football team, will not be eligible to play in the Tournament of Roses game against Stanford at Pasadena, New Year's Day, although he is making the trip, is that injuries caused him to fall back in his studies. He's co-captain of next year's eleven and hopes to make a big comeback. He is a star tackle.

The Greensburg Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a football game in Greensburg Christmas afternoon between the Scott Morgans, of Homewood, and the Ludwick A. C., of Greensburg, the proceeds of which will go to charity.

Oliver K. Eaton, the attorney, will be host at a private dinner to Elmer Layden, Notre Dame's new football coach, at the P. A. A., tonight.

Chief of County Detectives George Murren is going to make the trip to Florida with the Dukes. However, Elmer Layden and Joe Bach will coach the team.

If enough fans go with the Dukes when they pull out next Thursday afternoon, they will have their own special train. Clyde B. Barton, of the Atlantic Seaboard Air Line, in the Union Trust Building, is receiving reservations.

Swell job Charley Massera, of Monongahela, did when he slapped around Maxie Rosenbloom in New York, Tuesday night. But did Maxie care? Not a bit of it. He had nothing to do last night but to fly to Florida, where he boxes Bob Godwin tonight.

Walter Winchell doesn't know about it yet, but Bunny Buntach and Eddie Khappan have agreed to pass each other by.

CUE FINAL TONIGHT

PONZI OPPOSES RUDOLPH FOR CROWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, and Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, meet tonight in a 125-point game to decide the world billiard championship.

Rudolph, a former holder of the title, and Ponzi swept through a field of 10 players, in a round robin tournament which required 18 days to complete.

While the winner of tonight's match will be declared champion with a record of seven games won and two lost, the loser must meet George Kelly and youthful Willie Mosconi, another pair from the Quaker City, and young Jimmy Caras, of Wilmington, Del., to decide second place honors.

The last named three each won six games while losing three.

JACKSON'S PLEA WINS BARROW

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The World-Telegram today quotes Ed Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees, as favoring the reinstatement of Joe Jackson, who was banned from organized baseball for his part in the world series scandal of 1919.

Jackson, now a resident of Greenville, S. C., recently applied to Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis for reinstatement so he might play in an industrial league at Greenville. The World-Telegram canvassed various baseball leaders, but only Barrow responded, the paper said. Barrow was quoted:

"I believe he has done a long and sufficient penance and that it would be the human thing to lift the bars and let him run that club in Greenville.

"As a matter of fact I don't see why Buck Weaver, Happy Felsch and Eddie Cicotte should not be reinstated along with Jackson. They have paid for their indiscretion and as long as we do not have them in any organized league what possible injury could they do to the game?"

The four players mentioned and several others were members of the White Sox in 1919 who, it was proved, "threw" the world series to the Cincinnati Reds for a share of the winnings of several big gamblers on the series. All were barred from organized baseball for life.

Mercer Countians Gain Ring Finals

FARRELL, Pa., Dec. 21.—Seven Mercer County amateur boxers won the right to represent their district in the finals of the Western Pennsylvania amateur boxing tournament in Pittsburgh in January either by scoring victories or advancing by defaults here last night in the eliminations staged in the high school gym.

Boxers in the 118, 147 and light heavyweight classes gained the finals when no opponents appeared. Billy Soos, of Farrell, was the only boxer forced to fight in two bouts. He first knocked out Rich Gregory and then outpointed Kid Sal to win the 126-pound title. The summary:

112-pound class—Frank Miller defeated Jimmy Droagos.

126-pound class—Billy Soos knocked out Rich Gregory, first round; Billy Soos defeated Kid Sal.

135-pound class—Al Wolgast defeated Nick Rossi, 1st-pound class—Tony Cera defeater Kenneth Paxton.

Heavyweight class — William Green knocked out Robert (K. O.) Brown, first round.

All-East Squad Heads for Coast

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Twenty-two football stars, members of the Eastern squad, went through a long and spirited drill yesterday and then headed for Palo Alto, Cal., where they will train until just before they meet the West in the all-star charity game at San Francisco New Year's Day.

Coaches Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern sent the squad of stars through a brisk workout and drilled them on new plays. Every player was reported in fine physical condition.

Dodgers Face $105,000 Suit

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—The Brooklyn Dodgers are having their troubles even in the off-season. The club officials today had been sued for $105,000 by two stockholders of the Jersey City Club, on which the Dodgers had an option in 1932.

The Dodgers bought three players, James Jordan, Chick Outen and Ray Lucas for $2,500 each. The suing stockholders claim they were worth $120,000, but Dodger fans today said if they were or are, a glass of beer is worth a million bucks.

Jackets, Indians Clash in Buffalo

BUFFALO, Dec. 21.—Pittsburgh's undefeated Yellow Jackets open their first road trip of the season by meeting the local Indians in a North American Professional Lacrosse Association game here tonight.

The Jackets defeated the Indians, 17 to 10, in a rough game at Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Sioux City—Young Richtmeier and Jackie Wilson drew, 8 rounds; Larry Udell defeated Earl Mason, 8 rounds; Jack Gibbons defeated Ray Calvert, 8 rounds.

At Chicago — Freddie Miller defeated Sammy Levine, 10 rounds; Frankie Keeri knocked out Les Derry, 1 round; Laddie Tonelli defeated Johnny Terry, 6 rounds; Jack King defeated Duane Maddox, 4 rounds; Curtis Brown knocked out Eddie Steinel, 4 rounds.

At Cincinnati—Jess Freeman defeated Frankie Sanzone, 8 rounds; Henry Palmeier defeated Al Cortez, 4 rounds.

STOCKS CREEP UP IN DULL SESSION

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Stocks steadied a bit today, after their wash-out of the previous session, but recoveries generally were limited to small fractions and intermittent rallies were rather feeble.

Dullness ruled in the early hours and most of yesterday's growling bears failed to venture into the open. Whether they had already covered was a matter of discussion. There was little stock for sale, however, and also there were few traders who showed any inclination to reach for equities. The dollar remained on an even keel in foreign exchange dealings as the gold rate was again unaltered. Wheat and cotton sagged and other commodities were undecided. Bonds were mildly mixed.

Shares of Union Bag and Paper, which led Wednesday's relapse, came back for a small gain. Celanese and Atlas Tack, however, lost about a point each.

Wall street sentiment continued moderately optimistic despite the nervousness of some traders following the gyrations of recent specialty favorites. Economic observers, in addition to stressing the pickup in retail business, pointed out that the latest available figures for commercial failures indicated a total of about 20,400 for the year, which would be the lowest annual aggregate since 1924.

BUYING BULGE LIFTS WHEAT

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Wheat prices rallied quickly today after downturns at the start. With the government winter wheat crop report variously construed, selling orders predominated at the outset in wheat, but commission house buying increased later.

Opening ⅛-1⅛ off, wheat afterward scored gains. Corn started unchanged to ½ higher, and subsequently rose all around.

On rebounds in prices, wheat went fractionally above yesterday's finish, but gains were not held, and the market dropped lower than before. In some quarters, talk was heard that the government estimate of winter wheat acreage should not be taken too seriously. Corn and oats displayed relative strength as compared with wheat, rural offerings of corn to arrive being limited.

Provisions lacked aggressive support.

STOCK MARKET BAROMETER CONSISTENT

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—If we regard the stock market as a business barometer, its recent performance is not difficult to understand. In fact it has from that point of view, been quite consistent.

Its rise early in April anticipated the phenomenally sharp expansion in business activity during the summer.

It broke sharply in July as we began to see the peak of business stimulation had been reached. Business declined from July through November.

The August rally was not on a business basis, however, but was the result of inflationary policies and NRA ballyhoo. Then the decline was resumed in mid-September reaching bottom about October 21.

NEW REACTION LOW

The October-November recovery in the stock market anticipated the fact that November marked the low point in the business reaction. As December got under way it became apparent the steel industry was expanding and that railway carloadings were holding up better. Retail trade, particularly in the South, was much stimulated. Naturally the sensitive forces affecting stock speculation anticipated these developments.

Now we have been witnessing a reaction. A great deal of hesitation is apparent in the market. I think this, too, is to be explained on rational grounds.

Of course there are the usual year-end technical factors, such as tax-selling and these are supplemented this year by some liquidation on the part of bank "security affiliates" which has been required by bank legislation.

But if we regard the previous recovery as anticipating a stimulation of business based on government spending, we may see in the present situation a reflection of Wall street doubts as to how far such a stimulus can carry business expansion and how long it will last.

INFLATION HUSHED

Inflation is being soft-pedaled, and "inflation stocks" have been rather backward. They retain much of their past gains, however, as many believe government-spending means so much government debt that inflation will ultimately develop, or that at least there will be such revaluation of the dollar that higher prices will result.

So the main factors just now are the questions, will the upturn in business carry through? Will the large amount of government-spending this time succeed in "priming the pump?"

Also there is the question, what will Congress do? The idea which prevails at the moment, however, is that Congress will "get behind the President" and give his "social control" policies a chance to work out further.

PROGRAM UNCERTAIN

So I think that what the stock market is saying is that investors and speculators are not sure that the program of social control, with the government as a guarantor of "a more abundant life" for all, "is going to bring a sustained improvement in business."

It is worrying about the taxes required to carry on the government's spending. Above all, it is worrying about profits, which are the life blood of stock values. Business is run for the purpose of making money. If taxes and wage payments were to eat up profits, "business" expansion would not last long, and the government would have to replace business men.

The immediate outlook marketwise is for dullness and irregularity following this break. The breaks in Atlas Tack, Union Bag and Paper and Celanese are bound to be disturbing, and to keep the public out. But the private stocks are well supported, and I think that holders of those sound standard industrials which would benefit by inflation will eventually be rewarded.

If the government's business schemes fall down, inflation will be sure.

Several of the lower levels suggested in this column last Monday have now been reached, and I am inclined to hope that the prices of good stocks will now hold. Many of the weak spots should now have been cleaned out.

P. & G. Second Half Sales Up 6 to 10%

CINCINNATI, Dec. 21.—R. R. Deupree, president Procter and Gamble Company, stated that tonnage sales for the current six months are running 10 per cent ahead of the same period in 1932, with dollar sales showing a large percentage improvement. December sales are showing an even greater improvement over December, 1932. The company will advertise more extensively in the new year than in 1933.

Cotton Spindle Activity Recedes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The Bureau of the Census announces that according to preliminary figures 30,771,964 cotton spinning spindles were in place in the United States at the end of November, of which 25,423,348 were operated at some time during the month. This compares with 25,875,143 operated in October and 24,368,478 for November, 1932.

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

miliarize myself with it."

He nodded. "Only, there'll be no rehearsals.

"I never have really needed any."

August had become September and September had ripened into October, and Col. Sharpe had sent no word to Operator 13 that it was time to start for Richmond.

In November, Col. Sharpe sent her into Baltimore to locate "grapevine." The girl operated between Baltimore, Norfolk and Washington, passing as a May Flasher, widow of an extinguished racetrack follower.

Bantering Letter

She had written to Capt. Gailliard, as he had asked her to, in care of Mr. Gaston in Richmond. One day, in the Baltimore postoffice, through general delivery, she had a letter from him:

"Gail, darling:

"You're such a gallant, cheerful child that I feel I ought to have surrendered and let a Yankee courtmartial hang me, just so Col. Sharpe could tell you how clever you are. But after all, think how much fun you'd miss chasing me. Because I suppose you're still doing it, or are planning to.

"Since last I saw you I've been in Baltimore and Washington several times. Tell Col. Sharpe. You will anyway, I suppose.

"What are you doing in Baltimore? Tinkering with the grapevine? Never mind; tell me all about it after we are married.

"These words, alas, take all the levity out of me. I have little to jest about.

"I wish to God I'd got that ironclad. But the entire revolt was a premature and horrible mistake; we had a hell full of devils in our hands—a baker's dozen of us alone in a pit with ten thousand raging wild beasts!

"Poor Cleburne! What a ghastly end. He was only 20.

"Poor Andrews! He acted like a jackass. So did I when I organized that Red River cavalry! Oh, Falstaff!

"Well, God was good to you and me, only my poor horse broke his neck. Are you as sick of war as I am?

"Now, honey-sweet, I am ending my love-letter. Letter paper is scarce. I wish you'd tell your generals and their armies to go home and let us alone.

"Your lover and future husband, J. G."

She laughed and wept over it many a night on her pillow in the grubby Baltimore boarding house.

It was a miserable winter and spring for North and South and for all the armies of warring brethren.

In March that western general, Grant, took over all the armies of the United States.

In May all the armies of the United States were in line of battle and moving south.

At Last, the Signal

One day in early June, Col. Sharpe telegraphed Operator 13 a single word: "Ready!"

A few days later the girl was sitting in her tent near secret service headquarters, happy, excited, lovely to look upon. One of the military telegraphers had left a banjo near her abode, and that morning the girl was strumming it blithely and singing away in her tent like a bird in a sunny cage.

Glancing up through the open tent flap she espied Col. Sharpe booted and spurred sauntering toward her: "You'll lack no credentials in Richmond if you'll sing that to them," he said, smiling.

"Am I really going, then?"

"Tonight, ma'am."

Excitement deepened the lovely flush in her cheeks.

"Are you letter-perfect in your role of Miss Anne Cleburne?" he inquired.

"Yes, Col. Sharpe."

"Very well. None of the other trouble for you; and this Anne Cleburne is still in England. Of course,' he add gravely, "we must risk her coming back on a blockade runner."

"Yes," said the girl, "we must risk that."

After a brief silence: "Your couriers will be Billy Dix, No. 28, and John Babcock."

"I am glad!" she exclaimed, enchanted.

"Keep to yourself," he said, "I mean as far as other Union spies in Richmond are concerned. Keep clear particularly of No. 33. His name is Bayard Mannix. He is a brave man and has been invaluable to us, but some of the Treasury scouts and couriers through whom he maintains contact with us are fools. I've warned him repeatedly."

"I understand, sir."

"See that you don't forget. I hope nothing will happen to him. I've ordered him home. But I can get no word from him." He began to pace the tent. "You might as well share one of my worries," he added.

"I should be happy to, sir."

Mistakes Mean Death

"Not hearing from Mannix makes me think of how Maj. Allen worried over Timothy Webster and those two pitiable poltroons whose stupidity sent Webster to a Richmond gallows—I mean Pryce Lewis and John Scully. They went blundering into Richmond, knowing that Mrs. Phillips might be in that city and that she was a rebel counter spy and perfectly able to identify Pryce Lewis on sight. And they knew that the Mortons might be in Richmond.

"The rebel counter spy George Clucker, with Chase Morton caught that pair of stupid birds; and they went to pieces and involved and betrayed Webster to save their worthless necks. But Mrs. Lawton stood nobly by him till the tragic end. I have more respect for Belle Starr than I have for Scully and Pryce Lewis. And to poor Carrie Lawton I give all my admiration and homage. I never forgive a coward. I wish the War Department wouldn't meddle with the detectives of the Interior. I can work with the Postoffice Department, but not with the others."

He looked at the girl silently. "As for you," he added, "keep away from them. They're not to be depended upon in a crisis. They lose their heads and get caught and hanged. Or confess and involve others. I warned Mannix not to trust either their common sense or—at a pinch—their courage. So stick to your own couriers and contacts. I'd rather have no news at all from you than news of your arrest inside the Confederate lines."

The girl was a little surprised at this calm man's emotion. There was merely a trace of it, but it was a great deal for Col. Sharpe.

"Very well," he said, "turn yourself into a blonde this afternoon. And when you're as blonde as Venus and Lydia Thompson," he added humorously, "remain invisible until darkness comes and the ambulance arrives to convey you and your baggage."

"How am I to travel to Richmond, sir?"

"All your papers are in order, ma'am. You go in under this week's flag of truce along with about a dozen other lady-copperheads from New York, Baltimore and Washington, who have been arrested and expelled by our brutal government."

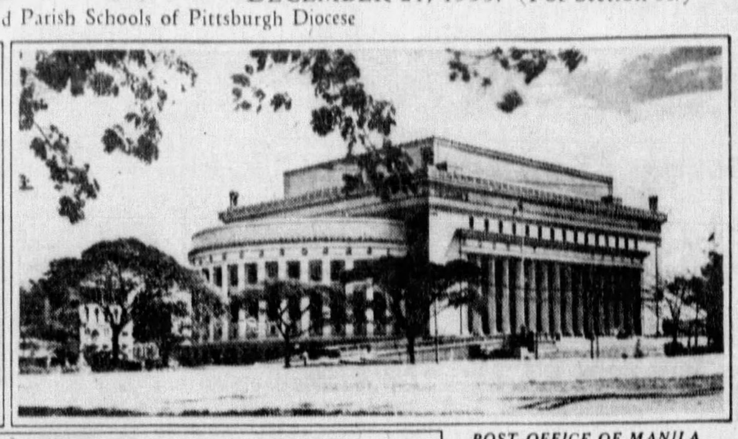
THE CONGRESS AT BERLIN (1878)

Representatives of European powers rearranging the Balkans after the Russo-Turkish War. In contrast to the rest of Europe of the second half of the Nineteenth Century, Russia was still under absolutism. Desirous of expanding southwest, she attacked Turkey. In the Crimean war (1854-1856) Russia was defeated by Great Britain, France and Italy, the allies of Turkey. In the Russo-Turkish war (1877-1878) victorious Russia forced the treaty of San Stefano on Turkey. European powers disapproved it, called a Congress of all interested nations at Berlin. This Congress voided the San Stefano treaty and deprived Russia of the fruits of victory. Several independent Balkan states were created, Cyprus placed under British administration, Bosnia-Herzegovina under Austria-Hungary. Turkey was put under obligation to guarantee civil rights of non-Mohammedans. The treaty of Berlin embittered the Slavish people against Germany and Austria-Hungary and was one of the causes of the later World War. (World Hist.)



POST OFFICE OF MANILA

Since the U. S. pacified the Philippines (115,000 sq. m., 13 million population), they progressed economically, culturally. The new post office at the capital is a recent achievement.

The Philippines have an elective legislature (house, senate); the Governor General is appointed by the President of the U. S. (Jones Act 1916.) The U. S. house resolved in 1932 to grant independence to the Philippines within eight years. The obstacles to this are partly economic. Filipinos are not citizens of the U. S.

SHAPING, FIRING—CHIEF OPERATIONS OF CERAMIC INDUSTRY

Above left: Brick press to shape clay; center: kiln to fire earthen ware in saggers (clay containers); right: car-tunnel kiln, 200-500 ft. long; loaded cars slowly reach hottest part for vitrification (fusing to a glass above 950°C.) then cool slowly by advancing toward the gradually colder discharge end.

Porcelain or China is vitrified mixture of kaolin (almost pure aluminum silicate $Al_2Si_2O_7.2H_2O$) and the more fusible feldspar ($KAlSi_3O_8$), moulded to shape, fired (bisque ware), dipped in glaze (quartz, feldspar, metallic oxides) again (glost) fired for impervious, glossy surface.

Bricks, tiles, stoneware are made chiefly from impure clay, a mixture of aluminum silicate, sand, Ca-Mg-carbonates, mica and iron oxides (giving color), fired below vitrification. Cheaper stonewares are glazed with salt (NaCl).

FISHES, SIMPLE VERTEBRATES

Anatomy of a bony fish. Vertebrates are animals having internal (endo-) skeletons—supporting and protecting structure—of true bones in contrast to the coverings (exo-skeletons) of the invertebrates.

In the lower fishes (sharks, rays) the endo-skeleton is composed of a firm, elastic tissue, cartilage. From the bony fishes to man most of the skeleton is ossified, transformed into bone by being impregnated with lime salts. Fishes have great economic importance as food and as raw material for manufacture of gelatine, glue, fertilizer. (General Science.)

SISTERS MEET IN DEATH CELL

A touching scene in "The Heart of Midlothian" by Walter Scott (1818).

Effie Deans, accused of the murder of her vanished son, is condemned to death. Her half-sister, Jeanie, wanders to London, to procure a pardon from the king. Banished, Effie elopes with her fiancee. Years afterward she reappears as Lady Staunton, wife of Sir George. The lost son is traced to a band of vagabonds. Sir George, attempting to capture the leader is shot by a youth, his own son.

Lady Staunton seeks forgetfulness in society life but, unsuccessful she enters a convent. (Engl. Literature.)

AIR CONDITIONING (GEN. SCIENCE)

An air conditioning plant for gas firing (above) furnishes filtered, heated air with proper moisture content. The average person inhales, 2,600 gallons (34 lbs.), of air in 24 hours against 5.5 lbs. consumed food. The importance of purity of air is evident. Filtering air eliminates dust, bacteria; adding moisture brings humidity to proper degree (about 50%). Lower humidity causes too much evaporation from skin with uncomfortable feeling of cold; higher humidity gives unhealthy dampness. Air conditioning takes care of all factors; connected to cooling plant gives relief in summer.

No Backs to the Wall

The other night we saw our first formal dinner dance. The dresses were backless in front. And frontless in back.

The famous Mme. Rubbitin tells us that the new styles call for beautiful backs. And the beauty parlors are specializing in seven coat treatments.

First, Mme. Rubbitin applies cleansing cream and massages that with a curry comb. Then salt water is applied until the victim comes up for the third time.

Then she is rolled over a barrel.

They polish her with pumice stone until they reach a high gloss.

After that a coat of floor wax is slapped on. In case the lady falls down the dancing can continue.

Don't think that's all. They're rouging spines this season. Each vertebrae is dabbed with lipstick. That's blended with a lighter rouge all over the back. The shoulder blades are toned down with blue shadows. By this time the lady looks like a memorial widow.

Finally, she is dusted off with a spray of powder, whitewashed and put in the sun to dry.

A couple of beauty spots are plastered on the vacant back by an expert circus billposter and the gal is ready for the dance.

That's what we call primping up. If the paint job turns out badly they send her back to the shop for two weeks.

How does the lady's husband prepare for the same formal affair? At the first alarm he grabs his hat, slides down the brass pole and hollers, "Let's go." Nobody's going to look at him anyway. All contract bridge experts are judging the cards by the backs this year.

Rouging the spine is a novelty. But it's better than putting a permanent wave in it. Those beauty experts are willing to try any experiment on anybody at any time.

Even with all the above filigree work and shellacking old censor Baer finds that the backs are still shamelessly nude. Modesty demands an extra layer of cellophane.

Slum Clearance

There Is Still Hope that Pittsburgh Will Get Decent Habitations for Its Unfortunates

For selfish personal reasons certain members of the State Senate saw fit to kill the slum eradication measures. In its usual cowardly fashion, the Senate killed these bills secretly in committee and not openly on the floor, where the Senators would be placed on record.

It is hard to refrain from bitterness when one reflects that but for the selfishness of a few politicians Pittsburgh would now be in position to tear down the insanitary ramshackle dwellings, breeding places of disease and crime, in which so many thousands of its unfortunates live, and replace them with decent houses.

The Kane limited dividend housing corporation bills, which the Senate smothered, would have paved the way for federal aid in this admirable project.

Fortunately the project, though stricken, has not been killed. Sidney A. Teller, director of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, proposes that unemployed men be put to work under the Civil Works Administration tearing down more than 100 houses that have been condemned. He also proposes that official advice be obtained from Washington.

The fight for decent habitations will go on.

A Profitable Session

The Legislature Left Much Undone that was Desirable, But Accomplished Worth While Things.

Disappointment over the Legislature's failure to enact housing legislation, minimum wage bills, and the Kane measure to abolish the coal and iron police, is mitigated by consideration of the worth while things accomplished.

Thanks to the brilliant parliamentary strategy of Darlington Hoopes, Socialist member of the House from Berks County, the Child Labor Amendment to the Federal Constitution seems certain at this writing to meet with Pennsylvania's approval. That in itself is sufficient to warrant calling the session a profitable one.

We are proud of the Allegheny County delegation, because of the solid support it gave Hoopes in his battle against the reactionaries who sought to strangle the Child Labor measure.

The chief purpose of the session, it is to be remembered, was to enact liquor legislation; and that job was well and promptly done.

Morals Improve, Too

It Would Be Interesting to Know Why People Are Better and Healthier This Year

John McNeil, warden of the County Jail, complains that he does not have enough prisoners to run the jail farm at Blawnox. The number of persons committed to jail so far this year is 3,000 less than the number committed during the corresponding period last year.

This brings to mind that we have also scored a remarkable gain in health. Pittsburgh's death rate and its sickness rate this year are lower than ever before.

The authorities seem to think that there is some connection between this improvement in health and morals and the business situation. Asked how they account for the decrease in jail commitments and the decrease in deaths and illness, they suggest that people do not have so much money to spend on riotous living as they formerly had. But that is not very convincing.

It would be interesting to know definitely and unmistakably. The knowledge might be put to good use.

Purer Air and Streams

Additional Meritorious Projects Are Assisted by the Civil Works Administration

While Pittsburgh has made little headway in its effort to obtain from the Public Works Administration at Washington the funds desired for such projects as flood control, we cannot complain of the treatment we have received from the Civil Works Administration.

The work of sealing abandoned coal mines, to protect our streams from the sulphuric acid discharged from such mines, will be formally inaugurated today. The CWA is putting up the money.

It is announced, too, that the Bureau of Smoke Regulation of the City Department of Health, has obtained, through the generosity of the Civil Works Administration, the services of 31 persons to help combat air pollution.

The CWA jobs, to be sure, will last only a few months; but they will enable us to get some important work done that we have long desired to do but were unable to finance.

It is said that Allegheny County and some of the local municipalities have not taken full advantage of the opportunities afforded by the CWA—that because of our slowness other places have obtained much larger appropriations and put many more men to work.

Let us make the most of this bonanza.

We are going to have to pay our full share of the cost.

Father Lambing

A Distinguished Local Priest Is Happily Remembered in Connection With a Coming Convention.

The American Catholic Historical Association is to hold its fourteenth annual meeting in Pittsburgh next week.

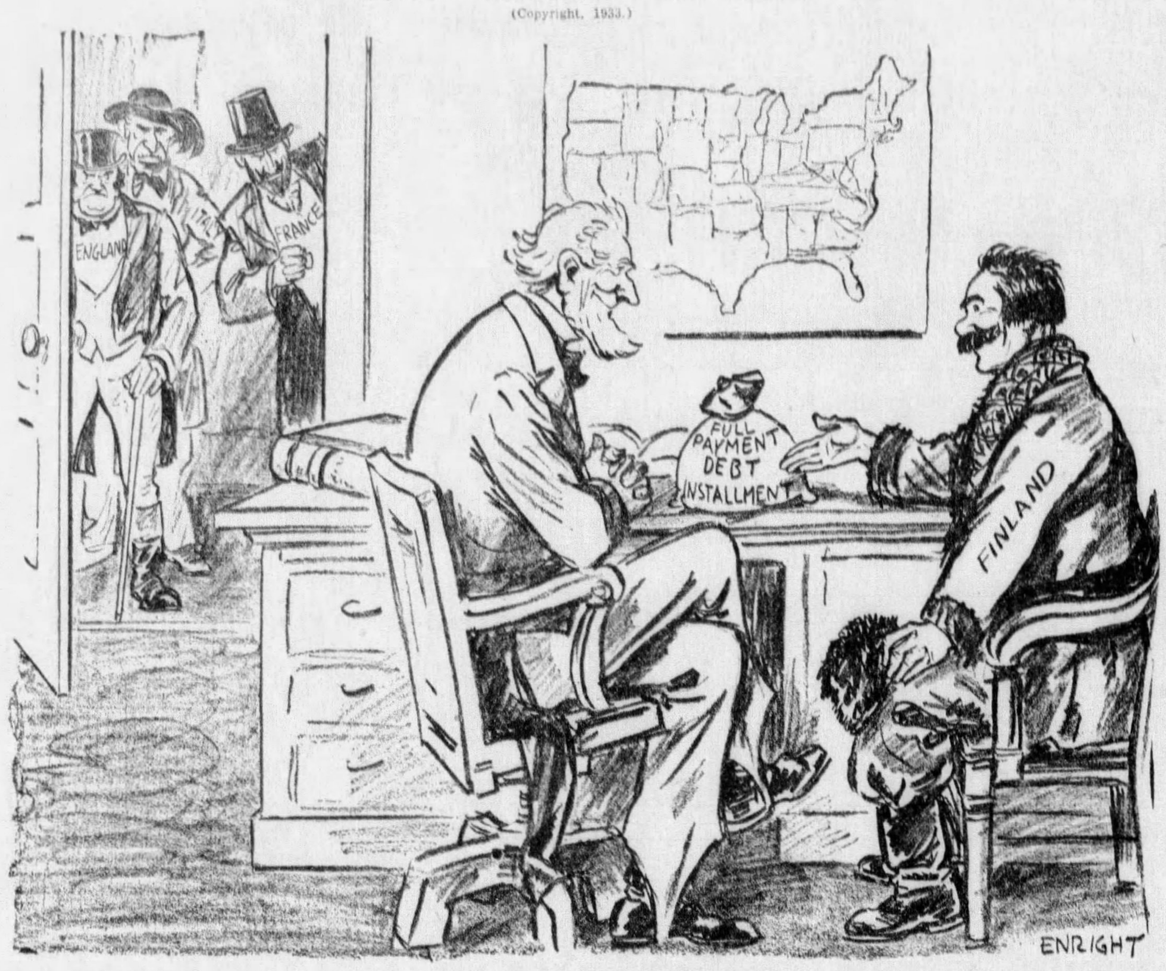
The magazine America appropriately publishes an article about the late Father Andrew A. Lambing, the distinguished priest who contributed so much to our knowledge of local history.

Father Lambing is very happily remembered in connection with the approaching convention; for he was a pioneer in the study of the history of this region. A descendant of people who settled in Western Pennsylvania in the Eighteenth Century, he took a keen interest in discovering and recording the story of the development of this section.

His "History of the Catholic Church in the Dioceses of Pittsburgh and Allegheny" is an authoritative work.

The Honest Debtor

(Copyright, 1933.)



Paying one's honest debts appears to be Finland's national habit.

Finland is only one of the European nations that borrowed money from Uncle Sam when in great need. Of the huge totals borrowed Uncle Sam wiped an enormous portion off the books, and his "grateful" debtors promised faithfully to pay the balance punctiliously.

What is the record? France has repeatedly defaulted. Britain and Italy have made "token" payments—acknowledging the debt, but paying as little as possible and keeping up the debt cancellation propaganda.

But Finland comes forward each time an installment is due and PAYS IN FULL.

If anybody says that Finland's payments are relatively not large let him remember that Finland is a small country.

In actual fact Finland's honest payments are VERY LARGE when the resources of Finland are compared to the resources of defaulting France.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Jed Harris, after total eclipse, is again preening his feathers in a peacock swagger along the Rialto. Six years ago, his sudden upshoot was the most spectacular skyrocketing on the horizon. But like all such rockets, he dropped with a dull plink.

A vain, dapper fellow, stuffed with charming egotism, his explosive capers provided much newspaper copy. But his talent for producing could not be laughed off. He produced hit after hit of artistic merit. His marginal profits in Wall street speculations often amounted to $20,000 a day.

He pounded his desk, grew amusing beards, deflated actors and went on temperamental rampages that left him white and shaking. Then a couple of flops in a row, the market collapse and he zipped out like a light. There were stories of him slinking gaunt-eyed along side streets at night.

Just as suddenly this season he popped up with a sturdy hit. His pyrotechnics sent one outraged British actor up the gang plank in a pet the day before his opening. Harris, exerting the docility of his kind when licked, retrieved him. And the show went on. Whatever his Fate, he gives vigor to his calling.

The smartest in dog shops has opened on a flossy reach of upper Madison. A facade in modern decor, the interior is without cages. The dogs are on generous chains spiked to a rubberized platform against a background of mirrors. In the center is a squared pit of mosaic with cushioned divans upon which customers sit as pets parade before them. A sanitary system of flushing makes the shop practically odorless. The establishment gives a 30-day health guarantee with each dog.

Willem Van Loon, most distinguished of the writers incubated in the Village waffle shops, is a restless litterateur. Any day he is likely to slam down the lid of typewriter and be off to some foreign port. In America, he sighs for his native Holland, but, when he lands there, America seems to him the promised land. He does not remain long wherever he goes—but is usually on the wing.

I recall being tremendously impressed when the new Waldorf was being flung up to the sky that the architectural plans called for a siding upon which private railroad cars might be shunted from the Grand Central to the inn's doorway. That struck me as over-the-river swank. And along came the world upset and I heard no more about it. I must run across the street some day and ask Lucius Boomer if any guest ever arrived in such royal fashion.

Natacha Rambova has become, the rumors rumor, the most popular American in Mallorca, from whence nearly all Americans save her have died. She managed very skillfully to keep out of the imbroglio that involved so many of her countrymen, many of whom were very shabbily treated. Miss Rambova went to no teas and mingled solely with native folk.

Julia Marlowe's grief for the passing of E. H. Sothern was inconsolable. For days she sat at a hotel window overlooking Central Park in a dry-eyed daze. Until they took up a permanent residence in Luxor, Egypt, they resided intermittently several floors above in our building. His courtliness toward her in elevators and on way to their carriage had the tender gallantry of their stage Romeo and Juliet. In the servant halls it was told how they used to sit at a window in softened melancholy watching the sun go down, holding hands.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Have you ever thought about how you impress your children?

Do you realize that your children are studying you and making deductions that may be far from what you imagine constitutes their impressions of you?

With a child's limited vocabulary it might be hard to express in words what he thinks of your motives and your actions.

But the thought, the action, and a child's interpretation are vivid.

Parents are very often surprised at how they have been misunderstood.

Sometimes the child's interpretation of the parent's action is truer than anything that the parents could offer to excuse themselves.

And the worst of it is that the false impressions of childhood are very often lasting.

As people grow older they become more and more sophisticated and less and less able to see the plain unvarnished truth about themselves.

Child language may be inadequate, but children instinctively read the parent's mind.

They are not critical—they may only accept conditions as true.

But they do not forget impressions and as they grow older, they learn to know the answer to the things they have observed but could not understand in early years.

Be sincere with children—whatever you do—and they will respect you.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Close the Door

My boy would have been 29 today. His birthday.

There were years when I couldn't take it. I'd lock the office—go away—lose myself somewhere.

Then for days I'd be half dead. Useless to anyone. Worse than that—as real a menace to healthy, happy lives as any typhoid carrier.

Queer—how viciously selfish we can become in grief; and what abominations we commit in the name of love!

But I couldn't see that. We never can at first. Then, sometimes, we don't want to. Grief becomes such a convenient hideout. But after a while, if there's any decency in us, we wake up—crawl out of it—try to find some better way to take it.

And so, I don't go away any more when my boy's birthday comes around. I have learned long since that I can't forget. That Time brings no healing. And, of course, I wouldn't want to forget. I wouldn't want to be healed.

But the hurt is nobody's business but my own. I mustn't let it be anyone else's business.

Yet how can I keep it away from other lives?

That's simple enough—if I once WANT to do it.

I can walk into my office. I can close the door.

AND WHEN I CLOSE THAT DOOR, I CAN DELIBERATELY LEAVE MYSELF OUTSIDE.

I can leave my personal hopes and worries, my humiliations and tragedies, outside that door, just as surely as I can leave my bedroom slippers and bathrobe in my room at home.

I wouldn't wear those peculiarly personal garments in my living room, meeting my friends, or when I go shopping in the market. I wouldn't dream of wearing them to my place of work. To do so would be the height of bad taste. I'd seem as outlandish as a naked Zulu parading Broadway in a nose ring.

BUT IT'S EQUALLY BAD TASTE — EQUALLY UNCIVILIZED—TO PARADE BEFORE THE WORLD IN THE NAKEDNESS OF PERSONAL GRIEF.

So I close the door, and I go to work.

* * *

I close the door on ME.

I lock out the Self that is Elsie Robinson, her private life, her private tears and fears. And another self sits down at the typewriter—a larger, impersonal Self who is part of all the tears and laughter, the hopes and fears of the world.

And the hours pass—and the work is done—and presently I have earned the right to go back to myself again, to my own thoughts—honorably.

* * *

Why am I telling you all this about my experience?

I am telling it to you because it isn't MY experience. It is the experience of every growing soul who has ever dared to live and love. To each one of us comes this problem of enduring our own pain. And, strangely enough, we can find no rules.

There are rules for doing everything else on earth. But where can one find instructions in etiquette for the Broken Hearted? Yet any heart that's worth while must inevitably be broken—many times. But how is one to take it—still keep on with the game—not mess up things for the other fellow? Is it possible?

It is. I don't know how it's possible, but I do know that there is a power in each one of us by which we can, IF WE WISH, shut off the personal Self from the larger, impersonal functioning.

It isn't a forgetting. It isn't a toughening. It's something even greater than self-control. It is a strange, spiritual power to pass from one self to the other—AND CLOSE THE DOOR BETWEEN.

That power is in all of us. It's the thing that underlies our dream of civilization. It's the force that makes every brave and unselfish deed possible.

A tired mother, choking down her longing for "a little fun," bending to comfort a whimpering child—a weary father, turning away from the football crowd, buying shoes for little Bill with football money — a half-mad revolutionist, making his impassioned plea for the under dog, though he knows that it will hurl him into a cell—Socrates, smiling over the hemlock—Jesus, crying "Forgive them!" on a cross—

They all CLOSED THE DOOR—LEFT BEHIND THEIR OWN HEARTACHE—TOOK UP THE GREATER JOB!

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Love

It flows through all life's plain or secret way,
It rings in notes of meadow larks at dawn,
It casts its glory down the darkened maze
Of hearts forsaken, when all else is gone.
It stirs the pulses with the breath of spring,
Its echoes flood December days with song,
For even the memories of its splendor bring
A swelling tide of rapture, sweet and strong.

It does not pass the feeble or the old,
And it can thrive for lowly folk and poor;
Untouched by tropic heat or arctic cold,
Through strange vicissitudes it can endure.
Down all life's avenues its forces move,
And, lacking better name, men call it love!

Human Side of the News

Strange Phenomena Are Described in Charles Fort's Book, 'Wild Talents'

By Edwin C. Hill

NOT even the observation of a Holmes or the acumen of a Dr. Joseph Bell could supply, one feels, a key to the mysteries contained in countless numbers in Charles Fort's extraordinary book, "Wild Talents." The wild talents Mr. Fort alludes to are what he believes to be the latent, magical powers of the human mind, powers that have been neglected or imperfectly controlled.

These wild talents, growing in the mind like weeds, have been responsible, he assumes, for innumerable mysteries of accident or crime; for occurrences which have been utterly baffling to the public and to the police. He assumes that some persons, perhaps far more than one might think likely, possess mental powers akin to witchcraft. In fact, he does not hesitate to use the dubious term. He has spent a lifetime gleaning from the welter of life thousands of startling, incredible, inexplicable incidents, for which he can find no other possible explanation than that which might lie in the power of mind over matter.

He tells the strange story of the 96-pound woman who could not be moved an inch by the united efforts of six strong men; of the man they could not crucify; of the dog they could not lose; of the man they could not shoot; of the man they could not drown, and strangest of all, of the man they could not hang.

The Strange Case Of John Lee

On the 23rd of February, in the year 1895, John Lee, a laborer, who had murdered an old woman for her money, was led from his cell in the penitentiary at Exeter, England, to be hanged. They draped the hangman's noose around his neck and stood him on the trap door of the scaffold. Scores of witnesses stood by, strained and silent in the imminency of violent death. The Sheriff of Exeter, representing British law, waved his hand. The bolt was drawn—but the trapdoor did not fall. John Lee stood there, with the noose around his neck.

It was annoying, embarrassing, unreasonable. They tinkered with the bolt and investigated the trapdoor. Everything was in perfect order. Once more the Sheriff of Exeter waved his hand. Once more the bolt was drawn. And once more John Lee stood upon the immovable trapdoor, unharmed. The Sheriff ordered him back to his cell.

Angry and upset, the Sheriff called upon a warder to stand upon the trapdoor, not, of course, with a noose around his neck, but with his hands clinging to the rope. The bolt was drawn. The door fell and down dropped the warder as he should have dropped, as John Lee should have dropped.

And again they led John Lee from his cell in the old stone prison back to the bleak, stark scaffold. For the third time the Sheriff of Exeter raised his hand as a signal for the bolt securing the trapdoor to be drawn. The bolt was drawn, easily and smoothly. But the trapdoor did not fall. John Lee still stood unhangable.

* * *

The Sheriff Gives Up

DRIVEN now to empurpled obstinacy, feeling somehow that the sanctity of the law was being made a jest of, the Sheriff tried it again, for the fourth and last time. He waved his hand. The bolt was drawn. The trapdoor, half an inch of oak between John Lee, the murderer, and the death decreed, stood as fixed and immovable as solid rock.

The Sheriff gave it up. The Home Secretary took it up. The matter was debated in the House of Commons. But execution was not attempted again. Lee's sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life, and after a few years, and nobody quite knows why, he was turned loose.

Are there, indeed, such latent powers, primitive, animal powers, that can defy the laws of space and matter? The record is certainly startling: the woman they could not move, the man they could not drown, the man they could not shoot, the man they could not hang.

Foolish Governors Ruin National Guard Morale

By James T. Williams, Jr.

UNLESS the misuse of the National Guard as a political fetch and carry for willowy governors is soon stopped, these governors may wake up some morning to find that the federal government has withdrawn recognition from the National Guard of the states thus afflicted.

Withdrawal of federal recognition would mean the loss of 69 per cent of the funds upon which the National Guard now depends for support. For, contrary to widespread belief, the states are now putting up only 31 per cent of the total cost of the Guard, and the politicians who get appointments as adjutants-general are more and more dictating the terms of National Guard legislation.

If the office of adjutant-general were abolished and the National Guard of each state commanded as it ought to be by the highest ranking officer, selected after a strict series of tests uninfluenced by political considerations, the morale of the Guard would be tremendously increased, and its effectiveness as an auxiliary of the Regular Army and as an arm of the national defense would be tremendously strengthened.

One of the most flagrant instances of the misuse of the National Guard appears in the state of Oklahoma. Under Gov. Murray the Guard has been sent hither and thither on all sorts of petty errands for which federal funds should never be used and to which the officers and men of the National Guard should never be subjected.

* * *

Called to Guard Football Tickets

TWENTY-ONE times during the last three years Gov. Murray has ordered out the National Guard. He ordered it out the other day to take charge of the football tickets at a game played in the stadium of the University of Oklahoma at Norman. In so doing, he subjected the Guard to the ridicule of that whole section.

On November 28, 1932, he ordered out the National Guard to free a man from jail because he refused to pay alimony. Earlier in the current year he ordered out the Guard to enforce the closing of a bank in compliance with a bank holiday proclamation.

In fact the promiscuous use of the Guard by Gov. Murray on errands for which it was never intended and for which federal funds and federal property ought never to be used has degenerated in the last three years into a political racket of which the whole American people are paying 69 per cent of the cost.

But Oklahoma is not the only offender. The circumstances under which the National Guard was ordered out in the state of Maryland the other day leaves much to be desired. The Guard was sent to make arrests which ought to have been made either by the local police or the state constabulary. And the Guard was sent under such instructions that it was unable to protect the sovereignty of the state.

In Missouri the Guard was ordered out the other day, tanks and all, but its marching orders prohibited the use of tanks or other weapons, with the result that the show of force subjected the Guard to public derision.

* * *

Misuse of Guard In Georgia

IN Georgia a few months ago the Guard was ordered out to protect the state house where the Governor was involved in a political quarrel with the highway authorities.

This misuse of the Guard by governors who flinch from declaring martial law, when martial law ought to be declared, and by governors who refuse to require their legislatures to provide a state constabulary to do the police work of the state, is lowering the morale of the Guard in many parts of the country. This fact is beginning to dawn upon the officers and men of the Guard who did not join it for any such purpose.

These officers and men who make up between 80 and 90 per cent of the Guard's strength deeply resent its misuse as a political fetch and carry. They are chafing under the rule of political adjutants-general and in due time they will make their resentment felt.

Meantime the President and Congress have it within their power to protect the National Guard from further misuse by offending governors. The President can withdraw federal recognition from the Guard of any state where the Governor uses it except to enforce martial law.

The Congress can amend the National Defense Act so as to provide that federal recognition shall be extended only to the National Guard of those states which agree to use it only to enforce martial law and provide for an adequate constabulary to perform the police work of the state.
